

Campus Groups May Buy Theater Ticket Blocks At Discount For Resale

BY NORMAN ANDERSON

All organized houses or groups can still get in on the chance of a lifetime to make a little hard, cold, cash.

The University Theater block seat ticket plan, where nothing is lost, everything is gained, is still in effect.

Now you can put up fifty bucks, make a hundred and net fifty bucks. It's as simple as all that, and just means a little detailing of the plan offered by the Theater last week to organizations which wish to buy out the house for the production of "Thunder Rock" starting next week.

It works like this:

Instead of one house trying to buy up the whole theater (for $200) two or more houses buy out the theater for the same night. The cost is less. If four houses chip in, each putting up fifty dollars and buy a hundred seats, then those seats (when sold, that is) will net fifty dollars profit. Sell 'em for a dollar apiece. That's a hundred dollars. Knock off the fifty you paid for the tickets, and you have fifty.

There are any number of variations on the original three plans offered by the Theater. A number of houses have already shown interest, stated Mrs. LeJeune Griffiths, business manager, and with the assistance of a few other houses, the theater can be purchased with no great expense on the part of any one house.

'Smarty-Party' Next Tuesday

Freshman women with a 3.00 or above will be guests of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, Tuesday, Jan. 31 at the annual smarty-party.

Invitations, shaped like small mortar board caps, will be extended Thursday night at dinner in the living organizations. Carson hall freshmen will be named on a poster by the first floor elevator.

Eighty first-year girls made the "smarty" category this year.

The smarty-party is a traditional event designed to recognize good scholarship among freshmen women. Names of the three women who maintained the highest grades throughout their freshman year will be announced. These names will then be engraved on the Mortar Board plaque.

Last year's trio of top scholastic standing were Ruth Landry, Barbara Stevenson, and Anita Holmes.

Schultz Wins First In Forensic Meet

Arlo Schultz, sophomore in liberal arts, won first prize honors last Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Forensic Association. Held at Pacific University, the contest chose the outstanding after-dinner speakers.

Accompanying Schultz were Marigene Pelouze, Liberal Arts freshman who entered the women's division, and Dr. K. E. Montgomery, professor of speech, who served as coach and judge. The Oregon representatives met competition from Oregon State, Pacific University, George Fox College, Linfield College, Portland University, Lewis and Clark College, and Willamette University.

Latin American Study Available

Latin America study opportunities during the 1950-51 academic year now exist through fellowships awarded annually under the Convention for the Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations.

Students from the United States will probably be received in Brazil, Chile, Columbia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, and Venezuela.

Applicants should be U.S. citizens, possess a bachelor's degree or its equivalent, and have a satisfactory knowledge of the country's language. Preference will be given to students under 35 years of age and veterans.

The U.S. Government will pay traveling expenses, while the receiving government pays tuition and a monthly maintenance allowance.

Students desiring to apply for these awards may write, not later than Feb. 15, to the Division of International Educational Relations, American Republics Section, U.S. Office of Education, Washington 25, D.C.

Being locked out at night is a minor misfortune compared to the piano player who forget his keys.

KOAC To Feature Program on India

Dr. Alburey Castell will discuss the book, "A Passage to India," on the "Invitation to Read" program today over KOAC at 6:45.

Recently recuperated from an illness that confined him to his home for a week, Dr. Castell will describe some of the essentials of the E. M. Forster adventure epic.

The program will follow a program by the School of Music faculty to be heard from 6 until 6:45 over KOAC.

USA Slates Election

Election of USA candidates for freshman class offices will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, in Room 3, Fenton.

Candidates for president and vice-president of the freshman class will be voted upon at this general assembly.
