

Law Review Lists Staff

Appointment of the editorial board of the Oregon Law Review has been announced by Charles G. Howard, professor of law and editor-in-chief of the publication.

The board, composed of Professor Howard and four third-year law students will direct this quarterly publication of the Oregon Law School student body. Morris J. Galen, will be 1949-50 student editor; Robert L. Myers, note and comment editor; A. T. Goodwin, recent case notes editor; and H. Dewey Wilson, book review and statute editor.

The Review, containing various articles of interest to the Bar, is sent to every member of the Bar in Oregon and to other law schools. Contributing to it are the University faculty, judiciary, and members of the Oregon bar.

In the opinion of Professor Howard, the Review is an excellent method for assisting the faculty in instructing the students to write legal briefs and to think in a lawyer-like manner.

Ralph Johnson, now a member of the Oregon State Bar, was last year's editor.

New Inter-Racial Fellowship Meets

Inter-Racial Fellowship, organized at the end of last year, will have its first meeting of the term today at 4:30 in Westminster House.

The group will discuss campus racial problems. Everyone is invited to attend this one hour meeting, according to Merv Hampton, secretary.

Student Registration Of Autos Continued

Registration of student cars will continue this week and next in the Office of Student Affairs. Students without registration stickers on their cars should apply in room 201, Emerald Hall, declares Dick Neely, Student Traffic court member.

Only cars displaying the registration sticker on the front window may park in designated parking lots. Fines will be assessed for violations.

Faculty members will continue to register their cars in the office of the physical plant.

Artists Travel During Summer

Many far-away places were viewed by Oregon art instructors during the summer.

M. D. Ross, architecture instructor, spent his summer in England, France, and Spain, doing research on various types of architecture.

Mark R. Sponenburgh and his wife returned this fall from visits to Paris and Holland, where they did special research on contemporary sculpture.

Lynn Alexander, weaving and jewelry instructor, spent six weeks teaching weaving at the summer workshop of the University of Tennessee in the Great Smoky mountains and later attended the La Escuela Bellasartes school in Mexico.

Exhibits Explain Library Usage

Purpose of the king size catalog card in the circulation lobby of the Library has been explained.

It is part of an exhibit to explain use of the Library to students, says Miss Elizabeth Findly, head reference librarian.

Besides the giant card and its explanation, the exhibit features a display of three new books with catalog cards, arranged to show various uses of the catalog in finding books.

Also graphically explained is use of periodical indexes.

A booklet explaining the arrangement, facilities, and regulations of the library is available to all students.

Civil Rights Rally Slated Tonight

A civil rights rally, sponsored by the Eugene Civil Rights Committee, will be staged at 8 tonight in hall A of the Hampton Building, 610 Willamette Street.

The speaker will be Mrs. Bessie Mitchell, sister of one of the "Trenton Six," a group of Negro men who were arrested by the Trenton police, tried, and sentenced for a crime they allegedly had not committed.

Mrs. Mitchell won support of various organizations in her two-year fight to obtain the release of the "Trenton Six." Her speech will also include other aspects of discriminations and civil rights.

Students may attend this meeting, which is open to the public.

Parties Highlight Church Night

The University Religious Council, through its member organizations, is sponsoring Oregon's annual Church night Friday, Sept. 30. Council President Sherman Holmes urges all students to visit the various houses and religious clubs on the campus.

All organizations are open to all students, regardless of religious preferences.

Planned to acquaint students with University religious groups, Church night will feature house parties, with emphasis on fun and fellowship. Dancing, other forms of entertainment, and refreshments will highlight the evening's program.

A new feature that most groups will offer will be the broadcast of the Oregon-UCLA football game. This will allow students to attend

Simpson, Gartrell Elected by Kwama

Betty Simpson was named secretary and Bernice Gartrell temporary historian at the year's first meeting of Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary, Tuesday night.

Miss Gartrell will fill the spot left vacant by Lois Sharkey until the latter returns to Oregon winter term.

Beginning next week, the Kwamas will resume their tradition of wearing their white uniforms every Monday.

Fall Dance Planned

Catholic students and their friends are invited to attend Newman Club's Fall dance Friday night at 8:30.

For those who wish to hear the Oregon-UCLA game, a radio will be provided. The dance will be held in Gerlinger Annex.

A Hawaiian dancer canceled an engagement because of foot trouble. There's one thing she couldn't shake off.

parties and follow the play-by-play account of their football team at the same time.

Holmes emphasized that both old and new students are invited to participate, visiting any group of their choice.

A schedule of Church night activities will be printed in Friday's Emerald.

English Department Adds Instructors

Nine new instructors and six graduate students have been named to the staff of the English Department, Dr. P. W. Souers, department head, disclosed Tuesday.

New instructors are Frank Bliss, John Church, Miss Rose Coleman, Merrel Clubb, Donald DeBrott, Robert DeMaria, Mrs. Debrah LeSage, Ezrel Wages, and Eugene Zumwalt.

Graduate assistants include John Ellis, Richard Lodwig, Richard Schultz, Ralph Sherman, Gilbert Stewart, and Luster Williams.

New Faces Seen On Language Staff

Nine members have been added to the staff of the Foreign Language Department, according to David M. Dougherty, head of the department.

New assistant professors are Dr. Bernardo Gicovate, who will teach Romance languages, and Dr. William A. Roecker, who will conduct German classes.

New instructors, to teach Romance languages, are William Myer and Miss Raymonde Richard. Graduate assistants will be Miss Barbara J. Fisk, Miss Marilyn J. Carpenter, Salvador J. Macias and John G. Snow.

Dennis G. Hannon has a teaching fellowship and will also work on his doctorate.

Old Students Counsel

At UCLA a special training program is offered to old students who wish to help new students fit easily into campus life. The only prerequisite for counseling is a desire to help novice Bruins. Attendance at one of the student counselor classes qualifies any old student as an interviewer.
