

Theater Selects Year's Best Performances

For the third time, Lewis Volger was awarded the University Theater's accolade as having turned in "the best performance by a man in a leading role", when the theater organization offered its annual awards last June.

Volger, who was given the award for his performance of the role of Tom in "The Glass Menagerie", had won the "Oscar" for his performances in the title roles of "The Great God Brown" and "Liliom" in previous years. The veteran actor has also been seen as Mr. Antribus in "The Skin of our Teeth", as Joe in "The Time of Your Life", and as Alan Squiers in last season's "The Petrified Forest."

MENAGERIE SWEEPS AWARDS

"The Glass Menagerie" made a sweep of the acting awards for the season. For the best performance by a woman in a leading role, Geraldine Hettinger was given an award for her portrayal of Amanda, the mother, in "Menagerie." This was Miss Hettinger's second award. She had won the "best supporting role" prize the previous year for the roles of Miss Preen in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and Mrs. Zero in "The Adding Machine."

The former Mary Esther Brock, now Mrs. Robert Alford, completed the trio of acting award winners for her performance of Laura in "The Glass Menagerie."

BOX-OFFICE MANAGER RECOGNIZED

The award for the greatest contribution by a man or woman to the theater in a non-acting category was given to Don Smith for his outstanding work as box-office manager and for his handling of publicity.

A special award was presented to Nina Sue Ferniman Gordan as the best salesman of season tickets for the 1949-50 season.

Transportation Group Meets at 7

Delta Nu Alpha, national transportation fraternity, will hold its first fall-term business meeting at 7 p.m. today in room 5 Commerce.

President Walter Grande announced that students who have taken courses in transportation and are interested in the organization are invited to the meeting.

The Oregon chapter of Delta Nu Alpha was formed last spring term, and the only active chapter west of Kansas City. The fraternity's purpose is the encouragement and advancement of men in the traffic and transportation field of business.

M. Bush Given Bid by Kwamas

Marjory Bush, sophomore in liberal arts, was tapped by Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary, during the dinner hour last night.

Miss Bush, who lives in Carson Hall, is a desk editor of the Emerald. She fills the vacancy created by Barbara Hollands, who is studying in Paris.

Membership in Kwama is based upon activities and scholarship. The group is limited to 30 members.

Committee Petitions Due for Red Cross

Petitions for work on the campus Red Cross committee should be handed in to Sally Waller, Theta house by Thursday noon.

Vacancies are publicity, ski safety, disaster, water safety, posters, and librarian. All students are eligible to petition.

Robinson Schedules Theater Auditions

There will be no general tryouts for the University Theater on Wednesday, Oct. 5, Horace Robinson, theater director, announced yesterday. Those interested in trying-out for the year's plays are asked to attend the meeting today at 4 p.m. in room 102, Villard.

Inter-Varsity Group To Review Camp

Members of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship who attended "Campus in the Firs" in Bellingham, Wash., will give a report of speakers and activities of the camp Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the dining hall of John Straub.

Colored slides of the camp taken by Lee Boles will be shown.

Attendance Urged At GPA Discussion

All women students who have specified GPAs or whose cumulative or spring term GPAs are below a 2.00 have been requested by Mrs. Golda P. Wickham, director of women's affairs, to attend a scholarship meeting at 4 p.m. Thursday in Gerlinger Alumni Hall.

Scholarship chairmen from all women's living organizations are asked to attend with the girls from their houses.

Hearing Clinic Located in Villard Offers Speech and Hearing Tests

Hearing tests and remedial speech services are among those offered by the speech and hearing clinic, located in Villard Hall.

Services offered by the clinic were explained recently by Dr. Kenneth Scott Wood, associate professor of speech, and director of the clinic.

Audiometer tests are offered for students wishing to check their hearing. "I suspect there are students on the campus who have significant hearing loss who are not aware of it," Dr. Wood stated, adding that "A person with a hearing loss should certainly know of it." Appointments may be made with Dr. Wood.

A second service is offered for those who stutter or have other types of blocking spasms when they talk. This group will meet from 4 to 5 Mondays at 105 Villard. In addition to group work an individual program will be arranged for each person.

Students with foreign language backgrounds who wish to improve the intelligibility of their speech will meet from 4 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays in the clinic. "This service is not primarily concerned with grammar or vocabulary, but aims to achieve greater intelligibility of English speech sounds," Dr. Wood advised.

A fourth service is aimed at aiding students with articulatory speech defects such as lisping, sound substitution, and problems in voice quality or volume. These cases are treated individually or in small groups.
