Last Three Candidates

seem to go along with living in Honolulu, and Helen does both. She plans to return to the Islands after graduation, "unless something suddenly happens to change my mind."

LIKES FOOTBALL

The brown-haired candidate for Betty Coed shares the common interest in football, and also enjoys watching track meets.

She agrees its nice the Millrace is again flowing, but isn't too happy with a recent first-hand inspection.

Helen was routed from bed to be told of her selection as a finalist. "I was so sleepy it took me quite a while to realize I was surprised," she commented.

ROG MIDDLETON

Roger Middleton is an ex-music major. He still plays in dance bands, but the golden dollar sign of law has beckoned him into pre-law.

Rog graduated in 1948 from Salem High, where he ran up a string of activities, including the debate team and junior class and student body presidencies. While in high school he led a 14-piece dance band.

MUSICIAN

Playing trumpet with E. Z. Zarones' six-piece combo takes its share of Rog's time and energy—he doubles in bass-fiddle.

An interest in golf is a recent addition to the life of the "almost red-haired" candidate. He proved his claim that his instructor was a "good Joe" by showing up for his interview during the time of his golf class.

Movie Club Slates Foreign Picture

"La Symphonie Pastorale," starring Michele Morgan, will be presented at the Mayflower Theater for two showings each evening next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Students may join by taking out a pledge card either in the Co-op or in the office of Rene L. Picard, 211 Friendly. A pledge card will be granted after the students have shown student body cards. No money is necessary.

Wagnerian Singer

Some of Flagstad's selections were rendered with triumphant dignity; some she sang with a seemingly ingenuous happiness.

"I have sung at so many Universities lately," she commented. "In Seattle—in Seattle (where she sang at the University of Washington's Meany Hall) they were very sweet."

ROYALTY PRESENT

Madame Flagstad was met backstage after the concert by a flock of autograph-seekers and a portly woman who claimed to be directly descended from the first kings of Norway, the singer's native country. Flagstad's accompanist, Vladimir Brenner, stood quietly by commenting on the heat in McArthur Court and the vast amount of perspiration running down his face.

Immediately after the concert Madame Flagstad left Eugene for Portland. From there she will go to Los Angeles, where she will sing on Friday.

"O" Meeting Cancelled

The Order of the O meeting scheduled for today has been postponed, Jim Bartelt, president, announced yesterday. The next meeting will be held Nov. 3.

AWS Central Board to Control Poster, Speech, Ticket Activities

Campus activities in poster-making, flying speeches, and ticket selling will hereafter be coordinated under a central board composed of house activity chairmen, members of the AWS cabinet decided Tuesday afternoon.

Formerly, chairmen desiring posters, speeches, or ticket-selling called women's living organizations at random and asked for workers. Consequently, the bulk of the work often fell on only a few women.

Under the new system, any committee chairmen, honoraries, or other campus groups will call three women students in charge of distributing work, and these women will, in turn, notify living organizations.

The three are Gwen Ramsey, Highland House, posters; Beverly Buckley, Delta Delta Delta, flying speeches; and Delores Jeppesen, who may be reached at the campus YWCA, ticket-selling.

The newly-formed activities board hopes the new centralized system will distribute activities evenly throughout women's living organizations, stated Nancy Kuhnhausen, chairman. Activity chairmen will meet weekly to discuss suggestions and problems that arise.

Cabinet members stressed the fact that the activities board will not supply material for workers. This must be provided by chairmen who make requests.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for installing a filing system on freshman women's activities and a survey to look into possible use of an activity point system.
