

Oregon Gridders Set For Uclan Tilt Tonight

Scribes Pick Ducks to Win By Six Points

Beneath the Coliseum lights in Los Angeles tonight at 8:15 p.m., the green tide from Oregon will clash with the UCLA Bruins in an attempt to notch up their second Pacific Coast Conference win of the year.

Coast football experts are spotting the Aiken aggregation one touchdown over the Bruins who will field a strong passing offense. Out of the thirteen west coast and bay area writers polled, eight gave the nod to the Ducks, victors over Idaho and St. Mary's.

The game will be broadcast over local station KASH starting at 8:15 p.m.

More aerials will be thrown by the Ducks than in previous battles of the season. Jim Calderwood and the Earl Stelle will handle the tossing chores for the Webfoots, as they try to beat the UCLA grid machine at its own game. Opposition end Bob Wilkinson has been tabbed as the man to watch when the Uclans take to the airways in tonight's fracas.

A 37-man Oregon squad arrived in the host city yesterday, and worked out under the lights later in the evening to acquaint the Ducks with the alien turf and fighting. During early week drills Coach Aiken shifted players about, but is expected to start the regulars who opened against previous foes.

Bruising Bob Sanders will once again carry the victory hopes of Webfoot rooters as offensive fullback. Sanders is presently the leading scorer in the PCC. Lewis, Bell, Fell, Gibilisco, and McKay will fill out the power-laden Oregon backfield.

Lesser Sets Final Date In Tennis Play

Tennis Coach Saal Lesser has extended the deadline for first round matches of the all-campus net tourney to this afternoon.

All players who have not completed their matches, and reported the results to Coach Lesser will be ousted from competition on default.

So far 10 netmen have reached the second round of play, which is to be completed by Saturday, according to Lesser.

Pairings for the second round are posted at the tennis court shed, where each contestant is expected to check results before contacting his next opponent.

SPORTS STAFF

- Stan Litt
- Dave Taylor
- Sam Fidman
- Tom Matthews
- Jack Faust
- Bob Lacy
- Paul Patterson

How can people have so much common sense when they keep passing it out all the time?

SAM NEVILLS is slated to see plenty of action tonight as the Webfoots tangle with UCLA at the Los Angeles Coliseum. Known as one of the biggest men on the squad, yet one of the quickest, the 232 pound senior is a vicious blocker from his right tackle post.

'38 Bruins Hit Iowa; Ducks Unimpressed

Oregon and UCLA first started tearing each other to bits in 1928, and have kept right on ripping every year since then, with the exception of two war years.

The two schools have met on the gridiron 19 times, with the Webfoots holding a scant 10 to 9 edge in wins. Oregon has compiled 224 points to 199 for the Bruins, and there has never been a tie game between them.

Probably one of the most thrilling Duck-Bruin encounters took place at Hayward Field in 1938. That year found the Uclans paced by the all-time great halfback, Kenny Washington. Tex Oliver was in his first year of Pacific Coast competition, and Bill Spaulding, UCLA mentor, was in his last year of service to the California institution.

The Bruins were highly touted and favored to make soup out of the '38 Duck, but the big green machine had different ideas on the subject.

The Uclans were fresh from an impressive victory over the University of Iowa Hawkeyes—a familiar ring—but the "Oliver Twist" completely bottled the vaunted Bruin attack, as Oregon defaced California prestige, 14 to 12.

Even in 1938, when Adolph Hitler was pulling Czechoslovakian wool over Chamberlain's aging eyes, it was still the line that made the difference. The hard-charging Webfoots held the Bruin ground attack to an afternoon's total of minus eight yards. As great as Washington was, the 12 times he carried the mail netted only 15 yards.

One of the most stirring spectacles that ever occurred in the long, friendly rivalry was a play that didn't count. In 1947, when a fumbling Webfoot backfield plus the reserve-shy "sacred seventeen" bowed to UCLA 24 to 7, Jake Leicht brought the Los Angeles Coliseum crowd to its feet.

UCLA had the ball on its own 30-yard stripe, and the game was anything but clinched, although the Californians did go on to win 24 to 7. Skip Rowland, Bruin fullback got behind the Duck secondary and nabbed a perfect aerial near midfield. At that moment, only two persons in that entire coliseum were not aware that there was a penalty on the play. They were Rowland, and Oregon's all-America halfback, Jake (Streak of) Leicht.

It was strictly a two man act, as Leicht took off in pursuit of Rowland—with more than a 15 yard deficit. Rowland thought he was going all the way; Leicht thought he could nail Rowland—but it really didn't matter.

The rest of the players took over as spectators while Jake gradually narrowed the gap. Running with the swiftness of a deer; Leicht overtook Rowland at coffin corner and sent him skidding on his stomach out-of bounds at the one-foot line.

Of course, a UCLA offside penalty nullified the play, but the crowd had a good show. That was the last time a Pacific Coast Conference football team defeated Oregon.

DORSEY'S U-BOWL

- 8 STREAMLINED ALLEYS
- TEL-E-FOUL
- SHUFFLEBOARD
- SANDWICHES
- REFRESHMENTS

Open alley Fri., Sat., and Sun.

RES. call 55344

Brooks Take Lead As St. Louis Loses

By United Press

Brooklyn's battling Dodgers fought through the rain Thursday to take a doubleheader from Boston and move into the National League lead by a half game as the St. Louis Cardinals lost to Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers walloped the Braves, 9 to 2, in the first game and then barely managed to squeeze in a five-inning 8 to 0 victory in the second game over the Braves at Boston.

Meanwhile, the Cards lost their second in a row to the Pittsburgh Pirates, this by a score of 7 to 2.

The Brooks now have two more games to play with Philadelphia, while the Cardinals have three with the Chicago Cubs. A three-game playoff will be held next week in the event the race ends in a tie.

Rain forced postponement of both games in the deadlocked American League race. The New York Yankees therefore will meet Philadelphia at Yankee Stadium today, while the Washington Senators will play the Boston Red Sox at Griffith Stadium.

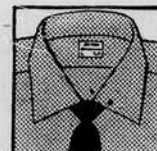

Walters Ousted By Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 29—(UP)—Buckey Walters will not manage the National League baseball club here next season, a joint announcement by Walters and Red's President Warren Giles disclosed yesterday.

Giles said it would be decided later in the day whether Walters would manage the team in its final three games of this season.

"We have decided that Walters will not be engaged as manager of the Reds for next year but will be retained in the Red's organization in some capacity," Giles said.

Smart dressers are Getting in SOLID with Arrow's New Solid COLOR SHIRTS $3.65

Widespread

Medium Points

Regular

Button-Down

Long Points

Low-Slope

Yes—now you can choose from 25 different colors in our new line of solid color shirts—light, medium, and deep tones.

You can also choose from many, many smart Arrow collar styles in broadcloth or oxford.

See your Arrow dealer today for "Arotints" and "Aratones."

$3.65 . $3.95 . $5.00

SANFORIZED • MITOGA • ANCHORED BUTTONS

ARROW SHIRTS

TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

We have them in the neat Pastel Shades and the famous Arrow collar style

See them today!

University Man's Shop

881 East 13th

5-7742