Jim Wallace

A busy future will be no novelty to Jim. A member of Druids and Sigma Delta Chi, he was vice-president of his sophomore class and was a member of both the Emerald and Oregana staffs. His home away from home is Delta Epsilon.

Besides gathering ads, Eve and Leslie ("Toozer" to everyone but the staid, dignified Emerald) have pledged themselves to give Editor Wallace a bad time.

The joint application submitted by the girls was something new to alumni office.

Cooperation is old stuff for Eve and Leslie. Both are members of Gamma Alpha Chi and Kwama, and both have worked on the ad side of the Emerald, Leslie as day manager and assistant advertising manager, and Eve as national advertising manager.

Eve was associate editor of the Piggers' Guide during her freshman year and is executive editor of this year's Oregana. She is treasurer for the Associated Women Students and vice-president of Hendricks hall.

Leslie was chairman of the homecoming hostess selection and co-chairman of the Heart Hop. To fill up her spare time, she does YWCA work and serves as scholarship chairman for Kappa Alpha Theta.

General Clark Visits Campus, Inspects ROTC

The highest army "brass-hat" ever to pay a visit to Oregon campus dropped in here yesterday.

General Mark W. Clark, sporting four silver stars, stopped long enough to inspect ROTC facilities and confer with University officials.

The general seemed pleased with the steps already completed towards unification of the armed svrics.

"A separate army, navy, and airforce is all wrong," he said. "The armed forces should be under the direction of one man. The services must develop with unity instead of disunity."

The Sixth Corps area, under the direction of General Clark, is the "pilot" model for unification.

Our area does the experimenting," he continued. Progress in unification has made some headway in several branches of the service—recruiting, public information, and the ROTC.

Clark has been favorably impressed with the new secretary of national defense, Louis A. Johnson, and believes that Johnson is the "right man" to unify the armed services.

What about the present ROTC program?

The former wartime commander of the Fifth army in Italy termed the University's ROTC program, under the direction of Col. Frank R. Maerdian, "typical of the high standard of training offered in schools throughout the country.

"Our national security rests with the young people of America," he said. "They must be trained and organized into one team for peace, and also be prepared as a team to win in battle."

The world situation isn't too alarming, according to the general.

"If we are to have peace," he remarked, "The United States must do two things—establish its national security and maintain its ideals of democracy."
