

Lewis, Oregon Running Ace

WOODLEY LEWIS, star backfield man on the Oregon team, leads Pacific Coast in pass interception and kickoff runbacks. Lewis led the Oregon running attack against Iowa, scoring two touchdowns, both long sprints.

Lewis Powers Duck Attack Against Huskies Saturday

By Sam Fidman

With two of the strangest Saturday's behind them that any football team has ever experienced, Oregon's unexplainable Webfoots Monday turned grimly to the task of preparing for the University of Washington game.

The Huskies, once regarded as light touches, are now boomed as definite possibilities to unseat the Duck express next Saturday at Portland. The Seattle club showed its ability to bounce back in its thrilling game with USC.

No Prestige Deflation

The Huskies, trailing 20-0, fought to a 28-27 lead before superior Trojan manpower began to tell the tale.

In Oregon's case, possibly a lot might be said, but little that could make any difference now. The Mallards definitely put on an exhibition of football that left Midwesteners with at least as high regard for them as after the prestige-inflating loss to last year's invincible Michigan Wolverines.

One point might be brought out—The Ducks couldn't pay off when the pressure was on. Iowa, on the other hand, regardless of breaks, and they didn't have many, deserves all the credit in the world for the spunk and fire they displayed in fighting back from what looked like a hopeless deficit.

Blind Spots, Tenaciousness

Duck line play was sound; Duck offensive plays clicked like clock work. Attribute the loss then to several "blind spots," a general fourth quarter let-down, and Hawkeye tenaciousness.

Woodley, Los Angeles' gift to the Webfoot cause, has now scored four touchdowns for Oregon during his career as a Duck. The scoring runs were for 102 yards, 95 yards, 75 yards, and 55 yards.

There is a fair possibility that it may be difficult to keep track of all Lewis TDs in the remaining part of the season.

In the light of the performances that Lewis has tured this season, both on offense and defense, he will have plenty of trouble avoiding the honor of being the best all round player on the Oregon varsity.

College Elevens Remain Clean

NEW YORK—(UP)—The slowly dwindling list of unbeaten and untied college football teams found 35 still answering the weekly perfect record honor roll today.

That is an unusually high total for this late in the season, particularly at a time when upsets have become more and more frequent.

Of this number there were 10 so-called major teams. Notre Dame's all-conquering Irish leading the contingent from the Midwest. The others were Army, Fordham, Cornell and Boston University in the East, Oklahoma and Bolor in the Southwest, Virginia from the South, California from the Pacific Coast and Wyoming from the Rocky Mountains.

But right with this elite group with statistics at least to make them just as chesty were such teams as the Wayne, Neb., Teachers, Little Gannon of Erie, Pa., St. Vincent of Latrobe, Pa., College of Pacific from Stockton, Ca., and the Trinity Hilltoppers from Hartford, Conn.

Wayne had the "winningest" record for this season with eight straight victories since it began its campaign early in September. That is one more victory than any other

Howard Odell

Head Coach Howard Odell will be preparing his Huskie charges to get them ready with their tilt with the University of Oregon Ducks at Portland, Saturday November 5 in Multnomah Stadium.

The Huskies have fallen before the Ducks in the two preceding years, and they hope to gain revenge this year. The Huskies will have 16 returning lettermen and four regulars to build their team around, and even though the Huskies have yet to win a conference game, they will be out for an upset against the Ducks.

The Huskies sport two flashy quarterbacks both holding high averages for the season in completion and yards gained. The air attack will be one of the chief worries of the Ducks.

A transfer from Compton Junior College is the starting fullback, and he is a great open field runner.

Uni-House Continues Girls Volleyball Lead

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Alpha Gamma Delta

vs.

L'il Eight Balls

Able Eight vs. Ann Judson

University house continued their winning streak in intramural volleyball Monday when they swept past Delta Delta Delta to the tune of 57-18.

The co-op squad, who are last year's defending champions, proved to be the stronger team all the way, with half time revealing a 43-10 lead.

Tri-Delts will play Delta Gamma after which the winning team will again play the Uni house squad for the League I finals.

Paced by Nelda Vogel and Delores Parish, each contributing seven counters, followed by team mate Hazel Gift, with six, Alpha Xi Delta smashed their way to a 36-28 victory over Alpha Delta Pi in League III action. Each serving for five points for the losing team were Nona Van Cise, Margaret Reid and Mary Ellen Burrall.

Battling to stay in the tournament were Gamma Phi Beta and Zeta Tau Alpha in the other game played yesterday afternoon.

The ZTA squad came out on the long end of the 36-31 score.

This eliminates the Gamma Phi team from further competition and it puts Zeta Tau Alpha back on the winning side of League V play.
