

Baritone Thomas L. Thomas Prefers Concert Stage to Radio

After last night's concert, the baritone and accompanist left for Spokane, Washington. Thomas hopes to be back at Scranton for Christmas. Actual home base is not Scranton, but a farm in New Jersey, where he lives in bachelorhood among the corn and wheat.

"No, I don't farm it—I hire someone—but it's very convenient to New York. Most people move out to Connecticut, but that's not good farming country, you know."

It was by no coincidence that two numbers by Robert MacGimsey were included in last night's program.

"MacGimsey was my roommate my first two years in New York," said Thomas. "He had a notoriously bad voice, so I sang his songs. I sang them for John Charles Thomas, and he in turn used many of them in his concerts." Thomas L. Thomas introduced "Sweet Li'l Jesus Boy," a MacGimsey song included on his Eugene program.

"McArthur Court was something of a surprise to us," admitted Thomas. "We did not expect to sing in so large a place." Hanne-mann felt a particular affinity for the "igloo"—he is a basketball fan.

The concert was second in the 1949-1950 series of the Eugene and University Civic Music Association.

Gene Fowler, Master of Writing

there was Fowler and three names—his father's, his mother's maiden name, and his stepfather's—and he went thru them all, finally deciding upon his stepfather's. His childhood and youth, comprising most of the book, was spent with his grandparents—Granny, strong, religious, pioneer woman; and Grandpa, the old miner who never had the breaks.

Fowler worked as a taxidermist's helper, delivery boy for a store that served Denver's best brothels, and printer's devil, before finally giving up a $12 a week job to start as a cub reporter for $6 per week.

His romantic intentions seemed always to be frustrated—especially by the girl he tried to woo by doing one-legged stand-ups. Paul Whitman, Jack Dempsey, Colonel Cody—these others were part of his life.

This isn't a great autobiography in the sense that 200 years from now it will be as revered and mummified as has been Ben Franklin's. But for today, its great—human and understandable.

"Uncle, what's a bachelor?"

"Junior, a bachelor is a man who didn't have a car when he was in college."

Science Fantasy To Plan Meet

Three members of the Eugene Science Fantasy Society will go to Portland Nov. 12 to help organize the World Science-Fiction convention to be held in Portland next September.

Rosco Wright, president; Elaine Gething, secretary; and Dennis Fraser will attend the meet.

At a meeting Wednesday evening Deborah Le Sage, the Rev. Sidney Peterman, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rutherford were admitted to membership in the society.

A lecture series by members on topics including rocketry, the mysteries of ancient Crete, and the nature and value of hypnotism is slated.

The club meets on the second Wednesday and last Sunday of each month at 146 E. 12th street, Eugene.

'Print Paper' Talk Topic

Classes in newspaper management will hear a talk on printing paper Nov. 14. The speaker will be Roy Byrnes, fine-paper sales manager of the Portland division of Blake, Moffitt, and Towne.

Dick: "What's the hurry?"

George: "Just bought a textbook and I'm trying to get to class before the next edition comes out."
