SHANGHAI, Saturday, May 28—(AP)—This most modern city in all China was fast returning to normal today under communist rule.

Hawkers crowded the sidewalks, Shanghai's old familiar traffic jams reappeared.

Money changers in this city of 6,000,000 population dealt in Chinese silver dollars and the communist money, the Jen Min Piao. But merchants refused to sell for the gold yuan, the virtually worthless government currency.

The railway to Nanking was ready to resume service. Newspaper reports said here was only a 10-day supply of coal on hand, however.

The communist new China news agency said the Whangpoo river, Shanghai's outlet to the sea, was open all the way to the Yangtze.

(The regular Associated Press newscast to the United States and the orient was heard as usual. This dispatch came by commercial channels, showing they also were still open for business.)

Two communist officials discussed with the few remaining nationalist officials the taking over of government banks.

No planes took off from the international airport, which was stripped by looters in the last days of the siege.

There were other noticeable changes; some good, and some not, so good.

The police system seemed better already. The arrogant mob of nationalist soldiers had been replaced by disciplined Red troops who strictly minded their own business.

About 50 truckloads of Red garrison forces arrived from Soochow early Friday. One of these MP's told a Chinese reporter, "we won't treat you as well as the fighting troops do, but I think we will get along."

Some political organizers also arrived, but they politely told all correspondents, "we are too busy to talk; come back later."

Fire Starts in Kitchen

The fire at Piluso's was reported only six minutes after the call was answered to the Stehn home. Damage to Piluso's amounted to $5,000 according to Fire Chief E. L. Surfes.

The fire started in the kitchen from hot grease and spread through the building via the ventilating system. Partially damaged was an upstairs apartment and a store room.

Firemen got at the fire by playing water through holes cut in the roof of the building.

Damage to Home $2,000

Damage to the Stehn home amounted to $2,000 as estimated by firemen. The blaze, according to Stehn, apparently was due to sparks coming out of a defective chimney.

It spread unchecked through the attic doing extensive damage to the roof. The lower floor of the house was untouched. Loss was covered

Physics Seminar

"Cosmology and the Origin of the Elements" will be the topic of a talk by Dr. H. C. Omer, University assistant professor of physics, at a seminar Tuesday, 4 p. m., in room 105, McClure hall.

Chemists to Meet

University chemistry department faculty members will attend a meeting of the American Chemical Society in Portland today.

by insurance.

The blaze was discovered only 15 minutes before Stehn and his wife were scheduled to leave for Portland.

It was discovered when Mrs. Stehn heard explosions and cracking and ran out to find the fire well

Range fires are murder—any way you look at them! Here's what they do to this country—your country—EVERY YEAR.

Each year range fires burn millions of acres of land bearing essential grain and livestock feed!

They destroy homes, farm buildings and equipment—sometimes entire communities!

They kill cows, horses, sheep and wildlife!

Aud, yes, range fires even take a toll of human lives!

Range fires bring destruction, shortages and contribute to higher prices that no one can escape! And do you know what causes most range fires? It isn't lightning and other natural causes. In truth, 9 out of 10 range fires are man-caused. Most of them are the result of pure and simple CARELESSNESS!

RANGE FIRES CAN BE PREVENTED IF YOU WILL FOLLOW—FAITHFULLY—THESE FOUR SIMPLE RULES

1. Hold your match 'til it's cold — then pinch it to make sure.
2. Crush out your cigarette, cigar, pipe ashes. Use an ash tray!
3. Drown your campfire, then stir and drown again.
4. Ask about the law before burning grass, brush, fence rows, or trash.

Bill Lance left this shack for another—his home in Albany.

Bill Clothier strode into the Emerald offices and threw out his chest. He now has a chest cavity.

Steve Loy dropped in for a few minutes. He cracked some very funny jokes, and made everybody laugh like mad.

Virg Tucker is now claiming that he is hiding his past behind him.

Hal Coleman was observed recently wiggling his toes in some mud outside the Emerald shack. He says that it's so-o-o-o soothing on these hot afternoons.
