

Means Needs Goatherders For Japan Trip

As the result of offering two goats during a "Goats for Japan" drive several years ago, Dr. Paul B. Means, head of the religion department, has been made chairman of the drive in Lane county.

A part of the Church World Service program, several shipments of goats have been sent to Okinawa and Japan for distribution according to need. In Okinawa, goat herds are a prominent part of their economy, and have been reduced to very small numbers by the war.

This year, at the request of the United States Army backed by General McArthur, 2750 milk goats have been set as the quota, which, it is hoped, will be reached by the end of July.

Three shipments have been sent already, and the one from Lane county will go in the first part of July, supervised by the Rev. Covalt of Halsey. Interest has been aroused for the local project, which is 200 goats from Lane and surrounding counties.

Four positions are open for young men, preferably of college age, who would make the trip as goat-tenders, all expenses paid. Their job would be three-fold—to look after the goats on the way over, to contact the people while in Japan, and to come back and tell about it. Already, according to Dr. Means, the friendly interest shown by the American people in this act of charity has been greatly appreciated by the Japanese. "This is one of the finest opportunities we've ever had for friendly contact with the people of Japan," Dr. Means said.

Now on display in the University library is a glass-encased Japanese doll which was sent to Means as a token of appreciation by Iwataro Uchiyama,
