12th Yearly Hayward Relays Set

The 12th annual Hayward Relays, one of the two major high school track contests in the state, will be held this Friday and Saturday on Hayward field.

Ray Hendrickson, relays director, said 73 schools have indicated intention of entering teams with between 750 and 1000 prep athletes expected to participate in the competition.

LAST YEAR 50 teams were entered in the three divisions.

The Eugene public schools, under the guidance of Hendrickson, will direct this year's meet.

Previously, the University had sponsored the meet, except for the first two years, when Hendrickson and School District 4 were in charge.

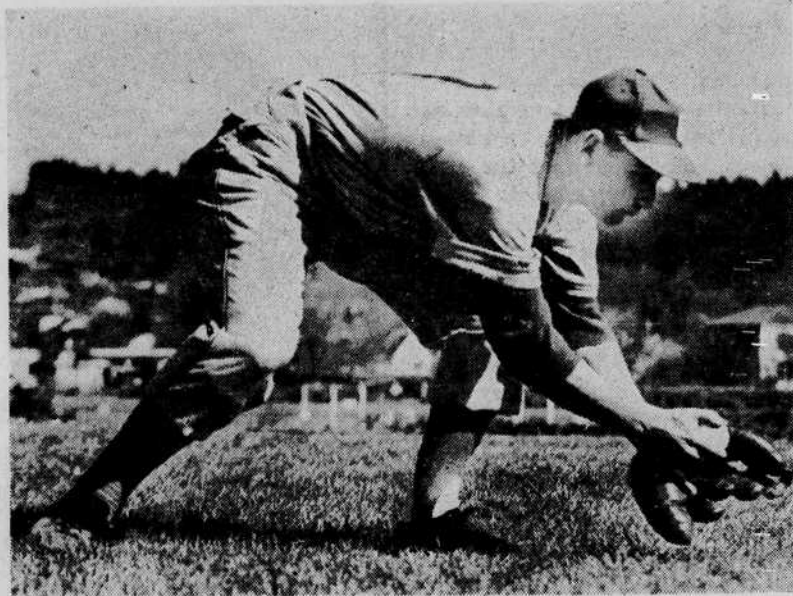

Medford high's Pearpickers, defending champions, will be after their eighth title in the Class A division.

ASHLAND will be the defending champion in Class B, with Henley defending it's class C crown.

The B and C divisions will be run off Friday afternoon, with the A event being held Saturday.

Oregon track coach Bill Bowerman and the University of Oregon athletic staff will assist Hendrickson and the school district in conducting the meet.

Cohen Tops in Averages, RBI; Mills, Krause Spark Moundsmen

PACE-SETTER—That's Al Cohen, Oregon's crack shortstop, who thus far is leading his mates in batting and runs-batted-in. He'll be out to get his share of hits against Washington this weekend.

Now settled at the top of the Northern Division standings with four victories in as many starts, Oregon's Ducks next point for visiting Washington, and they'll have their batting eyes peeled to give the Huskies a fine welcoming.

ART McLARNEY'S boys will rate as underdogs, particularly after the way Oregon swept through and past Washington State.

However, the Huskies just finished a two-game series with Idaho, and they won both tilts.

As for the Ducks and their peeled batting eyes, the team is hitting a healthy .310, which, as they say, is good in any league.

AT THE TOP, with a phenomenal .556 average, is shortstop Al

Cohen. The black-haired All-ND Webfoot captain slashed Cougar pitching into fine ribbons, amassing six hits in eight trips.

In addition, he is far ahead in runs-batted-in with 13.

Johnny Kovenz, with .429, is second in batting, and also in RBI, with four.

SID MILLS and Mel Krause, each with two victories, lead the pitchers. Mills has a 2.57 earned-run-average.

Only in fielding do the Ducks look shoddy.

Their average as a team is .934, which, though bad enough, is still quite a bit ahead of their opponents, who are fielding an error .886.

Oregon Rated Underdog In WSC Meet Saturday

Although hampered by rain during the early part of the week, Coach Bill Bowerman's thinclads ran through their regular midweek clockings yesterday afternoon as they prepared for dual meet with the Washington State Cougars this Saturday in Pullman.

THE DUCKS will be rated as definite underdogs on this Inland empire invasion for the Cougars are loaded with experienced lettermen, particularly in the distance matches, the Webfoots' most vulnerable spot.

Coach Bowerman's invaders almost always have to concede these points to every opponent in the Northern Division.

Oregon's pole vault team, George Rasmussen, Don Pickens, and Lloyd Hickok, look like the Ducks' main pillar of strength and could sweep the event in every meet.

ANOTHER POTENT place in the Lemon-and-Green lineup is the century with Dave Henthorne, Al Bullier, and Bob Weber blazing the way most ably.

A big question facing Coach Bowerman will be whether Lou Robinson, the Ducks' leading shot putter and PCC javelin king, will be able to compete in the Palouse meet.

Robinson injured a hip muscle in spring football practice during the Monday afternoon workout.

EARL STELLE, Bowerman's number two stick man, and Bus Newcomer will have difficulty filling up the gap if Robinson is unable to compete.

In last week's dual meets, the Cougars annihilated Montana State 107 to 24 while the Webfoots turned in an impressive 76½ to 54½ triumph over the Idaho Vandals.

Frosh Netmen Defeated 4-2

In their initial match of the season, the Oregon frosh tennis team suffered a 4-2 setback at the hands of Corvallis high school yesterday afternoon.

Crippled by the loss of Oregon champ Tom MacDonald and the ineligibility of two other players, the Ducklings were able to cop only two singles conteststs.

Milligan Preps Varsity Golfers For Idaho Meet

Challenge matches are turning Oregon's varsity golf roster topsy turvy, as John Eckstrom defeated Red Omlid earlier this week to become the squad's number one man.

These matches, which have been in progress this week at the Eugene Country club, will be concluded tomorrow afternoon.

The final line-up for the Idaho opener, Friday, will be announced at that time.

A THREE-WAY tie for seventh place on the team was broken up Tuesday as Jim Donahue, Rex McDowell, and Bob Sederstrom dug divots for top honors.

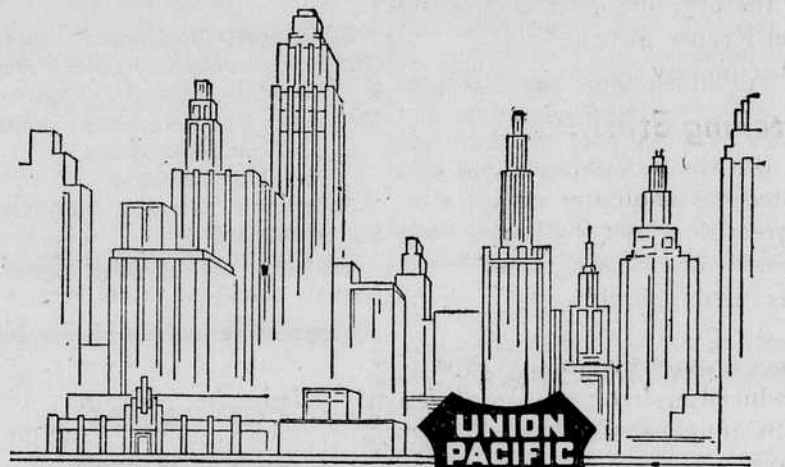

Donahue won out, with McDowell taking eighth and Sederstrom ninth.

Number five man on the six-man squad which will face Idaho is John Prince, who moved up from sixth by virtue of a win over Jack Caudion. Caudion dropped to sixth spot as a result of the loss.

DOM PROVOST, presently the number four man, will play Fred Zolezzi, number three. Results of the match, an 18-hole affair, scheduled today at the Eugene country club, might reverse the present three-four standing.

About the recent clean sweep at Victoria, Coach Sid Milligan was well pleased about the showing of his "diggers," but does not expect a real test until after the Idaho match.

Milligan himself won the third flight of the Empress Hotel tournament at Victoria. A field of more than 200 was entered.
