

Race Backers To Meet Council

Eugene's Millrace Park association will appear at the city council Monday night to make a report on progress in the drive to restore the race.

The association representatives will present the council with the property easements which have been obtained so far. Kieth Fennell, association secretary, has reported that there are still a few easements out, but that it is hoped that these will be signed over to the association in the near future.

"We hope to meet with favorable results from the council," declared Fennell. He added that he expects the council will be sympathetic toward the association's cause.

Found: One Dog Atop Condon

Could he be waiting for his master's voice? The plaster dog, trademark of Victor records, which is perched on the corner of the Condon roof, seems to be waiting in vain, for not many noticed him yesterday.

Just how "Victor Kanine" got in his precarious position, and just who put him there, is an unanswered question. Apparently they thought the campus needed a watchful eye.

But where the dog came from is no mystery—it belonged, and probably will be returned, to the Appliance Center, 70 W. 10th.
