

Straub Women Move to Carson

Eighty women will move to the fourth floor of Carson Hall Wednesday afternoon and evening, according to Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories.

The fourth floor, completed late last week, will house 52 women from Gamma Hall and 28 from other sections of John Straub Hall.

Gamma Hall will then be opened to men of the Vets' dorms, who have signed up for Straub Hall. They will occupy the Straub quarters by the end of the week, Mrs. Turnipseed said.

Carson Hall now houses 160 women and will have 240 after Wednesday. After all additional quarters are completed, it will accommodate a total of 333 women. At present, all women eat at John Starub Hall.

College Life in America Thrills Chinese Student

By Abbott Paine

"The biggest thrill in my life was when I found out I was really going to school in America," said Cho Ting-Li, a Chinese graduate student who is majoring in architecture.

Arriving in San Francisco Aug. 26, Ting-Li has been in America five weeks, just long enough to get settled at the University of Oregon and taste a sample of American customs and peculiarities.

"Because I'm new in this country people are very friendly to me," he said, grinning from ear to ear. He continued, "They are very kind to me all the time."

Ting-Li, is living in Cherney hall with Peter Gong, a Chinese-American. He left Hong Kong, China, on Aug. 6, to begin his studies and new adventures in America. Accompanying him on a converted troop ship, among others, were about 70 Chinese, 40 Japanese, and 20 Filipinos, all students, most of whom are now studying in eastern schools.

GOT SCHOLARSHIP

"With the help of the American Friends' Service committee, I got a scholarship at an American school. Later in San Francisco, I found that I was to come to Oregon," he said.

"The first thing I remember about San Francisco is the Golden Gate bridge," Ting-Li related. "I got up early, about 4:30 a.m. just to see the bridge. Later the ship landed at the dock."

"Several of us got maps and went around to see the city," Ting-Li said. He continued, "We saw Union Square, the amusement park, and Chinatown. That was interesting, but it's not very Chinese," chuckled Ting-Li.

IMPRESSED BY FRIENDLINESS

When asked what in America especially impressed him, Ting-Li again mentioned friendliness. He said, "Once when a stranger found out I was new here from China, she came up to me and expressed hope that I would be very happy here."

Ting-Li, who is 26, has three sisters and one brother, all of whom are in Hong Kong. He left his home when 13 years of age and went to Peiping to study. Since then he has traveled over the greater part of China.

Students Study Retail Business

Thirty-five business research students, under the direction of N. H. Comish, professor of business administration, are completing a study of "Why customers prefer one retail establishment to another." The study, started last year, covers 27 types of retail classifications.

Results of the study, now in the process of statistical analysis, are scheduled to appear in a series of articles in various trade magazines, Comish stated. Data collected includes over 296,000 answers to the research questions asked customers from all parts of Oregon.

Fifty Students From Abroad Invited to Mixer

University foreign students will be entertained at an informal reception Wednesday from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house, 1306 18th Street East.

Sponsoring the reception are the University Religious Council and Alpha Tau Omega.

Entertainment and refreshments will be included in the evening's program.

Between 150 and 200 invitations have been sent to foreign students, faculty members having direct contact with the students, heads of living organizations, and other interested persons. Those who would like to attend the reception and have not received an invitation should get in touch with James D. Kline, foreign student adviser, in Emerald Hall immediately.

Approximately 50 students from countries other than the United States are expected to attend, stated Kline.

Newburn Goes To ACE Meet

Harry K. Newburn, University president, will be in Berkeley Thursday to attend the Pacific Coast committee on the American Council of Education, of which he is an officer.

On the following afternoon, Dr. Newburn will be one of 32 college presidents who will march in the academic procession at the inauguration of Dr. Wallace Sterling as the fifth president of Stanford University.

Representatives of 119 North American colleges and universities are included in this event.

Lucky you, that Uncle Sam doesn't tax you on what you think you're worth.

Theater Seeks OK for Plays

Selection of the first University Theater production is pending permission to produce one of several current plays, Horace W. Robinson told some 170 aspiring theater workers last week.

Abbreviated because of construction delays, the season will include five productions on dates to be spaced throughout the school year. A sixth play, produced under the direction of Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt, associate professor of speech, will travel throughout the state.

The spring term spectacle production, previously viewed in McArthur Court, will be moved to the University Theater. The 1949-50 version will be an opera or musical comedy to be produced in conjunction with the School of Music.

General readings to determine theater types will be held next week from Monday through Thursday at 4 in the minor theater. Aptitudes of each reader will be listed on file cards which will be used to determine castings for the year. Casting dates for the first play will be announced at a later date.

Part-time Work In Selling Open To Students

Excellent opportunities for employment in the door-to-door selling field are now available to both men and women University students, stated Karl Onthank, graduate placement director.

"The typical door-to-door salesman does very well if he has ambition," commented Onthank. "It is a good filler job to earn money and the salesman can set his own working hours."

Onthank advised that when employers hire graduates for work in the selling field they prefer someone who has previously had actual selling experience.

Any students interested in the positions should see either Onthank at the graduate placement office in Emerald Hall, or Miss Shirley Sylvester, manager of the employment office in the old Y.M.-C.A. building.

Oregana Schedules Annual Open House

The Oregana's annual open house, originally set for the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 5, has been rescheduled for the evening of Oct. 6, 7:30 to 9:30, in order to avoid conflict with house desserts.

"We will interview all persons interested in working on the Oregana at that time," announced Larry Davidson, editor. "Prior to the open house there will be no interviews of prospective workers."

Barbara Stevenson and Henry Panian have been appointed co-chairmen of the open house. In addition to interviews, they plan to have refreshments and entertainment.
