

Oregana Pictures Planned

Individual house pictures for the 1950 Oregana will be taken beginning Monday, announced Ruth Landry, Oregana Associate Editor in charge of living organizations.

Miss Landry explained that Kennel-Ellis studios again have the Oregana contract for pictures, and that the pictures will be taken at that firm's downtown studios.

Schedule for the pictures is now being finished by Miss Landry. Alpha Tau Omega fraternity is scheduled for Monday, Sigma Alpha Epsilon for Tuesday, and Phi Delta Theta Wednesday. Cards for individual appointments will be left at the houses in advance of the scheduled date for pictures.

Men are requested not to wear bow ties. Preferred are white shirts, four-in-hands, and dark suit jackets if possible. Any difficulties which arise should be referred to the Oregana rather than to Kennel-Ellis studios.

Beck Completes New Sex Film

Dr. Lester F. Beck, on leave of absence from the University's psychology department, is continuing his work on educational films in New York.

Beck just finished "Human Beginning," a 16 millimeter colored film, with six-year-old school children as subjects. The film will be used to teach sex education to grade school children. "Human Beginning" is believed by many to be better than the film "Human Growth," which he produced last year for junior high students.

A book dealing with attitudes toward sex instruction at the junior high level is now being written by Beck, and will be published by the Harcourt-Brace firm.

He will return to Eugene late in October for a short visit, but plans to continue his research later in New York.

Six Rally Girls Chosen to Lead Oregon Rooters

Six breathless girls—three freshmen and three sophomores—came through the finals to make the Oregon rally squad yesterday afternoon.

Selected from 24 finalists, freshman Delores Rich, Joyce Rathbun, and Marcille Wallace and sophomores Adeline Ehrlich, Starly Sparks, and Pat Husband will appear before the Webfoot rooting section this year.

"The rally board offers its congratulations to all of the girls," chairman Art Ross stated last night. "Thanks are due to all the girls for the big turnout and grand cooperation, indicative of fine school spirit."

Judges for both the finals and original eliminations Tuesday were the members of the rally board, including Ross, Beverly Buckley, Donna Mary Brennan, Bill Lance, and Yell King Jim Crismon.

Placement Office Offers Positions

"If you want a job, get registered," Karl Onthank, director of the graduate placement service, said Tuesday.

A few positions are unfilled at present, but the office cannot recommend anyone without complete credentials from the applicants.

Students desiring full-time employment are urged to come to the placement office in Emerald hall where they will be given information blanks to fill out. Recommendations and a photograph of themselves are required to complete credentials.

Unfilled positions are largely in the selling field, with some accounting positions open. There are openings in other fields, however.

Usually only full-time employment is handled through the graduate placement office, with students desiring part-time work going to the student employment office. In some cases where part-time jobs will lead to full-time employment, the graduate office will place people, Onthank assured.

Registration Total Increases To 5904

Registration totals stood at 5904 for the term Wednesday night, with 84 registering Tuesday and 117 Wednesday.

The broken IBM machine has been repaired and registration lines are again moving.

Weather Turns; Fires Controlled

Danger from two forest fires which burned over an estimated 1500 acres near McKenzie Bridge apparently was over yesterday, with the weatherman predicting more showers for today. Mopping-up was the major activity yesterday.

Of 300 men at the scene, approximately 100 were expected to be sent back late last night or early this morning, with some 60 University students who aided fire fighting to get first priority on returning.

The fire was called "still potentially dangerous" yesterday afternoon by Clyde Quam of Willamette National Forest office, but no serious trouble is expected unless the weather should change suddenly.

Sandwiches and coffee for fire fighters were supplied yesterday afternoon by 11 Kappa Alpha Theta upperclassmen who drove up the McKenzie during the afternoon.

Homecoming Interviews Set

All petitioners for the general chairmanship of Homecoming will appear for personal interviews at tonight's meeting of the ASUO executive council, 7 p.m. in the student body office, Emerald hall.

Deadline for submitting petitions is 5 p.m. today. Lou Weston at the Delta Zeta house is accepting the applications.

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors are eligible for the position. The 1949 event is scheduled for Nov. 18-19.

Other business slated for discussion at tonight's meeting include approval of the rally squad and rally budget.

Chlorination Due For Polluted Race

Yesterday's announcement by the University Health Service designating the millrace as "practically an open sewer" inspired comment from Millrace Association President Dr. M. V. Walker.

"The ultimate hope of the Millrace Association," explained Dr. Walker, "is that the two miles of waterway can eventually be chlorinated at the point at which the race is diverted from the Willamette River."

Such a chlorination process would cost about $2000 per year, asserted Dr. Walker. "This would certainly be much cheaper than building and chlorinating a pool," he stated. "Here we have two miles of swimming hole — I certainly think some University or local group should do something toward purifying the water."

Dr. Walker pointed out that there are sufficient funds remaining in the Millrace Association treasury to finance such a program. Approximately $40,000 was collected for restoration of the millrace, only eleven or twelve thousand of which was actually used.

The $2000-a-year estimate was made by engineers hired by the Millrace Association.

Four Grants To Further Ph.D. Work

Four $1500 fellowships financed in part by the Carnegie Corporation of New York have been awarded to outstanding graduate students for a new Ph.D. program the University is starting this term.

This program will emphasize broader social science training and will provide systematic preparation for college teaching careers, both by instruction and by teaching experience.

Recipients of the fellowships are Arthur DeWitt Barre, Olympia, Washington; Herbert D. Carlin, Klamath Falls; Robert James, Detroit, Michigan; and Walter J. Meade, Alameda, California.

Barre received his B. A. degree from Whitman college in 1947, and his M. A. from Oregon in 1949. Last year he attended the University of Copenhagen, Denmark. Political science will be his field of study.

Carlin obtained his B. S. from Oregon in 1940 and his Master from the University in 1947. History will be his field of study.

Sciology will be studied by Mr. James, who received his B. A. degree from Wayne University in 1948 and his M. A. degree from the same school in 1949.

Walter Meade finished his Bachelor of Arts degree from Oregon in 1948 and is now completing his Masters degree from Columbia University. While at Oregon Meade was active in forensics, being a member of the debate and symposium teams. Economics will be his field of study.

These four men, selected carefully by the heads of the political science, history, and economics departments will attend graduate seminars and have individual projects.

Women's 'Lid' Sale At Co-op Today

A limited supply of women's rooters lids will be on sale at the Co-op beginning today, Beverly Buckley, rally board member, announced Tuesday.

"We have a few lids to distribute to houses," Miss Buckley said. "Any organization wanting hats may call me at the Delta Delta Delta house today."

All women will be expected to wear rooters' lids at the next home game, Oct. 15. Another shipment of the lemon-and-green hats is expected, but the receiving date is indefinite.

Price of the lids is $1.50. The rally board is in charge of sales.

Red Cross Issues Campus Appeal For Blood Donors

An appeal to students for donations of blood has been made by the campus Red Cross. Here is the story behind the request:

Careful budgeting of GI allotments enabled a student veteran to pay hospital bills when his wife went to the hospital to give birth to a healthy baby girl. But complications made it necessary for his wife to return to the hospital for several transfusions, for which no provision could be made.

Thirty pints of blood, requiring 30 donors, are needed to replace the blood in the blood bank used for the transfusions. This is the goal of the campus Red Cross.

Donors, who must be over 21 and weigh over 120 pounds, may see Dr. Furrer, room 730 Miner building between 2 and 4:30 in the afternoon. They should specify that the blood be credited to this particular case. All blood types are acceptable.

Committee Positions Open for Whiskerino

Petitions are now being accepted for committee chairmen on the coming Oct. 28 Sophomore Whiskerino.

Positions open include chairmanships of the following committees:

Publicity and promotion; Betty-Coed and Joe College selection; tickets and programs; entertainment; decoration; cleanup; and chaperones.

Petitions must be turned in by Friday, Oct. 7, to either Pat Mullin, Delta Zeta house, or Mary Hall, Chi Omega house.

Sophomore class officers emphasized that any student may petition.

Weather . . .

Considerable cloudiness with scattered light showers. Little temperature change.

Foreign Student Program Planned; Spotlight on Orientation Seminars

The University program for foreign students got under way this week with 27 students from countries all over the world now registered and more expected, James D. Kline, foreign student advisor, said yesterday.

A special orientation seminar, held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and conducted by Kline is being held for the students and aims at acquainting them with American life. The students this week are hearing general familiarization lectures.

Starting Monday they will hear a series of lectures dealing with geographical, economic, political and other aspects of the United States and the North American continent.

First of the series is by S. N. Dicken, head of the Geology and Geography Department, who on Monday and Wednesday will discuss geographical aspects of North America. Friday the students will hold an open discussion of points advanced by Dicken.

Fourteen are being sponsored by living groups on the campus and another one by a private Eugene family. Most are here under a program set up by the Institute of International Education with headquarters in New York City.

The program starts in the student's home country with an elaborate screening process designed to select outstanding applicants. Transportation to the United States is often provided by the U. S. Army. The students spend a year in American colleges which present special familiarization programs.

The University of Oregon program was arranged by the International Affairs Committee, of which Gordon Wright, associate professor of history, is chairman, and by Kline. The latter is assistant registrar and a member of the National Association of Foreign Student Advisors.

Kline believes the program has far-reaching value in the field of international relations. He pointed out the screening process selects only the outstanding students who, upon their return to their home country, make potential leaders and high government officials. If properly influenced by American ways of life, Kline believes they will return with good impressions of the United States.
