The bell was on display at the San Francisco Press Club, where it was being used for picture purposes, when a half dozen youths rushed in, jostled onlookers and walked out with the bell, loaded the 500-pound trophy into their car and careened wildly down the street. They scraped the fender of a parked car and then ran a red light as Santa Clara trainer Henry Schmidt ran for a policeman.

Miss Weston has been working with senior Warren Davis on the millrace problem. Now under consideration is the development of an island in the race where bleachers could be set.

A general student cleanup day, with all Webfoots turning out to clear brush and clean off the space, was proposed to develop the spot and in addition act as a show of confidence by University students to townspeople and alumni who have been active in the restoration of the race.
