Carmen Cavallero to Appear At Willamette Park Dec. 7

Carmen Cavallero, "the poet of the piano," will appear at Willamette Park in Eugene Dec. 7.

Cavallero will present a onehour concert and three hours of dance music in his Eugene program. His appearance is sponsored by the Eugene Exchange Club. This club also sponsored Tex Beneke and expects to present several other famous performers here this year.

Cavallero organized his orchestra in 1939 and in a short time it rose to a top position in the ranks of the nation's name bands. His recording of "Till the End of Time," which sold nearly a million copies, was a large factor in Cavallero's rise. Two other Cavallero favorites are "Voodoo Moon" and "Warsaw Concerto."

Known as the "dark Latin of the piano," Cavallero is actually a native New Yorker. He has appeared in several Hollywood musicals and has starred on his own radio show.

Only 1,200 tickets will be available for the Cavallero appearance in Eugene, and since the limited number of tickets insures seats, no reservations will be taken. Tickets will go on sale soon for $2 a person at both the campus and downtown Thompson music stores.
