

Women Collect Food, Toy Gifts For 22 Families

Each women's living organization has been asked to collect Christmas gifts of toys and packaged food for distribution to 22 needy families in Eugene, Springfield, and outlying areas, as a philanthropy project of the Associated Women Students.

The boxes are to be wrapped and taken to the Sigma Kappa house by noon Saturday, where they will be on display at the AWS annual Charity Party.

A special invitation has been issued to all women on campus by Ellie Johns, general chairman, and Marie Lombard, AWS president, to attend the Christmas party, which will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Short silks or suits are proper dress.

Marilyn Turner is directing collection of the gifts. On her committee are Donna Buse, Bernice Gartrell, Emily Nichols, and Karen Terry.

In charge of distributing the boxes to the families, which have an average of four children apiece, is Dolores Jeppesen. Committee members are Norma Beetem, Pat Bellmer, Ann Darby, Ruth Dexter, Marian Heath, Anne Hedlund, and Shirley Hstad.

"Cherry pie, please."

The waiter brought him pineapple pie.

"I asked for cherry."

"I'm sorry," the waiter said, "but we don't have any kind but apple."

The trouble with many a crooner is that after he has pitched his voice at a certain key, he always retrieves it.

Phi Sigs to Announce 'Moonlight Girl' On Dec. 10; Six Contestants Enter Finals

Phi Sigma Kappa's "Moonlight Girl," selected from a field of six finalists, will be announced on Dec. 10 at the fraternity's annual formal "Moonlight Ball."

A majority vote of the fraternity members will determine the finalists. The vote will be cast following a dinner honoring the six finalists on Dec. 7 at the Phi Sigma Kappa house.

A rotating trophy is awarded to the living organization from which the "Moonlight Girl" is selected. Also, she is presented with a loving cup for her personal possession.

Pictures of the finalists and the trophy will be placed in the Co-op next week.

Leona Anderson, Alpha Delta Pi, was selected as the 1948 "Moonlight Girl."

The University's finalist will be entered in the National "Moonlight Girl" contest. Judging will be based on a picture sent to the fraternity's national headquarters. The nation-wide contest began in 1947.

The national finalist will be honored at the fraternity's national convention in Chicago in August. Her picture will be published in the "Signet," the Phi Sigma Kappa national magazine.

'Winterset' Author Best Play Winner; Production to Open Season Friday

By George Dorris

Twice winner of the New York Critics' circle Prize and once awarded the Pulitzer Prize for the season's best play, Maxwell Anderson, author of "Winterset," first play of the University Theater season, is known as one of the outstanding playwrights of the modern theater.

Following his first success with "What Price Glory?," Anderson became famous as the author who brought poetry into the modern theater. He was increasingly well known for his Tudor dramas in verse, "Mary of Scotland" and "Elizabeth the Queen." In 1935 he produced the first modern poetic tragedy with a contemporary setting in "Winterset."

CIRCLE PRIZE AWARDED

Following this play, which was awarded the first Critics' Circle prize, he wrote "High Tor," a contemporary poetic comedy, which was also awarded the Critics' prize.

In succeeding years Anderson brought out other verse plays with modern settings, including "Candle in the Wind," dealing with the fall of France, and "The Eve of St. Mark," on the effect of the war in this country.

In addition to writing dramas, Anderson collaborated with Kurt Weill in 1938 to produce the hit musical "Knickerbocker Holiday" based on early New York history. It was this score that produced the popular "September Song." This past season on Broadway has seen the second Anderson-Weill offering in "Lost in the Stars," starring Todd Duncan, and based on Alan Paxton's "Cry, the Beloved Country."

CO-WORKERS OUTSTANDING

While writing his various successes, Anderson worked with most of the outstanding actors and actresses of the modern stage. In "Mary of Scotland" he had Helen Hayes and Philip Merevale; Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine starred in "Elizabeth the Queen."

Burgess Merideth and Margo appeared in "Winterset" and Merideth also was in "High Tor." In "The Wingless Victory," Katherine Cornell starred, while Helen Hayes appeared again with "Candle in the Wind."

For the title role of "Joan of Lorraine," Anderson secured Ingrid Bergman; for the last of his Tudor queens, Joyce Redman appeared as Anne Boleyn with Rex Harrison as Henry VIII in his recent success "Anne of the Thousand Days."

With one of Anderson's most successful dramas, "Winterset," the University Theater will open its current season Friday night with a formal dress performance. The show, which has Gordon Erickson and Barbara Pasquan in the roles Burgess Merideth and Margo created, will also play Dec. 3, 7, 8, 9, and 10 in the new theater.

The box-office for "Winterset" is now open, and is located in the lobby of the new theater.

'Ivan' Set for Dec. 1

"Ivan the Terrible," Russian film, will be shown in Guild Theater, Dec. 1, at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained for 25 cents from members of the Russian club, sponsoring the movie, or at the door before either showing.

Released in Russia in 1947 with Nikolai Cherkassov starring as Czar Ivan IV, the movie is in Russian dialogue supplemented by English subtitles.

KOAC Features Weber's Song

A possible rival to "Mighty Oregon" will be the feature of today's University Hour program over KOAC from 4 till 5.

Already famous on campus for his piano playing ability, Bob Weber, who's "Something for You" program opens the hour at 4, has composed a new Oregon tune. The debut of this song has been promised as one of the selections on tomorrow's show.

The 4:30 to 5 Workshop drama will describe the political maneuverings of a house cat which rises to the post of mayor of a city. Cast in this rise and fall of a feline are Dennis Fraser, Julie Northrup, Janet Harris, Dave Strauss, Ray Hamilton, Beth Miller, Davia Saul, Ken Neal, and Dick Rayburn.

Producer of the play is Marvin Horenstein. He becomes the second student producer of the term, since Robert L. Montgomery, instructor in speech, relinquished control of the program three weeks ago.

"Your Personal Bookshelf," a program of interpretive readings of famous American short stories will be heard from 4:15 till 4:30.

Y Advisory Board To Hear Singing

Entertainment at tonight's dessert honoring the YWCA advisory board will include vocal selections by Janis Evans, chairman of the freshman music commission, and a brief talk by Y vice-president Velma Snellstrom giving the highlights of her trip to Europe last summer.

The dessert, given by the campus cabinet in honor of the advisory board, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the Y.

Miss Snellstrom participated in a YM-YW European Work Study Tour during the summer months.

Committee chairmen will review the activities of the fall program for the information of the advisers.

YWCA Sponsors Coffee Hour Tonight

Foreign students on the campus will join in the second of their Coffee Hours tonight at 7 in Alumni Hall, Gerlinger.

These gatherings, sponsored by the YWCA International Affairs Committee, offer an opportunity for foreign students to get acquainted with each other and with interested American students.

Co-chairmen of the sponsoring committee are Dolores Jeppesen and Pat Williams Brooks.
