

Fiction Writers Name Portland Site of Conclave

Portland is to be the scene of the world-wide fiction convention next year, Rosco Wright, president of the Eugene Science-Fantasy Society has announced.

Prominent science-fiction writers as well as publishers and scientists are expected at the convention, Wright told the Sunday meeting of the Society.

Society members plan a project of science-fiction movies for the year. Work on paintings and drawings are also on the agenda for display and auction at the Portland convention.

The Eugene Science-Fantasy Society meets twice a month at 7:30 p. m., the second Wednesday of the month, and at 2 p. m. the last Sunday of the month.

"Active participants, kibitzers, and artists with the yen to make a little money are welcome," Wright said. Interested people are asked to call at 146 East 12th, or telephone 5-5774 Wednesday or Friday afternoons and evenings.

City Police Say No Rally Gripes

A check with the Eugene police department last night revealed that no complaints were turned in against student rooters at Friday night's rally-street dance.

"Student cooperation was wonderful," Bill Lance, rally board member, commented. "With a record like this, perhaps it will be easier to schedule more such celebrations in the future."

Street dances have been prohibited in Eugene for a number of years because of complaints turned in by residents when students damaged private property.

Fire Sale Ruined; Thetas No Got Fire

Lots of smoke but no fire. That was the situation at Kappa Alpha Theta sorority yesterday at about 6:30 p.m.

Three fire trucks were sent out to what firemen labeled a "smoke scare," when the Theta basement filled with unexplained smoke shortly after dinner. Two trucks returned to the fire department almost immediately, with the crew of the third checking the basement carefully. No apparent cause for the smoke could be found, according to Captain Elmer L. Smith.

An impromptu lawn party was organized during the excitement, which brought out a good deal of the surrounding neighborhood to watch.

"We were all set to have a fire sale, but nothing burned," mourned Sally Waller, house president.

Oregon Graduates To Show Paintings

A joint exhibition of paintings by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuller will be first of a series to be shown in the art school gallery this fall, it was announced today.

The paintings are the terminal projects which the Fullers completed for their master of fine arts in painting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller are graduates of Syracuse University. They entered the University of Oregon as graduate students in 1947, and completed work for the master's degree last spring.

Mr. Fuller is now teaching art at the Randolph-Macon Women's college in Lynchburg, Virginia.

It's a shaky reputation that is built on things you are going to do.

Community Chest Workers Meet

Campus Community Chest workers will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Guild theatre in Johnson hall to complete campaign plans, according to Paul Washke, chairman of the campus drive.

The campus drive this year will be short and intensive due to the fact that it is beginning later than the downtown appeal. All faculty and staff members will be contacted, Washke said, but interested students are also included. The 1949 quota will be approximately the same as last year's, $4,000.

The Community Chest helps in support of the campus YWCA, YMCA and some religious activities.

Student Affairs Asks for Frosh Cards

New students who neglected to fill out personnel folders for the Office of Student Affairs are requested to check with that office, 201 Emerald Hall, today or Wednesday.

While registering at McArthur Court, new students were supposed to fill out personnel forms and be photographed. Because of the congestion at the court, many failed to complete this step in registration.

Mrs. Velma Mullaley, secretary of student affairs and housing, pointed out that this matter should be taken care of immediately so that each new student's file may be complete.
