

Fogdall Writes Discipline Yarn

Virgil S. Fogdall, director of men's affairs, is the author of "The Status of the Discipline Code in Colleges and Universities of the Pacific Northwest" in the current issue of Northwest College Personnel Association Newsletter, a quarterly magazine.

The article analyzes three main problems in connection with the discipline code: (1) Administrative organization for handling discipline; (2) code provisions for discipline cases; and (3) the principles underlying the code.

Fogdall is also the author of two other personnel publications: "Some Tips for Scholastic Success at the University of Oregon" and "Ten Areas to Explore in Choosing a Vocation." These pamphlets are designed to aid students and are available in Fogdall's office, Emerald hall.

Welles Movie Set For Showing

Orson Welles' movie, "Citizen Kane," will be shown tonight at 7 in 207 Chapman. There will be two showings, and no admission is charged, said Don Hunter, head of audio-visual department.

The film created a big stir in Hollywood when it was first released. It uses radical devices in story telling, lighting, camera and set handling.

"Citizen Kane" tells the story of a man with a passionate desire for power. The story of how he gains power over lives and money, and how he tries to live as a god with these acquired fortunes is told through the eyes of his friends and enemies.

The audience's understanding of the character is complete when the final scene gives the clue to the psychological reasons for his actions.

Thespians Give Class Recital

Four scenes from famous plays and one complete one-act play will be given tonight at 7:30 in Guild theater, Johnson hall, by the technique of acting classes under the direction of Horace W. Robinson and Charles B. Ingram. No admission is charged, and the performance is open to the public.

The scenes presented will be from "Payment Deferred," with Pat Laxton, Wayne Sherwood, and Betty Zollinger; "Waiting for Lefty" featuring Linda Pedron and Bob Hinz, "Summer and Smoke" with Gordon Erickson, Grace Hoffamn, and Rowena Renaud; and "The Silver Cord" with Sally Nicol, Claire Lewis, and Louise Clouston.

The cast for the one-act play "Fumed Oak" will include Don Dimick, Dorothy Madden, Phyllis Nelson, and Lucille Olson.

These scenes are given as a class recitation for the technique classes, and two are given each term.

Lutheran Students

Lutheran students will meet for an informal discussion on "The Work of the Holy Spirit" at 4 p. m. in Luther house.

Obstacles Aired

under pressure from the "certain factions."

Residents of the area are attempting to make their property more accessible (it is now cut off by Franklin boulevard, which has only one turn-off at Agate street) before granting easements on the race.

William Tugman, publisher of the Eugene Register-Guard, declared that "if it" (the boulevard property) is going to be botched up with junk yards, I would vote for making it a heavy industrial area, lacing it with switch tracks, and using the millrace for a sewer!" Mr. Tugman, speaking more seriously, expressed his desire to see the race—"where your kids and mine learned to swim"—restored to its former beauty, rather than see the area become industrialized.

A new drive for aid, assurance, and the subsequent granting of easements along the boulevard was proposed by association members. A meeting of the city council committee dealing with the race has been scheduled for tonight; both members of the association and representatives of the Franklin boulevard faction will attend the meeting in an attempt to bring about action on the attempted "freeze-out" of boulevard residents.

D. T. Bayly, local attorney, is handling the easements for the association. He explained that an easement would "grant use of the race bed itself on the condition that water be kept in it." No land on either side of the race would be included in the easement.

Speaking of the formation of the association, Dr. M. V. Walker, president, recalled that "the association was founded about two years ago by Keith Fennell when it became apparent that the city council was going to let the millrace remain a ditch, filled with weeds, through the city."

After being formed, the association raised $10,000 and proceeded to make engineering surveys of the situation. Three plans were presented by the engineers, and a gravity-flow plan was adopted. Then last May, Eugene voters approved the $20,000 bond to restore the race. Another survey was made, and this second survey, approved by the city council, recommended the use of pumps to bring water into the race.

If easements of the Franklin boulevard portion of the race can not be obtained, the water may be diverted into the race at the Anchorage, rather than the head of the race. However, persons attending the meeting expressed the belief that easements can be obtained from all along pending the settlement of complaints by western property owners.

In reference to the western area, Robert Prescott, local realtor, expressed hope that the area might become, with the restoration of the race, a residential park accomodating two or three thousand persons.

"This would pump a lot of taxes into the community blood stream," ventured Prescott, "while on the other hand, the worst use of this land may be made if conditions continue as they are." Prescott also observed that sites for fraternity and sorority houses would be available in the area, which covers about forty acres.

Housemothers Asked

All housemothers on the campus are invited to a supper party at 5:30 at the YWCA, announced Nancy Beltz, chairman of the social committee of the Y. The party is sponsored by the social committee and is intended to honor housemothers and give them a chance to socially meet together.
