

Forensics Activities Outlined By Nichols In Tuesday Speech

"Oregon's forensics group may not go around the world, but some of you may get to California and back." With this encouragement, Dr. E. R. Nichols, assistant professor of speech opened the first meeting of the University speaking group Tuesday night.

Informally addressing a score of students in Villard Hall, Dr. Nichols told his listeners that during this, the third year of revived Oregon forensics, they could not expect junkets such as groups in the 1920s and 30s engaged in. In those years University debate teams went to Europe, Japan, and all over the United States. This year the Western Association Debate at Stanford University Nov. 21-23, will be the farthest point reached by the Oregon speakers.

Within the Northwest, the group will engage in numerous debates, symposia, and extemporaneous speaking engagements. The first of these is listed for Nov. 5, when a large contingent from Eugene will attend the Oregon Inter Collegiate Forensic Association meet at Willamette University. Later trips will take speakers to Stockton, Calif., Linfield, and Tacoma.

During their regular Tuesday meetings, the group will concentrate on preparing information for the Western Association debate topic; "Resolved; That the United States establish a Marshall Plan for the Orient." At their next meeting on October 11, Dr. Paul S. Dull, assistant professor of political science, speaks on the situation in China.

Psychologist to Discuss Learning At Meeting of Science Honorary

Robert W. Leeper, professor of psychology, will speak at a meeting of Sigma Xi, national science honorary, at 8:00 p.m., Monday, Oct. 10, in room 103, Deady. Students, faculty, and townspeople are invited to attend.

"Current Trends in the Treatment of Some Basic Questions of Learning and Some Future Possibilities" will be the subject of his talk.

Leeper will outline several basic theories in learning taken by various psychologists and show the best features of each. He will also give possible future trends in learning.

Dr. Leeper returned to the University after a year's absence, during which he made a special study of personality in relation to learning at the University of Chicago and Duke University.

Yearbook Sale Now at 3050, Still Available

Oregana sales soared to approximately 3050 at the close of Saturday's late registration, Jim Sanders, business manager, said yesterday.

"Of these students, 440 have taken advantage of the new partial payment plan in which $4 is paid before Jan. 15," Sanders said.

Sanders stated that the majority of living organizations have already signed space for the 1950 Oregana, and that payment is due on or before Nov. 1 at the Oregana business office, McArthur court.

Campus clubs and honoraries have been contacted by mail this year. All space should be signed for before Oct. 15 and contracts mailed to the Oregana.

"Students who still wish to order a 1950 Oregana or to pick up last year's copy which is still reserved for them are urged to do so in the Student Union office, McArthur court," the manager concluded.

Scholarship Committee

Students are given a year to bring up their records, and need not equal the peg each term if they do not fall below a 2.00 at any time.

Students who are disqualified are permitted to petition for reinstatement. The report points out that such petitions usually will be granted only if there are extenuating circumstances or if improved scholastic work has since been done elsewhere.
