

Community Recreation Jobs Open

Opportunity to gain experience in community recreation work is being afforded this summer through YWCA service projects, according to co-chairman Beverly Buckley.

"Mr. Jim Coffel, acting superintendent of the Eugene bureau of parks and public recreation, will need volunteer workers to aid in the new youth recreation program," Miss Buckley stated yesterday.

The program includes a new municipal swimming pool, five fully-equipped play areas, tennis courts with night lighting, two lighted softball fields, two well-appointed parks, and a community center building which provides activities to make Eugene a better place to live.

"Volunteer work helping with these facilities can lead to well-paid jobs in the future," Miss Buckley concluded.

Eugene students who will be here in the summer and are interested in such work may contact Miss Buckley at the Delta Delta Delta house, phone 2900.

Noted Chemist Arrives Today

Dr. Marcel Pourbaix, director of the applied physical chemistry laboratory of the engineering school of the University of Brussels, Belgium, will arrive on the University campus this afternoon.

The Belgian professor will work with Dr. Pierre Van Ryselberghe, University professor of chemistry, in the University chemistry department until the middle of July.

Dr. Pourbaix, an advanced traveling fellow of the Belgian-American Educational Foundation, will leave Eugene in July with Dr. Van Ryselberghe to attend the Gordon Research Conference on Corrosion in New London, N. H., July 25-29.

YW to Honor High School Girls

Eugene and Springfield high school senior girls will be honored by the YWCA sophomore commission at a tea Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 p. m.

Seniors from Eugene, University St. Mary's, and Springfield high schools have been invited to the affair, according to chairman Lois Williams.

Committee chairmen for the affair are Nancy Wright, food and decorations, and Joan Skordahl, entertainment.

Young GOP's Rap Action of State Officials

The Young Republican state executive board blasted the action of Secretary of State Earl Newbry and State Treasurer Walter Pearson in a resolution passed as its meeting here Saturday.

The resolution asked its executive committee to formally protest the ouster of Tax Commissioners Wallace S. Wharton and Earl Fisher and the appointment of Ray Smith and Robert MacLean in their place.

"The Young Republicans," the resolution read, "believe a person holding public office occupies a position of trust and confidence and that appointments based upon political considerations are betrayals of such confidences."

The meeting Saturday followed an afternoon picnic sponsored by the University Young Republicans. Other business included reports from Clay Meyers, member of the campus group; the Reed college chapter; and plans for the national convention in Salt Lake City June 23-28.

longer than they could before. Another reason is the greater strength of our graduate school."

How will the permanent extension center being built in Portland's Lincoln high school affect enrollment:

"That's hard to tell, Constance said. "We'll have to wait and see how adequate students feel it is."

Remembering the gripes heard at the beginning of each term, the reporter asked, "Why all this registration red tape?"

"We're replanning registration almost all the time toward simplicity and efficiency," Constance said. "Our changes are always in the direction of cutting corners."

One of these changes will be an enrollment card students will fill out before leaving school this term, indicating whether or not they plan to return in the fall. This will provide a more accurate estimate for scheduling classes than the old system of planning on the same number of students as the previous year.

Regarding the steps in registration, if anyone knows how to eliminate any of them, Mr. Constance would welcome a conference.
