

'Females Only' Says Rush Inn On First Campus Women's Day

Today is women's day on the Oregon campus, and Rush Inn, popular campus eating place, is barring its doors to men from 9 to 11 this morning, and turning the whole place, pin-ball machines and all, over to the girls.

H. O. Rush, owner and manager, was skeptical of the idea when first approached last term, but decided to give it a try. A full staff of male helpers is expected to be on hand.

This is just one of the ways that the campus is celebrating its first women's day, and hopes to make it, Rush Inn and all, an annual affair, according to Leslie Tooze, entertainment chairman, who made the arrangements.

Rush, who first came to Eugene as Sergeant Rush of the U. S. Army, was manager of the Falcon before opening his restaurant on Thirteenth several years ago.

Final Date Set For Annual UO Poetry Contest

The final date for submitting material in the annual poetry competitions sponsored by the English department of the University of Oregon has been set for Monday, May 2.

The Julia Burgess award, open to upper division students, carries with it a cash prize of $25 for the best poem submitted. The Walter E. Kidd award of $15 is offered for lower division students, for the work judged best in this field. The contest is open to all regularly enrolled students of the University, Dr. Philip W. Souers, head of the English department, announced.

There is no restriction as to subject matter, but if short lyrics are submitted as a unit, not more than five or less than three should be entered.

Material should be typed in triplicate, and enclosed in a manila envelope marked outside with the titles of entries and for which award intended.

The name of the author should be enclosed separately in a sealed envelope together with the titles of poems submitted.

Enrollment Total Up

Spring term enrollment jumped 461 yesterday as registration climbed to 4885 students.

Registration is costing more and more each day, with the $1 daily late fees mounting up until April 9, the absolute deadline for adding classes.

CAC Mystery Bewilders Students

By Larry Meiser
Is it a Communist infiltration of the Oregon campus? Can it be a new political party? Or is it a rival to Lucky BOCK which came March 14? CAC is coming to the University, posters reveal, and as a public service the Emerald interviewed several students yesterday in an effort to solve the puzzle of just what CAC does stand for.

Beth Coleman is sure that it means Camels Are Coming, while Elwin Paxin, apparently more conscious of the subversive influence, says that the Coalitionists' Arson Club is coming.

Last Day for Vets To Sign Cards

Today marks the deadline for veteran students to sign pledge cards at the registrar's office, according to Assistant Registrar J. D. Kline.

All veterans who have not signed cards by 5 p. m. today will be presumed not in school and discontinued from training at government expense.

"Any veteran can tell whether or not he has signed this card simply by looking at his veteran's identification card," Kline said.

If he has signed, the stamp of the registrar's office will appear in the upper right-hand corner."

Cycle Accident Injures Student

John O. Page, University of Oregon student from Bend, received a brain concussion, a cut on the scalp, and a dislocated shoulder when his motorcycle hit a hole on Highway 58 near Oakridge about 7:45 Monday night.

His condition was given as "improving" by his attending physician at Sacred Heart hospital where he was taken for treatment.

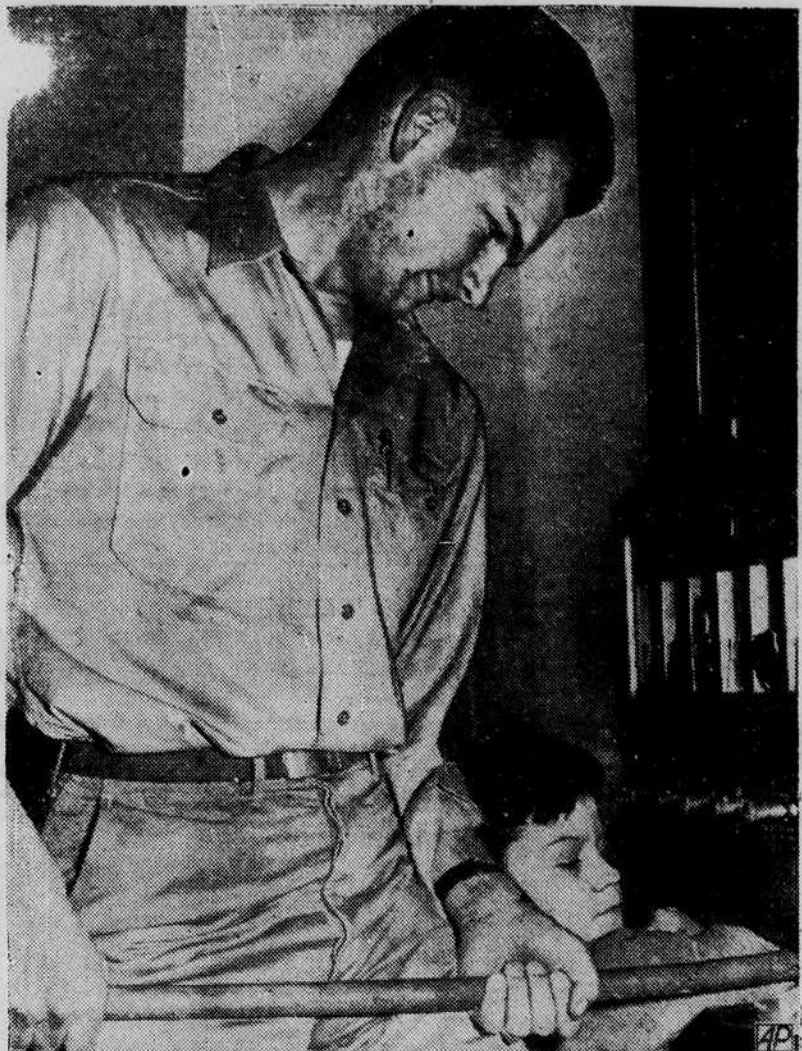

State police found Page shortly after the accident lying in the middle of the highway. He was taken to Oakridge clinic for emergency first aid before being moved by ambulance to Sacred Heart receiving ward.

Page, a freshman in liberal arts, was returning to school when the accident occurred.

Weather . . .

Partly cloudy with morning fog.

Sweet Tooth

BRIAN KEMPNER'S sweet tooth got the best of him when the 9-year-old tried for a candy bar the hard way and got his arm stuck up to the elbow in a dispensing machine at Macalester college, St. Paul, Minn. He wears a worried look as Douglas Fowler uses a length of pipe to free him. (AP Wire Photo)

Women's Organizations Install Officers Tonight

New officers of three campus women's organizations, AWS, YWCA, and WAA, will be installed tonight, 7 p. m., in ceremonies at Gerlinger's Alumni hall.

Officers of campus living organizations have been invited to attend the installation, which will conclude campus women's day activities.

ROTC Will Parade In Army Celebration

The University ROTC will observe Army day on April 9 by strutting their stuff in downtown Eugene. According to Captain W. A. Koch, the plan of operation for the parade has not been definitely established, but he believes the reserve units in this area will share the spotlight with the fledgling reserve officers.

AWS officers to be installed are Marie Lombard, president; Mildred Chetty, vice-president; Anne Case, secretary; Eve Overback, treasurer; Betty Simpson, reporter; and Marian Christenson, sergeant-at-arms.

New YWCA officers will be Billie Jean Reithmiller, president; Velma Snellstrom, vice-president; Maggie Johns, second vice-president; Joanne O'Neill Foulon, secretary; Margie Petersen, treasurer; Barbara Metcalf, sophomore commission chairman; Anita Frost, vice-chairman; Helen Caldwell, upper class commission chairman; Leona Kohler, luncheon club chairman; Pat Williams and Delores Jeppson, international affairs and foreign students; Barbara Ness, public affairs; Lou Weston, religion and worship; Jackie Barbee, public relations; June Fitzgibbons, news; Marilyn Thompson, flying speech; Jean Burgess, posters; Jean Armstrong and Beverly Buckley, service; Shirley Potter, social; Shirley Hillard, conference; and Lillian Schott, house.

WAA will install Bonnie Geinger, president; Joan Carr, vice-president; Lilly Kobayashi, secretary; Mary Myers, treasurer; Elizabeth Erlandson, sergeant-at-arms; and Leslie Tooze, custodian.

Women's exchange dinners will precede the alumni hall ceremonies.

Recital And Concert Set For Friday

Artists of the Minneapolis symphony orchestra, conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, will give a special recital Friday afternoon, April 8, in addition to the full concert scheduled the same night.

Students and faculty members will be admitted free of charge to the afternoon recital, by obtaining tickets at the educational activities office. Thursday morning April 7. One ticket per person will be given upon presentation of registration cards.

The special performance, to be held in the music school auditorium from 4:15 to 5:15 p.m. Friday, is headed by Louis Krasner, concert master of the Minneapolis orchestra. Dimitri Mitropoulos will conduct this chamber music ensemble, composed of members of the symphony.

Two compositions will be played by the musicians. The recital was arranged by Arnold Elston, associate professor of music, and financed by the educational activities board.

No outsiders will be admitted, due to the small capacity of the music school auditorium.

ASUO Officer Condition 'Poor'

Marv Rasmussen, ASUO first vice-president who was seriously injured in an auto crash last Saturday, will be operated on for a chipped pelvis today at Jones hospital, Hillsboro, according to Herb Lombard, a member of his fraternity.

Lombard said that Jack Powell, a close friend of the Rasmussens, called the Phi Deltas yesterday after visiting the Hillsboro hospital and reported that although his condition was "serious," Marv would recover.

In addition to pelvis injuries, Powell told Phi Deltas that Marv had received a broken nose, punctured sinus, facial lacerations, fractured skull with concussion, and that his back had just been X-rayed for possible fractures. There were no internal injuries.

French Play Tickets Ready

Tickets are now on sale at the box office in Johnson hall for "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," Moliere's comedy-ballet to be presented in Guild theatre on Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2, and on Monday, April 4. The admission price is 60 cents rather than 50 cents as quoted in yesterday's Emerald, and the box office will be open from 10 to 12 in the mornings, and from 1 to 5 in the afternoons, remaining open until 8 p. m. on days of the performances.

The dialogue of the seventeenth century comedy is in French, and the play is sponsored by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary organization on the campus.
