

Ducks Practicing At Iowa Stadium; Fear Hawk Aerials

Iowa Stadium is the site for this afternoon's practice as the PCC eleven prepares for its Saturday gridiron clash with the University of Iowa Hawkeyes.

Iowa presently holds down second place in the powerful Big Ten, while Oregon has been eliminated from PCC championship contention.

The two clubs have met one common foe, UCLA. The Hawkeyes took a 40-21 waxing from the Bruins in the season opener for both teams, while the Ducks dropped a spine-tingling 35-27 contest to the Californians.

In the light of statistics, however, Iowa did everything to UCLA but score points. The tough Hawk line out-charged the Bruins consistently, and the midlanders rolled 245 yards from rushing. Oregon gained 38 yards against UCLA.

Iowa's glaring weakness against the California marauders was its pass defense. The UCLANs struck for long gains via the airplanes time and again. But that was Iowa's first game of the year.

Oregon will take the field as underdog for the second consecutive week, as the Iowans have been established one touchdown favorites.

Coach Jim Aiken plans to start the same lineup that opened against Southern California. Woodley Lewis might start for George Bell, Aiken said, if Bell's ankle continues to bother him.

Oregon's Gentleman Jim, out to gain a bit of intersectional prestige for Oregon and the PCC, will throw in two defensive patterns in an effort to stop Iowa's deadly short pass attack.

The Ducks will probably rely on the 4-4-2-1 most of the game, with the Cleveland Brown 5-3-2-1 held in reserve.

Both teams will operate out of a "T," with all indications pointing to a high-scoring game with heavy accent on passes and quick openers.

Oregon's Gentleman Jim, out to Iowa turf with a four win-two loss record. Iowa has lost and won two.

Young Ducks, Vikings 'Up' for Game Today

Coach Joe Holland and his Vanport Vikings roll into Eugene today to do battle with Bill Bowerman's Frosh on Hayward field at 2 p.m. in the fourth game of a post-war series. The teams, distant relatives through the courtesy of the State Board of Higher Education, are both up for the game. Oregon is eager to make up for last weeks' disastrous trip to Seattle and the Vikings are laying for the "big shots."

Holland leads a crew of athletes, many of whom are well acquainted with Bowerman's style of ball. Among others, right half Chuck Bafaro was a big gun in the Frosh offense last year and left half Gene Countryman grew up in Eugene, under the shadow of Oregon football.

Defensive fullback Phil "Easy, Sonny" Synder is a bulwark on defense and though he never played ball in Oregon "Duckling" colors before, is reputed to be "savvy" to the extent that no opponent can keep a secret from him for more than a quarter of play. Snyder is reputed to be the fireball of the team and his mates affectionately refer to him as being "all muscle, from the top of his head on down."

Ducklings Dunham, Williams, Sloan and Turner are set to show the home folks once more the offensive speed and razzle-dazzle that carried them to lopsided victories over the Portland University and Oregon State frosh teams prior to the Washington debacle last Saturday. The Dunham to Williams passing combo has proven a delight to behold and the Vikings appear headed for plenty of trouble along the airlines. The fancy catching of Jake Williams has led to his being tabbed as the "poor man's Don Hutson."

Hard scrimmages have been the order of the day for both squads all week in preparation for what both coaches know will be a rough and ready battle.

The time again—Hayward Field at 2 p. m. today.

Campbells, Betas Speed to Victory

Campbell Club and Beta Theta Pi sped to impressive victories in their respective heats yesterday to gain the favored roles in the newly inaugurated Ralph Hill cross-country races.

The Betas, led by Olympian Jack Hutchins, placed first, third, fifth, and seventh for the low team score of the afternoon of 16. Hutchins' winning time was 5 minutes 30 seconds over the grueling mile and a quarter course. He edged out Independent Pete Mundle who closed with a terrific sprint, by about 2 yards.

Also qualifying in this heat were the Independents and Tau Kappa Epsilon, who tied with six points, but neither had a complete four-man team.

Campbell Club, taking fourth, fifth, sixth, and eighth place in the second heat, held its score down to 23 to ace out Sigma Chi with 25. The Sigs placed second, third, ninth, and eleventh.

Unbeaten Seven Expected to Roll

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — (UP) — Collegiate football's seven titans were expected tonight to roll along unbeaten in weekend play as national interest centered on the Rose Bowl battle between California and UCLA and the traditional showdown between S.M.U. and Texas.

The big seven—Notre Dame, Army, Oklahoma, Baylor, Penn, Cornell and California—all ruled favorites to continue their march among the undefeated and untied.

In the Pacific's standout game, California ruled a 12-point choice over UCLA. While California had not been beaten this season, UCLA still was undefeated in conference play and those standings decide the Rose Bowl team. Down in the southwest, SMU was a three-point favorite over Texas.

Among the undefeated and untied, Notre Dame was favored by 28 points over Navy; Army a prohibitive peck over VMI; Cornell by 27 over Columbia; Oklahoma by 33 over Iowa State; Penn by 7½ over Pitt and Baylor by 7½ over TCU.

Rice, tied with Baylor for the southwest conference lead, moved outside against Texas Tech as a 27-point pick. And the one other conference clash sent Arkansas out a 15-point choice over the Texas Aggies.

Minnesota, beaten by Michigan, was expected to bounce back against Purdue. The Gophers were picked by 25 points. In other Big Ten games, it was Michigan over Illinois by 7½; Ohio State 6½ over Northwestern, and Wisconsin seven over Indiana. Iowa moved outside at a seven point choice over Oregon. Among the independents, Michigan State was favored over Temple.

In the big seven, with Oklahoma favored heavily, Missouri was picked by 27 over Nebraska and Kansas by 14 over Kansas State.

While California-UCLA held the coast spotlight, there were two other conference clashes which saw Oregon State and Washington State rated even and Southern California a 16 point pick over Washington. Stanford moved outside as a seven point favorite over Santa Clara.

The skyline six favored Wyoming over Brigham Young and Colorado Aggies over Utah State as Utah and Denver moved outside against Colorado and Arizona.

Alabama and Georgia, the latter favored by five points, clashed in the top southeastern conference game as LSU was favored by seven over Mississippi, Tulane was picked by 24 over Mississippi State and Vanderbilt by 15 over Auburn.
