

Stelle Shows Classy Form In Workouts

Developments on the Oregon football front Wednesday afternoon were wrapped around a grueling two-hour workout on the University practice lot.

FIELD GENERAL Jim Aiken's only comment after the scrum was that the squad was shaping up slowly.

However, for a man who is out to replace Norm Van Brocklin, Coach Aiken looked unusually pleased.

Earl Stelle's continued fine performance is in part responsible for the complete lack of pessimism.

A PAIR of tackles, Dick Hudson and Harold Simmons, also caught the coach's eye. Simmons, one of the freshmen on the squad, seems to be headed for big things.

Hudson, who played service ball with the El Toro Marines, showed lots of promise on defense.

Transfer tackle Gus Knickerhelm, and Freshman Jerry Moshofsky, also a tackle, drew special attention for their respective performances.

Track Assistant Needed

Track Manager Tom Ragsdale has requested that anyone interested in being an assistant track manager contact either him or Coach Bill Bowerman in the athletic office in McArthur court.

McClure, Henthorne Star in Final Warmups

Coach Bill Bowerman plans to send his Varsity and Frosh charges through their last rough workout yesterday before the Oregon State Relays this Saturday in Corvallis.

The emphasis was on the track events since the only field competition will be the shot put and high jump. Track events were run only three-quarter distance during the practice session with several excellent times being clocked.

WALT McCLURE, who has developed into Bowerman's leading distance man, almost kicked over the dope bucket as he roared around the track to force Olympic competitor Jack Hutchins into a photo finish in the 660 yard dash.

After training the little Canadian Freshman for two laps, McClure pushed into the lead only to be edged out by a stride at the wire.

Hutchins' winning time was clocked at 1:24.3 which means both he and McClure turned in topflight performances for this early in the season.

DAVEY HENTHORNE and Varsity teammate Al Bullier shot over the cinders in the abbreviated 100 yard dash.

They turned in the amazing times of 7.4 and 7.5 seconds respectively.

With Henthorne and Bullier to carry the mail, Coach Bowerman's main strength in the Corvallis meet should be the 440 yard relay.

PHIL JONES, stylish high-flying frosh from Bend, also chalked up a commendable mark in the 75 yard run at 8 seconds flat.

Jack Countryman, another fast-developing distance man, copped the top spot in the 330 yard event in 37.6 seconds.

Dennis Sullivan and Bob Coughlin placed second and third closely behind the flying heels of Countryman.

Spring Yearling Sport Programs Get Underway

Freshman baseball, track, and tennis teams will be fielded this spring by the University of Oregon.

Frosh baseball, coached by Lloyd Falgren, has attracted 30 candidates and the Ducklings have been working out regularly under the former Venture Junior college athletic director. Opening date of a nine-game schedule for the Yearling horsehiders is April 16 against Milwaukee high school there.

Coach Bill Bowerman plans an extensive track schedule with six or seven meets and competition in AAU meets.

Outstanding freshman prospects are Distance Man Jack Hutchins, Javelin Thrower Chuck Missfeldt, Sprinter Phil Jones, Ed Robison, high jumper and pole vaulter, and Hurdlers Jack Smith and Bill Singler.

Opening meet date for the frosh track squad is April 12 when they take on Cottage Grove high school and Springfield high on Hayward field in Eugene.

New Coach Named at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 6—(AP)—Floyd B. Schwartzwalder, head football coach at Muhlenberg college since 1946, today was named gridiron mentor at Syracuse university.

The appointment was announced by Syracuse Athletic Director Lewis P. Andreas a little more than a month after Coach Reaves (Ribs) Baysinger and his entire staff of assistants were ousted.

Mills Twirls Webfoots to 11-4 Victory In Game Marred by Shoddy Fielding

Each Team Makes 7 Errors as Oregon Drives out 16 Hits

The Oregon baseball team rolled to its second victory in as many days yesterday, unleashing a 16-hit barrage to wallop Pacific university 11-4 on lower Howe field.

On the darker side of the picture was the shoddy fielding display turned in by the Duck diamonds who committed seven bobbles during the course of the afternoon. The losers also made seven errors.

SID MILLS, portly red-head, went the first seven innings for the Webfoots, showing midseason form as he allowed only three hits, and two earned runs, to gain for the win. Hal Zurcher finished on the hill for Oregon.

After jumping into a two-run lead in the second inning on a single by Don Kimball, two-bagger by Don Dibble, and another one-baser by Mills, the Ducks were never headed.

They added singletons in the third and fourth innings, five in the sixth, and one tally in each the seventh and eighth frames.

HITTING was evenly distributed

DICK BARTLE, long-jointed Duck first sacker, has been one of Don Kirsch's biggest threats at the plate in recent spring exhibitions.

for the Kirschmen in the contest, with eleven players sharing in the batting spree. The catching corps of Gene Rose and Bob Sims garnered a pair of blows apiece, and encouraging sign to the Oregon cause. Al Cohen, Zurcher, Kimball, and Dibble also had two hits each.

Longest hit of the afternoon went to Les Mullen, Badger shortstop, who lofted a home run to deep left field in the fourth inning.

Pacific added a pair of markers in the seventh, sandwiching in a walk, hit, and two infield boots for the scores. The final opponent tally came in the ninth on a lone hit and two more bobbles.

OREGON GARNERED a hit in every inning but the third, and made good use of seven Pacific errors, in a game marked by spotty support on the part of both teams.
