

Duck Pair Set To Compete at Compton Tonight

Duck Pole Vaulters George Rasmussen and Yearling Distance Ace Jack Hutchins wade into one of the classiest fields they've met this season when they compete tonight in the Compton Relays in Compton, California. Saturday night the same pair, who were accompanied Southward by Coach Bill Bowerman, participates in the Inglewood Relays.

RASMUSSEN will be going up against eight of the better vaulters in the country. And he'll get a second chance to best USC's John Montgomery whom he tied in the Pacific Coast Conference meet last Saturday. Another favorite scheduled to compete is "Bull" Richards, AAU champion last year.

A brace of Olympic veterans will face each other in the mile event.

Hutchins, who represented Canada in both the 800 and 1500 meter runs, will match strides against Kaare Vefling, who ran for Norway in the Olympics.

VEFLING is now enrolled at the University of California. There will be six other participants, also.

There's a heavy schedule ahead for Webfoot cindersmen. The Oregon AAU meet will be held in Portland on June 11, and the following week-end there's the NCAA championships in Los Angeles.

June 21, at Berkeley, Rasmussen, Don Pickens and Dave Henthorne will represent the coast in the PCC-Big Ten dual meet.

UNIVERSITY MAN'S SHOP Changes Hands

Bill Rohlffs announced today that he has sold his interest in the University Man's Shop to Byrom and Kneeland, owners of the Man's Shop. Rohlffs said he had been offered an excellent opportunity in another field.

He emphasized that the same quality merchandise and friendly service will be continued. "I am certain you will join me in wishing my successors the same success that your patronage brought me in the past," he said.

When contacted, Mr. Kneeland of Byrom and Kneeland's Man's Shop said that Will Urban and Palmer Smith will carry on as your campus representative in the University Man's Shop.

It's a strike for an evening of healthful fun. Shuffleboard tables also available.

Webfoot Nine of '49 Sees Same Old Story

Don Kirsch's Oregon Ducks battled right down to the wire for the third year in a row during the past ND baseball campaign, but, also for the third year in a row, they had to be content with a bridesmaid's role.

After slugging their way through a generally successful exhibition season, the Lemon-and-Green unwrapped the Northern Division race April 13 against Idaho. They made a clean sweep of that two game series, and things looked roseate indeed.

Plenty of Moxie

SID McLARNEY captured three victories as against two defeats in helping Oregon to land in second place in the ND during the past baseball season.

OREGON admittedly was weak in both pitching and catching, but, with Mel Krause, Sid Mills, Homer Brobst and Dick DeBernardi handling most of the curving chores and with Gene Rose behind the plate, it did manage to get off to a winging start.

The next series, against Buck Bailey's Washington State Cougars, developed into a pleasant surprise when the Ducks made their second series sweep.

Fans thought they could see a championship team forming out on Howe field, but they were destined to be disillusioned when those same Cougars, whom Oregon beat three times in four outings, inched in to take the ND title.

ART McLARNEY brought his Washington nine southward next trip and the Ducks promptly saw stars of the wrong type as Bob Moen mowed them down in what developed into a lop-sided 19-4 nightmare.

Any chance that Oregon might even things on their home field went by the boards when the second tilt of the series was washed out.

Next came the long road trip, and the Ducks did pretty well by themselves, winning four out of six. With Krause and Mills doing most of the
