Chamber Concert Tickets on Sale For Music School

Tickets for the series of Chamber Concerts of 1949-50 are now on sale at the Co-op, the Appliance Center, and Wilson's Music House.

They may also be obtained from any member of the sponsoring men's and women's music organizations, Phi Mu Alpha, Mu Phi Epsilon, and Phi Beta.

First in the concert series will be Madame Alice Ehlers, harpsichordist, who will play at the School of Music Auditorium next Wednesday. Now a member of the University of Southern California faculty, she is acclaimed by critics for her virtuosity, precision, and capacity to sing a phrase.

Classical and contemporary works will be presented in concert by the Walden String Quartet Feb. 5. The Waldens have performed throughout the United States and have toured Germany and Austria. Now at the University of Illinois, they continue to increase their enormous repertoire of chamber music.

Third, and final, in the concert series this year, will be an organ recital by David Craighead, April 13.

Since the age of 13, Craighead has been playing in recital and was hailed a pre-eminent virtuoso before he even completed his studies. Now on the faculty of Occidental College in Los Angeles, and organist of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, he has toured the United States presenting concerts. Critics acclaim him as "definitely in the virtuoso class."

U.of O. Students Open Art Gallery

Modern design, including weaving, jewelry, ceramics, and furniture, is featured in a newly-opened downtown art gallery started by five University of Oregon students.

Located at 720 Willamette, the gallery has on display 100 original art works by the founders and other Oregon students. Jim Bartell, Carl Neiderer, Vernan Witham, and Paul Dahlquist are the artists in the venture, with Phil Dahlquist handling business angles.

"Mr. Jones," asked the instructor, "how far were you from the correct answer?"

"Only three seats, sir."

Counselor: "Are you troubled by improper thoughts?"

Student: "Naw, I enjoy them."
