

YWCA Invites New Students

Upperclass transfer students are especially invited to join with old members of the YWCA Upperclass Commission in its opening session today at 4 p.m. at the YW, Gerlinger hall.

"It is the desire of the Commission, and of the YWCA, that these new students be introduced properly to our campus life, and may be able to meet new friends in the "Y," chairman Helen Caldwell explained yesterday.

Upperclass commission plans this year include a series of monthly meetings featuring speakers, discussion groups, and informal get-togethers.

Main project of the year is the annual Junior-Senior Breakfast, an Oregon tradition.

Other programs for monthly meetings will be planned by members of the group.

Tryouts Scheduled For Campus Play

Tryouts for the first production of the University Theater will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in room 102, Villard.

This tryout is for those students who did not attend those on Monday or Tuesday afternoon and who signed tryout cards.

Baldwin Does Coal Research

Assistant Geology Professor E. M. Baldwin, on leave of absence from the University, is now doing research in the Korea Geological Survey.

Dr. Baldwin was assigned the research by the Economic Cooperation Administration in recognition of work done in an Oregon coal area near Coos Bay. The State Department of Geology and Mineral Industries recently published a bulletin written by Dr. Baldwin on this subject.

John Dart and Samuel Sargent, graduate assistants from the University of Washington, have been appointed to replace Dr. Baldwin and S. D. Ericksen, who is also on leave from the department.

The Chess Club sponsors the official chess team, and eliminations for the team will begin soon among the experts.

Co-op to Offer Book Assistance

Book and supply "scholarships" will be given by the Co-op to five of the 27 foreign students new on campus this year, G. L. Henson, Co-op manager has announced.

The students, selected by an exhaustive screening process in Europe, are attending the University on fee scholarships. Henson said that the Co-op is offering the $20 per term supply allowance in hope that other organizations and businesses will follow suit and help the visitors pay for their first year at Oregon.

The five students will be chosen according to qualification by James D. Kline, who is in charge of the foreign student program, and Henson.

Student Recovers, Leaves Infirmary

Roger Moore, senior, was released from the Infirmary Friday after a week's treatment for injuries suffered in an accident last week.

Moore was riding with Clinton Olson, senior in psychology, on a drive to Odell Lake to visit Olson's parents when the accident occurred two miles east of Dexter on Highway 58. Detour signs at a place where the highway is being repaired were missing and the Olson car left the roadway and crashed into a tree.

State police said that the signs had been removed, according to Moore.

Olson and Moore were taken to the Sacred Heart Hospital in Eugene following the accident Saturday night and were transferred to the Infirmary Sunday morning. Olson was released Monday following treatment for shock while Moore remained for treatment of a broken hand bone and facial cuts.

Music School's Janitor, Sam Barger, Is Tradition

By Carol Udy

"Why, I've been up here at the Music School since before you were even a twinkle in your Dad's eye," said Sam.

As Music School janitor, Sam will celebrate his 25th anniversary this coming October. Barger is his last name, but few music students have heard it. He is just Sam to them.

Perhaps a new music building would have been a necessity long ago, or maybe the old one would not be standing quite so straight if Sam had not been there. Many are the times he has "gently but firmly" reproved students for doodling on pianos or tracing lines on the wall. Pencils are as bad as termites, in Sam's opinion.

A graduate doctor tells of the time he had his foot in an auditorium chair and Sam told him chairs were for seats, not feet. He has a nice way of telling you, but you don't do it again, the doctor said.

Sam sits in the orchestra pit and takes care of light, heat, and other duties at recitals and concerts. In his 25 years of work he has never been late to a recital or concert.

Few people get a better bird's eye view of backstage happenings than does Sam. When the organ sticks or students lose their voices at critical moments Sam won't tell on them.

"After all they're a pretty good bunch," he says. They say he rates pretty highly too.
