

Lawyers Plan Semi-Finals Of Annual Oral Arguments

Semi-finals in the third annual series of oral arguments of the University of Oregon Law School will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday and Friday in room 3 Fenton. Purpose of the arguments is to give members of the freshman class a better understanding of the cases they study for their classes as well as some experience in appellate work.

The oral arguments are given in three sessions. Qualifying or preliminary arguments were held winter term. Attorneys winning those cases will participate in the semi-finals this week, and in turn these winners will be in the finals fall term.

The winning team of this year's freshman class in the finals will be presented with a set of "Oregon Compiled Laws Annotated," donated by Koerner, Young, Swett and McCulloch, law firm of Portland. The Justice writing the best opinion on the winter term cases will be presented with a gavel at the Law School senior banquet in June.

Professor Allan Hugh Smith began the arguments three years ago when he came from the Harvard law school to join the faculty here. Professor Smith now acts as the faculty adviser of the arguments, which are conducted by the committee of the Presiding Justice, John C. O'Kief, Logan Ninninger, and Carl Griffith, all second-year students who participated in the arguments last year.

In the Thursday case of Carrol vs Kik, which deals with the problem of whether or not water should be restored to the Millrace, Chief Justice will be William P. Riddlesbarger, member of the Board of Governors of the State Bar association and a partner in the Eugene law firm of Harris, Bryson, Riddlesbarger and Butler.

The associate justices will be Myron D. Spady, third-year student and Curtis Cutsforth, second-year student. Attorneys for the appellant will be William Tassock, David Young, and Ted Goodwin; for the respondent, C. L. Puckett and Robert Hollis.

Windsor Calkins, Eugene attorney of the firm of Calkins and Calkins, will serve as chief justice in the case of Irdell vs Conway Friday. Associate justices will be Charles Foster, third-year student, and Sam Hughes, second-year man.

Attorneys for the appellant are to be Dewey H. Wilson and Donald Dole; for the respondent James Harrang, and William Byrd.

A SPECIAL OFFER

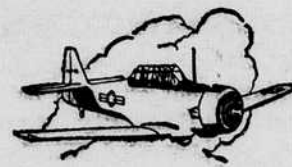

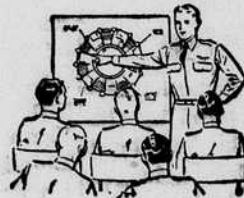

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS... JUNE '49

You May Be Accepted for an Early U. S. Air Force Aviation Cadet Training Class

If you are a college graduate; married or single; between the ages of 20 and 26½ and physically and morally qualified, you may be accepted for assignment in the U. S. Air Force Aviation Cadet classes starting in late summer or early fall.

You get a well-planned course; valued at $35,000 :: this includes about 275 hours of flight training, and the finest aviation education and executive training in the world.

Win your wings and then start a career with a future...

College men are today's leaders of the U. S. Air Force. With new and complex aircraft and equipment being developed, scientific research becomes more and more important, increasing the need for college-trained men.

As a college graduate you will have an unlimited future in aviation fields of personnel management, operations, matériel, supply, research and development.

It's a year of learning, flying and time for recreation with a hand-picked top-string team of Americans.

Upon assignment to an Aviation Cadet class you will be sent to one of the U. S. Air Force bases in Texas for the world's finest aviation training.

Here you will receive about 175 hours of flying instruction in the Texan T-6 trainer plus an extensive course in aviation education and executive training. Navigation, fuels, weather, radio and radar are some of the subjects you will take.

During this training period you'll find plenty of hard, fast action to keep you fit and trim... the best athletic facilities are available. Upon completion of training, you will win your silver wings and receive a Reserve commission as second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force. Outstanding graduates receive Regular commissions upon graduation.

OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOL FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

If you can meet the high standards required of candidates for officer training, there's a real future for you in the U. S. Air Force. Capable young executives are needed for positions of responsibility in non-flying assignments... management, communications, engineering, research and other fields. That is why the Air Force is offering qualified, ambitious men and women with college training an opportunity to prepare for leadership in the air age.
