

YWCA Group Sings Tonight

As part of the community YWCA's Festival of Nations tonight, the freshman music commission will present four numbers. The commission's contribution is part of the continuous floor show offered at the Festival, which will take place from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Community Center downtown.

The entire group will sing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Drink To Me Only with Thine Eyes," and "Yea, Ho, Nobody at Home."

Ardyth Chamberlain, commission member, will sing "Loch Lomond."

Psych Prof Panel To Address Group

Freud, Adler, and the social sciences will be discussed by a three-member panel at the Social Science Club meeting, Nov. 21. Dinner in the Faculty Club at 6:15 p.m. will precede the meeting.

This program is the first in a series devoted to studying the impact of modern thinkers on the social sciences. Panel members are R. W. Leeper, professor of psychology; Leona Tyler, associate professor of psychology; and R. A. Littman, assistant professor of psychology.

Anthology Includes Poem by Students

Five University students had poems accepted for publication in the annual Anthology of College Poetry, the National Poetry Association announced recently.

"Veil," by Claude Coffman; "Ode to a Frightened Sparrow," by James McGrath; "Dawning," by Elva Jane Rankin; "A Tear," by Vic Flack; and "Dream of Love," by William Lees, are the poems accepted.

The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by American college students, representing every section of the country. Selections were made from thousands of poems submitted.

Castell to Compare Authors in Lecture

Alburey Castell, head of the philosophy department, will speak on the subject, "Pope's Essay on Man Versus Voltaire's Candide," tonight from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Browsing Room of the Library.

Speaking of his subject, Castell stated, "I shall use two 15-minute scripts which I have prepared for a broadcast over KOAC in that station's weekly series, 'Invitation to Read.' Therefore my talk will be brief and popular, not academic."

Carlisle Moore, assistant professor of English, will lead a discussion period following the talk.

The talk is part of the Wednesday evening browsing room hour series, and is open to all interested students.

The price of sugar goes up—and it's going to get into a lot of jams this season.

Propeller Club Adds 'Coffee Meetings'

Propeller club "coffee meetings" were inaugurated Tuesday night when members met to discuss expansion of the club's activities.

A series of panels to represent various phases of shipping was planned. Handling of shipments, maritime labor, and ship operations are among topics scheduled. Guest speakers for the school year were also discussed.

The "coffee meeting" was created to promote informality at club meetings and encourage members to make practical use of the opportunities for discussion, said Don Smith, president of the club.

Return or Pay, Official Word On Vet Books

Veterans who have dropped courses at the University must either return books for these courses or pay for them, according to James D. Kline, assistant registrar.

At present the Co-op reports that some 25 to 30 veterans have returned books.

Those wishing to keep government-issued books may have them appraised at the Co-op, then pay for them at the cashier's office in Emerald Hall, Kline said.

Names of veterans who have dropped courses and failed to notify the Co-op will be placed on a list to be sent to the Veterans' Administration.

Letters notifying veterans who are affected by the ruling will be sent next week.

Stern Makes Trip To New York City

Theodore Stern, assistant professor of anthropology, left yesterday for New York City, where he will attend the annual meeting of the American Anthropological Association, Nov. 17 to 19.

Stern will read two papers before the group, one by W. S. Laughlin, assistant professor of anthropology, entitled "An Estimate of Variability in Living Animals," and a work of his own, "Truncation and Differential Change in the Virginia Algonquians."

Following the meet, Stern will fly to Virginia, to check archival material in connection with a community study project.

Stern is a fellow of the American Anthropological Society.

Foreign Students To Visit Homes

Any students wishing to ask foreign students to their homes for Thanksgiving dinner or for the complete vacation are requested to notify James D. Kline, foreign student adviser, in his Emerald Hall office.

Foreign students who as yet have no plans for Thanksgiving have also given their names to Kline.
