BA Student Hurt Sunday in Collision

Robert Zollner, senior in business administration, suffered minor injuries in an automobile accident, Sunday afternoon. The Eugene police report said that Zollner was attempting to pass a car driven by Charles E. Davis, Cheshire, and didn't see an oncoming car. Zollner's vehicle skidded about 120 feet before colliding with Davis.

Zollner's car was nearly a total loss while damage to Davis' car was estimated at $400. Zollner had stitches taken in a cut over his eye at the Eugene hospital but otherwise was only "shaken up" from the accident. Davis received minor lacerations.

Bankers Allowed Another Holliday

SALEM, Feb. 21 —(AP)—Rep. Harvey Wells, Portland, told the house today why he voted for the bill to let banks close on Saturdays.

He said he got a big valentine signed by hundreds of girls employed in Portland banks. On the valentine was this poem:

Roses are red
Violets are blue
Close banks on Saturday
And we will love you.

There was only one vote against the bill.

I-M Moves

The titleholders have a smooth operating fast break as well as a well lubricated setup offense which moves in from either side of the key for layins.

To stem this brilliant attack, the ATOs only have the floor generaling of Ed Chrobot, which leaves the odds about 5-to-1.

Cast Rehearses For New Play

Rehearsals are now in progress for the next University theater production, "Command Decision," which is under the direction of Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt and will open March 4.

A forcibly written and shrewdly constructed drama, "Command Decision" deals with the responsibility of a commanding officer who must send his men on a suicidal mission to destroy a jet bomb factory.

The cast includes a tough sergeant, a cynical war correspondent, two junketing congressmen full of patriotism and corruption, a disillusioned general, and a flier who persuades his best friend to send him out to lead the climactic mission and goes down heroically.

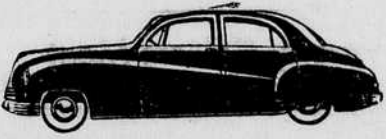

William Wister Haines, who spent 41 months in the air force himself, began to write "Command Decision" on V-J Day. In book form it made the best-seller lists, and it was a smash hit when produced on Broadway in 1947.
