Two opportunities for University women to meet Darcy Friedman, assistant college board editor of Mademoiselle magazine, are planned for today.

At the tea, Miss Friedman will speak on various phases of magazine work and explain Mademoiselle's "College Board" and "Guest Editor" contests.

Theta Sigma Phi's "Meet the Press" gathering will give pre-journalism students a chance to meet Miss Friedman, and also to talk with members of the women's journalism group.

Listeners to last year's Workshop productions will note that the dramatic offerings have been shortened to fifteen minutes.

Sigma Chi Seeks Frosh Sweetheart

Two freshman girls from each living organization are being chosen now to enter the annual Oregon Sweetheart of Sigma Chi contest.

The winner, announced Dec. 3, will have her photograph sent to headquarters in Chicago to be entered in the National contest.

Petitions Due For ASUO Jobs

Today is the deadline for petitions for two top ASUO positions.

By 5 p.m. applications for junior representatives on the Executive Council and sophomore member of the Traffic Court must be turned in to the ASUO office, Emerald Hall.

Petitioners for the junior representative spot will be interviewed by the Executive Council at its next meeting Monday.

Sophomore traffic court applicants will not be interviewed but will be selected on the basis of their petitions. They are therefore urged to fill out forms completely.

Devaluation No Solution, Says Piquet

"Devaluation of the English pound is no real cure for the economic illness of Western Europe," Dr. Howard S. Piquet stated in a speech before the Foreign Affairs meeting at the YMCA last night.

Dr. Piquet, who served as a consultant to the House and Senate Foreign Relations committee, said that devaluating the pound sterling from $4.03 to $2.80 was merely a temporary relief from the problem which England and all of Western Europe faces.

He explained the problem facing these countries was that of greater imports than exports. Since these countries, particularly England, have depended upon exports as a primary source of income, they have attempted to increase exports by cheapening their goods through currency devaluation.

"However, Dr. Piquet stated, "The danger of devaluation is that though it increases exports, the prices of imports of essential raw materials . . ."

0, but all members of those teams are ineligible this year—pledge classes make up the elevens.

Coaching staff for the Pi Phis is made up of Phi Deltas, with the Fijis coaching the Kappas.

INTENSIVE TRAINING SET
Asked about his outlook on the game perennial Phi Head Coach "Bull-Voiced" Elwin Paxson growled, "We gotta fightin' team." This didn't clear up the situation much. Paxson explained that training rules of no more than a quart of beer per day and bed-checks at 11 each night have caused some dis-sension on the squad.

Kappa Coach Vince (Weepy) Dulich lifted his head out of the crying towel long enough to moan, "Honest, we're just mediocre." Cheering up a bit, he did admit that the team looked like it was in good shape.

MANPOWER LACKING
With only 10 girls making up his squad, Dulich is worried about manpower for the grueling battle. Observers of workouts so far weren't taken in by his pessimism, rating the two teams about even on weight, experience, and length of fingernails.

Starting lineups will be announced in Saturday's Emerald. Squad rosters are as follows:

SQUADS NAMED

Kappa Kappa Gamma: Pat Burrows, Anne Anderson, Anne Irwin, Susan Bohlman, Karen Eremeeuf, Nancy Watkins, Shari Long, Joanne Davis, Sydney Hass, and Suzie Seley, captain.

Flagstad to Open Concert Season

Kirsten Flagstad, Wagnerian soprano, will open the 1949 Civic Music Association season with a concert at McArthur Court on the evening of Oct. 27.

Madame Flagstad's Eugene appearance is a part of the second major concert tour she has made in the United States since her stay in Norway during the war.

Prior to World War II, the soprano sang leads in the Metropolitan Opera's Wagnerian Cycle.

A complete program for Flagstad's Eugene concert will be available in the near future, according to the offices of the music association.

Other artists scheduled for the 1949-1950 season include Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, Nov. 10; Grant Johanneson, pianist, Nov. 30; Joseph Szigeti, violinist, Jan. 15; a four-piano ensemble on Feb. 30; the Portland Symphony, Mar. 7; and finally performances of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" by the Wagner Opera Company sometime late in the season.

University students will be admitted to all eight events upon presentation of registration cards.

Change Made In Friday Rally

Additional pairings for Friday night's rally in McArthur court were released by rally board chairman Art Ross yesterday.

Pi Kappa Alpha will be paired with Chi Omega and McChesney and Merrick Halls.

Gamma Hall will join Alpha Hall and Cherney Hall.

Nestor Hall has been added to the list of men's organizations paired with Carson Hall.

No parade has been scheduled for the rally.

Women from each living organization will go to the men's houses on foot, meeting at Mac Court at 7:45. Most houses are paired with the same groups with which they attended the mass welcome rally after the UCLA game, Oct. 1.

Today's changes were necessitated by the fact that two men's organizations were paired at the previous rally with Gamma Hall. Since that time women have moved from Gamma to Carson and men now occupy Gamma.

Weather . . .

Fair today except for fog in the morning. High, 65. Low, 34.

Wives to Get Tickets

Student's wives will be able to obtain tickets for the Oregon-Coloado game at Hayward Field on Saturday, Oct. 15, according to the Athletic ticket office.

Booth eight located on 15th Street is the only place these tickets will be available. This booth will be open from 8 till noon on the day of the game.

Statistics Show 'You Can't Win' In Football Forecast Betting

By Walter Dodd

You can't win.

That is what the math department found after studying the odds given by the All American Football Forecast.

This football parley sheet, which was widely distributed on the campus for several weeks gives odds of 1000 to 1 to pick and spot 16 winning teams.

The math department found that the actual odds were 334,000 to 1 on picking 16 winners. You'll get back three cents for each $10 spent on the average.

Your best bet, if you can call it that, will pay back 36 cents on the dollar. All you have to do is pick and spot three teams.

The football betting was operated through various campus and Eugene merchants. A minimum bet of 50 cents was required. The merchants took 10 per cent of the take. The parley sheets have not been seen in Eugene and on the campus for the last several weeks.

In the event that you are wondering, the whole thing is legal for a while at least.

Chief of Police Keith L. Jones of Eugene and Lane County District Attorney E. E. Luckey Monday night told the Eugene City Council that no state law prohibits bookmaking on football games, boxing matches, or other such events.

State statutes prohibit lotteries, gambling with cards, dice or other devices and rule out bookmaking on horses and animal races, the council was informed. The state constitution prohibits gambling. However, there has been no judicial determination as to whether bookmaking on football games is skill or gambling.

Just in case if you get any big ideas of going into business, a proposal to ban all forms of bookmaking is currently before the judiciary committee of the city council. Action is expected in several weeks.

In the event that you want to throw away your money, you can pick anywhere from 2 to 16 teams with varying odds.

Take for example the Wisconsin-Illinois and the Notre Dame-Washington games. Illinois was spotted one point, Washington was spotted by 34.

If you picked Notre Dame you lost, and if you picked either Wisconsin or Illinois you lost since the game ended in a 13-13 tie. In the event of a tie game the player loses.

The bookmakers will give you odds of 7 to 5. The real odds are 4.9 to 1. You'll get back 34 cents of the dollar.

Annual 'Lipstick Bowl' Classic Draws Kappas, Pi Phis for Pigskin Play

By Stan Turnbull

Not one, but two gridiron extravaganzas are scheduled for the campus this weekend.

The Oregon-Colorado game Saturday has been pushed into the background with announcement of the umpteenth renewal this Sunday of the "Lipstick Bowl" battle between Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi. Game time is 2:30 on Gerlinger Field.

Neither team can be rated a favorite because of conflicting claims. Both sides say the other will have a weight advantage, and hints of "professionalism" have been heard.

PADS TO BE WORN

The game will be played more-or-less under touch rules, and pads will be worn, both sides claim.

In last year's classic a power-laden Pi Phi machine outclassed an injury-riddled Kappa squad 12-
