Darrell Robinson, Oregon's star pass catching end, has established a new Pacific Coast Conference record for pass receiving in a single season according to figures released by the PCC commissioner's office yesterday.

Robinson set the new mark last Saturday when he caught six aer-ials against the California Bears to boost his season total for nine games to 31. He broke the old mark of 27, set last year by another Webfoot, Dick Wilkins. Wilkins is now playing professional football for the Los Angeles Dons in the National Football Conference.

Robinson's 31 catches have been good for 404 yards and seven touchdowns. He has one game remaining to be played to up his total when the Ducks meet their traditional intrastate rival, Oregon State, this Saturday on Hayward Field.

Another Northwest football player, Stan McGuire of Oregon State, also set a new conference mark. The Beaver end has passed the record for points after touchdowns in conference play for a single season of 21, set last year by Jim Cullom of California. McGuire has booted 26 conversions in PCC action. He also has one game left to play.

Cullom's current record of 23 placements tops his old mark, while Gary Kerkorian of Stanford has tied the old record.

MONACHINO LEADS SANDERS

In other statistics, Webfoot Bob Sanders dropped to second place in the scoring parade when Jim Monachino of California scored three times against the Ducks to take command with eleven touchdowns. Sanders has ten teedees for 60 points while Ken Carpenter, OSC, Bill Martin, USC, and Bob Wilkinson, UCLA, are knotted at third with nine tallies apiece.

Woodley Lewis, Oregon halfback, remained the most dangerous man in the conference in kickoff returns although he could get his hands on the ball only once during the Cal game. His average is 46.4 yards a try, coming on 8 returns for 371 yards.

Sanders, although he was held scoreless, kept his rushing lead over his opponents. Sanders now has carried the ball 138 times for 687 net yards. His closest competitor is Ken Carpenter of OSC who has a net of 634 yards.

Three other Oregon backfield men are among the top ten on the coast. George Bell and Woodley Lewis hold down seventh and eighth spots while Johnny McKay is tenth. Only other school to place over one man among the top ten rushers was the Idaho Vandals with John Brogan, fourth, and Bob Mays, ninth.

SHEFFOLD HEADS LEWIS

Jim Powers of USC continues to lead the league in total offense with 1144 yards in seven games—an average of 163.4 yards per contest. He also leads in every phase of passing.

Bill Sheffold of Oregon State picked off three Michigan State passes to overtake Woodley Lewis in pass interceptions. Sheffold has nine to Lewis' eight.

Emery Mitchell of Stanford is the leading punter in the conference with a 40.9 average per kick.

Although idle last week, John Williams of USC held his lead in punt returns.

Downtown Club Honors Seniors In Rally Today

Senior members of the Oregon football squad will be honored this afternoon in a large-scale rally sponsored jointly by the Oregon student body and the Oregon Club, a Eugene organization.

Known as the Town and Gown Rally, the program will begin on North Willamette street at 4 p. m., when rooters form a parade and march to Hayward field, where they will watch the team practice and will listen to the scheduled speakers.

Led by the University band the parade will be flanked by police escorts. Paraders will march down Willamette street, entering Hayward Field at the 18th street entrance, where accompanying cars will be parked.

The six speakers are scheduled to make brief talks after the team completes practice at 5 p. m. Among the speakers will be University President Harry K. Newburn, Coach Jim Aiken, Student Body President Art Johnson, President Frank Riggs, of the Oregon Club, the captain of the Ducks (not yet selected), and a former Oregon athlete.

The 15 seniors who will be honored include Halfbacks George Bell, Woodley Lewis, Johnny McKay, and Tommy Hines; Fullbacks DeWayne Johnson and Bob Sanders; Ends Les Hagen, Art Milne, Darrell Robinson, and Lou Robinson; Tackles Steve Dotur, Sam Nevills, Bob Roberts, and Dean Sheldon; and Guard Ed Chrobot.

Three on Injury List As Ducks Run OSC Plays

Head Coach Jim Aiken ran his Duck charges through a heavy two hour scrimmage with pads on the lower football practice field yesterday in preparation for Saturday's tussle with the Oregon State Beavers.

"The team looks good," Aiken said after the session. "They've got lots of fight and are in high spirits for OSC."

THREE MEN INJURED

Three men are currently on the injury list for the Webfoots. Defensive End Chuck Missfeldt, a sophomore, suffered a broken jaw which was revealed by X-ray Monday after practice, and will see no action against the Aggies.

New on the bump sheet is Left End Darrell Robinson, who last week set a new Pacific Coast Conference pass catching record of 37 by grabbing six in the California game. Aiken said Bob Anderson will start in place of Robinson.

Johnny McKay, elusive halfback who hurt his leg in the Washington game two weeks ago, still is limping on his weak limb, and will see limited action, if any, Saturday.

OSC OFFENSE, DEFENSE SEE

The Ducks have run against the OSC defense during the week, Aiken said, and may also have some Aggie plays in action. The Beaver team has been thoroughly spotted this year, its first under the Kip Taylor single-wing formation.

Aiken named as his starting backfield for Saturday's 2 p. m. Hayward field game Earl Stelle, Woodley Lewis, George Bell, and Bob Sanders.

tur at right tackle and Lou Robinson anchoring down the right end spot.

The mentor has not made any definite decisions about his defensive line-up.

"What shall I do? I'm engaged to a man who just simply can't bear children!"

"You mustn't expect too much of a man."
