Millrace Fill Continues

Red Cross Campaign This Week

Officially underway since yesterday, the Red Cross campus drive will furnish much activity during this week, promised Sally Waller.

Today, student luncheon and dinner speakers will appear at living organizations.

Contributions may be made to booths in the Co-op and to representatives in each student living organization.

All Students Included

Off-campus students are being reached through special effort this year, said Miss Waller. Attempts will be made also to show veterans the benefits they may receive through the Red Cross.

Entertainment plans are in progress for a program in front of the library Friday, according to promotion chairman, Norm Morrison.

Nationally, the drive begins today.

No Goal as Yet

No definite goal has been set for 1949 campus Red Cross drive but Drive Chairman Sally Waller said yesterday that in consideration of benefits received by University students there should be 100 per cent contribution.

Campus aid is primarily to veterans. Red Cross chapter home service workers assisted veterans in countless problems last year from emergency financial aid for food and rent to counseling and guidance, according to Mrs. Cora Pirtle, director of the Lane County chapter.

The girls who "posed pretty" for photographer Kirk Braun are Carol Irvine and Dulcy Renne. Both girls live at Susan Campbell hall.

'Race Association To Gather Tonight

Even as the Eugene Register-Guard carried news of a "gentleman's agreement" concerning the filling of the millrace by Koke-Chapman company, dirt was being dumped into the race adjacent to the company's property on Broadway avenue.

Keith Fennell, millrace association officer, had "no comment" to make on the continued filling of the race by the company, which plans eventually to build on the site.

Although Koke-Chapman plans to run a pipe under the fill, thereby enabling millrace waters to pass, ASUO President Bob Allen has stated that "if Koke-Chapman isn't stopped, then other property owners up and down the Millrace will also be able to fill in." Allen pointed out that not all property owners may put pipes under their fills, as Koke-Chapman has done, which would definitely put a stop to restoration plans.

Elaborating on his "no comment," Fennell ventured that there may be news later in the week. Association officers will meet tonight to discuss the situation.

Oregon Men Place In Harangue Contest

Fred Risser and Jim Tucker, stormed through 41 two-man debate teams to tie for second place with Oregon State College in the junior men's debate division at the Linfield Invitational tourney, last Friday and Saturday.

Weber College, of Ogden, Utah, captured first place in this division of the tourney, which included 30 universities and colleges from all over the west.

'Macbeth' Play Road Company Presents Show In Mac Court

Reserved seat tickets are going rapidly for "Macbeth," which will play in Mac court tomorrow evening at 8:30. General admission tickets, 60 cents for students, and $1.20 for adults, will go on sale at the door of the igloo tomorrow night at 7:30.

The Johnson hall box office, open from 10 to 12, and 1 to 5, is receiving requests from high school groups, as well as adults, for bloc seating at the Margaret Webster production.

Miss Webster has been acclaimed the finest Shakespearean director of the contemporary American stage. This is the first time she has taken one of her plays off Broadway and on a tour of the country. John Holland and Carol Goodner head the cast with Alfred Ryder.

The professional company travels by specially constructed bus with a full size wardrobe room. The intricate set for "Macbeth" has been constructed so it can be set up in one hour.

A LOYAL SERVANT of the Red Cross offers a dollar bill to Renee Johns, freshman in liberal arts, and Jim Cusick, sophomore in business, to show that the money contributed on this campus stays here to benefit students.

Freshmen Plan Post-Game Hop

University freshmen will play host to students from both the Eugene and Corvallis campuses with a post-game Basket "Ball" Friday night.

Slated to take place in Gerlinger annex after the UO-OSC game, the dance will be the only freshman class event this term. Tickets for the dance, a date affair, will be 50-cents per couple. Freshman representatives of living organizations will handle tickets, and tickets will be available at the door.

The dance, which was planned by the new freshman council, is the first in a proposed series of social events.

All Oregon State students invited to the dance.

AP Correspondent In Talk Thursday

A veteran press association correspondent who's been in Japan since the first day of American occupation will speak on the campus this week.

He's Duane "Spike" Hennessey, for 42 months an AP reporter, will speak on "The Last Time I Saw Tokyo" in room 105, McClure, at 4 p.m., Thursday. The talk is sponsored by the University chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Weather . . .

Rain will probably come back into the picture tomorrow. The weatherman says that we are in for partly cloudy skies, and that we may possibly have a few showers during the day. The temperature is expected to rise to 53.
