

Add to U.S. Population, Dicken Proposes

By Barbara Jeremiah

A theoretical redistribution of world population in which the United States would absorb 100 million immigrants was proposed by Samuel N. Dicken, head of the geography and geology department, in a University lecture series talk last night in Chapman hall.

"Tomorrow evening at this time there will be 50,000 more people in the world," Dicken stated. "In one month the increase will equal the present population of Oregon. There is a new note of urgency and desperation in the population problem. There is the growing realization that drastic changes must be made."

In his hypothetical plan, based on natural resources, Prof. Dicken estimated that the population of North America could be increased from 200 to 350 millions, with the U. S. bearing the lion's share of the increase.

"However," Dicken warned, "this plan is more reasonable than it is possible. We couldn't make the redistribution in many years if everyone agreed."

"It is expensive to foster migratory schemes, and it's not likely people will move unless there is an incentive given," Dicken declared.

"Europe is our baby now," he said, "and we must face the problem by recognizing that western Europe will never be the same as before World War II."

"As an aid, migration ought to be encouraged and subsidized," he stated. "The economic help of the Marshall plan could be used to get overcrowded countries to develop

Music School Plans Operas

Instrumental music for the music school's three opera productions on May 3, 4, and 5, 8:15 p. m., in the music school auditorium, will be played by members of the University orchestra.

Each of the three operas will be accompanied by a different group of musicians selected from the orchestra.

Music for "The Maid as Mistress" by Pergolesi will be played almost entirely upon string instruments, while a brass group will render the fast, wild music in "There and Back" by Hindemith. All orchestral instruments will be utilized in the third opera, "The Telephone" by Menotti.

Two members of the music school faculty will direct the musical groups. E. A. Cykler, associate professor of voice, conducting the other two.

Tickets, priced at $1.20, including tax, are now on sale in the Co-op from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., and in Miller's department store from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. Ticket exchanges for Chamber Concert Series ticket holders must be made by April 23 in either the Co-op or Miller's.

interests that the United States and Great Britain have in China. Additional cause will be given to the hostility existing between the west and Chinese Communists. But that hostility can only be analyzed within the context of the larger struggle between the western democracies and Russia. Only if it is felt by the West that a casus belli exists in the world situation should the opening act of a hot war take place in China.

Mexican Movie Promises Thrills

An "action-filled story of passion and witchcraft" is coming to town.

It's the Mexican movie with English sub-titles, "Dona Barbara," to be shown at 3:15 and 7 p.m. next Tuesday in room 207, Chapman hall.

Here's what you will get for your 25 cents; sorcery, barbarity, and the Hedy Lamarr of Mexico, with a stabbing thrown in for the kiddies. The movie, adapted from the novel by Romulo Gallegos, former Venezuelan president, was selected as the best Mexican production of 1943.

"Dona Barbara" tells of the struggle between the desire for reform and the anarchy ruling the plains of Venezuela. The characters are symbols of Gallegos' own struggle with totalitarian government forces; Dona Barbara, a man-hating Amazon, typifies the lawless land-grabbing element which owes its success to ruthless methods and superstitions of the uneducated plainmen.

The story is set on the Venezuelan plains in the 1920's.

Discussion Heads Newman Meeting

Newman Club will have a group-discussion program at its seven o'clock meeting at the YWCA Sunday night.

"Father Linenan will be present to summarize the discussion," reported Bill Thompson, club president. "He will also be available to answer questions on matters not satisfactorily covered during the hour."

Joe Conroy and Tom Mitchell are organizing this week's program. The group discussions have been popular in the past, said Thompson, but have been rather one-sided. We would like to talk about more controversial matters in the future.
