

Tuition Scholarships Available To Hawaiian, Alaskan Students

Students who have lived two years in Hawaii or Alaska and have at least a 2. GPA are eligible, under a law passed in the last legislature, for tuition scholarships.

A number of these scholarships were granted last term and will need to be validated for winter term. Validation can be completed as soon as fall term grade records are completed.

Alaskan and Hawaiian students who did not apply for scholarships fall term must get their applications in at once if they wish to receive one for winter term.

Further information and applications blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Nancy A. Harris, scholarship and financial aid secretary, in Room 216, Emerald Hall.

Marshall Plan Wanting, Claims KERG Speaker

George E. Jones, Rome correspondent for Time magazine and alumnus of the University, told a KERG radio audience last night that the Marshall plan alone would not stabilize the economy of Europe.

Terming the Plan "a shot in the arm for people wavering in the cold war," Jones added that the remedy for European economic woes would be a set-up such as exists in Turkey. United States aid is getting the most satisfactory results there, he said. In that nation, a military and civilian commission are supervising the revising of the nation's economy.

CITES EXAMPLE

An example of the Marshall program's limitation could be seen in Italy, Jones pointed out, where it has halted the threat of Communism. But it has not solved the agricultural and industrial problems on a long range basis.

The program was Jones' lone public appearance in Eugene. On vacation from his European duties, he has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Jones in Eugene. Friday he will return to New York, and from there back to Rome.

A 1937 graduate of the University of Oregon, Jones began his career as a reporter for the Register Guard. From there he went to the Hillsboro Argus, where, he said, "I was fired after six weeks." After doing publicity work for a while, he joined the staff of United Press in 1939 and worked throughout Oregon and Washington.

COVERS WAR

In 1942 the U.P. sent him to the Pacific as a war correspondent. He remained in that area, working for that organization and the New York Times. After the war the Times called him back to New York to cover Lake Success and do editorial work. On Jan. 1, 1948 he joined Time-Life-Fortune Inc. and was assigned to cover the Mediterranean area where he has worked since.

Commenting on the foreign journalistic scene, Jones stressed the importance of knowledge of language for correspondents. He said "Study of economics and political science is also important.

"I don't think much of schools of journalism," he concluded. "You can quote me on that."

Eight Social Scientists to Lead Series Concerning World Affairs

Eight University of Oregon social scientists will lead a series of evening meetings on world affairs beginning on the campus next Wednesday.

Sponsored by the General Extension Division, the series is open to the public. Three credit hours will be given and tuition is $10.50.

Charles P. Schleicher, professor of political science, and Robert Lyons, social science instructor at Eugene High School, are planning the series. Meetings are scheduled on alternate weeks, from 7 to 9:40 p.m. in 101 Oregon Hall.

ROBBINS TO SPEAK

For the first meeting "The World Economic Picture" is the topic. E. C. Robbins, instructor in economics, will lead the discussion. Dr. Howard S. Piquet, visiting professor of economics, will continue this subject Dec. 14.

Schleicher will lead the discussion on "Nature of World Crisis," Jan. 4. "Ideologies as They Relate to World Affairs" will be the topic of Alburey Castell, head of the philosophy department, Jan. 18.

Concentrating on one area, "The Far East," Paul S. Dull, associate professor of history and political science, will speak at the Feb. 1 meeting. "Latin America in World Affairs" will be dealt with by J. F. Weir, assistant professor of history, Feb. 15. Gordon Wright, professor of history, will discuss "Russia and the West" March 1.

"United Nations Regional and World Governments" will be the topic March 15 and 29, led by I. G. Nagy, assistant professor of political science. Nagy, who is new on the University faculty this year, formerly was secretary of the Hungarian legation in Washington, D.C., and official observer to the U.N. security council meeting.

The series will be completed by Schleicher April 12 with "United States in World Affairs."

Registration may be made at the Extension Division offices or at the first or second class meeting. Those wishing University credit should register for PS 407 or 507, "Seminar: World Affairs," (G), 3 hours.

DG's, Alpha Phi's In Bridge Finals

Delta Gamma and Alpha Phi will play in the finals of the YWCA Upperclass Commission bridge tournament, which have been postponed until Nov. 29.

Janice Reed and Mary Vranizan represent the DG's, and Corlista Vonderahe and Phyllis Gardner will play for Alpha Phi.

A trophy will be awarded to the winning living organization.

Program to Air Chopin's Music

George Hopkins, professor of piano, will present an all-Chopin radio recital at 6:15 tonight over radio station KOAC. The 15-minute program will be in observance of Chopin's centennial celebration this year.

Hopkins will play "Impromptu in F-Sharp Major, Op. 36", "Etude in G-Flat Major, Op. 25, No. 9", "Etude in E-Major, Op. 10, Uo. 3", and "Vals in C-Sharp Minor, Op. 64, No. 2" all by Chopin.

Medal Given ROTC Cadet

Cadet Major John C. Doyle yesterday received the Air Force Association Air ROTC Award.

The medal is presented annually to the most outstanding first year advanced Air ROTC cadet. Judging is based on leadership qualities, academic and military average, participation in campus activities, and outstanding personal characteristics.

The award, donated by the Air Force Association, was presented to Doyle by Major Edwin L. Hibner, professor of air science and tactics, at Air ROTC drill Tuesday.

Dad's Day Petitions Due Next Thursday

Petitions for Dads' Day general chairman are due next Thursday, Dec. 1, in the ASUO office, Emerald Hall.

Applicants will be interviewed by the Executive Council at its next meeting Dec. 5. Jan. 28 is the date of this year's celebration, honoring visiting Oregon Dads.

The upper crust always seems to be the toast of society.
