Southern Bloc Hopes To Prevent Filibuster

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) Southern Democrats tonight claimed a whopping majority to beat down an expected administration-backed attempt to choke off their five-day filibuster in the senate.

Senator Russell (D-Ga) told a reporter that a private poll taken by the southerners indicates they have 58 votes.

All they need is 49 votes, a simple majority, to override an expected ruling by vice president Barkley in favor of ending the debate quickly.

"We have enough votes to defeat the effort to break the filibuster against this proposed rules change," Russell said at a late hour.

An associated press survey showed the southern bloc gaining support, but less heavily than Russell claimed.

Latest AP figures showed 43 senators—24 democrats and 19 republicans—on record as saying they will vote "no" on efforts to gag the debate by a possible ruling from the chair.

Nineteen senators — 16 Democrats and 3 republicans—said they would vote "yes."

Orchestra Set For Next Show

Piano and harp solos will be featured at the University Symphony orchestra concert Tuesday night, March 8, 8:15 p.m. in the school of music auditorium.

Featured pianist in Mozart's "Concerto No. 17 in G Major" will be Sylvia Killman, graduate student in music from Portland. Solo parts in "Dances for Harp and Strings" by Debussy will be performed on the harp by Doris Helen Calkins, instructor in harp from Eugene.

Other numbers included in the evening's program will be "Academic Festival Overture" by Brahms and "Symphony No. 8 in F Major, Opus 93" by Beethoven.

Dr. Edmund A. Cyckler, associate professor of musicology will direct the 70-piece orchestra.

Omer to Speak On Cosmology Monday Night

Dr. Guy C. Omer, assistant professor of physics, will speak on "Cosmology, the Physics of the Universe" Monday, March 7, at 8 p.m. in 103 Deady.

The lecture, being sponsored by Sigma Psi, national science honorary, will be open to all students and general public, according to word received from Dr. E. G. Eb-bighausen, associate professor of physics.

Cosmology, which is the study of the properties and structure of the universe, has received much public attention recently with the installation of the 200-inch telescope atop Mt. Palomar.

One of the reasons construction of the huge instrument was undertaken was to implement study in this field. Scientists hope it will aid them in determining whether the universe is finite, whether the nebulae are receding, as has been theorized.

Dr. Omer came to Oregon last fall from the California Institute of Technology, where he worked with the eminent cosmologist, Dr. Richard Tolman.
