

Wanna be Queen or Flunky? Campus Groups Offer Big Chance

BY BARBARA FAGG
The eyes of activities are upon you, you cannot get away. Even if you set your mind to it, fail to see the notices to petition, and sit on your hands when volunteers are called for, you'll end up in some activity. There are more than a few to choose from:

Red Cross, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, Associated Women Students, Women's Athletic Association, Religious Council, Drama, Outing Club, Orchestras, Amphibians, Hockey Club, Ski Club, and Hui-O-Kamaaina.

Forensics, Rally Squad, Band and Orchestra also invite participation.

But this, of course, is not enough. The student may also work on the Emerald, the Oregana, Old Oregon, or the Pigger's Guide.

Or, having no taste for these activities, he may choose to win his fame through sports in football, basketball, baseball (these three sports have freshman as well as varsity teams), track, tennis, golf, or swimming.

But maybe the student has a flare for politics. Again the door is open. The ballot gets longer each year. There are ASUO positions (president, first vice president, second vice president, secretary-treasurer, and two representatives each from the sophomore, junior and senior classes).

Besides these, each class has a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. And for those who don't reach the top there are steering committee positions, with an eye to the future, within the different parties, United Students' Association, and Associated Greek Students.

Now maybe our student is the difficult type, or he thinks he is too busy (which, of course, is impossible) and he doesn't turn out for activities. Have no fear. There will be no big blank in his life, because he will be drafted.

Homecoming, Dads' Day, Junior Weekend, the WAA Carnival and the International Festival seem to turn up annually on the school calendar and every year students, interested or otherwise, find themselves attending meetings, painting signs, and generally slaving away for the cause.

Overwhelming isn't it? But save that sigh and don't hurry off to that meeting. The end has yet to be reached. This last bit of activity in the "out of the classroom" category gives the student with

USA Nominating Assembly Tonight

Nine men will stand for nomination for president of the freshman class at an open meeting of the United Students' Association tonight at 6:30 in room 3, Fenton Hall. Other nominations will be accepted from the floor.

USA rules will allow the candidates for president or his nominator three minutes for a speech. Candidates for secretary will be allowed to make two minute speeches.

The USA steering committee will hold a policy meeting at 4 p.m. today at the Side.

AWS Representatives Plan Meeting Today

Members of the Associated Women Students Congress and representatives from each living organization will meet at 4 p.m. today at the Alpha Phi house.

Representatives are requested to bring pom-poms or money from pom-pom sales. If unable to attend, they should send an alternate, Marie Lombard, president, said.

a nice looking face a chance on the campus.

Each year there are 13 beauty contests sponsored on the campus. There is the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, Btty Co-ed, Miss Vogue, Junior Weekend Queen, Homecoming Hostess, Miss Oregana, Moonlight Girl of Phi Sigma Kappa, Dads' Day Hostess, Little Colonel and Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha.

And never fear that the men are left out. No, again there's a chance for everyone. Each year the students choose a Joe College and a King of Hearts, and the ladies of Mortar Board choose their ideal husband.

Now, if the student is still in his right mind at the end of a year of being active on campus and keeping his grades up at the same time, he has a chance for one of the six class service honoraries, Friars, Mortar Board, Druids, Phi Theta Upsilon, Skull and Dagger or Kwama. There are least 108 slots open at tapping time each year.

Well, that's quite a list. Must be some people on campus to keep all those things going. If they're not busy, they're at the Side having coffee.

Special Permission Granted 4 Drivers

An explanation to car-owners was issued Wednesday by Lyle Nelson, director of information.

Nelson stated that four disabled veterans on the campus have received special permission from the Eugene Chief of Police, the campus Physical Plant, and the Student Traffic Court to park their cars in the most convenient place for their classes.

Nelson hoped to clarify the point with car owners who have complained of the situation when seeing these cars parked in otherwise restricted areas.

Don't Rejoice—Shirer

tics, to aid received from the United States.

Shirer closed his address on one hopeful note, saying that the United States will not be brought into a war with Russia either because of China or the Russian atom bomb. Both sides fear retaliation too much," he said. "Furthermore, when Russia realizes that the American economic system is not going to collapse, and it is not, then Russia will become more reasonable."

Stanford President Speaks on Federal Educational Aid

Los Angeles, (UP)—Present concern over federal aid to education stems from fear that "he who pays the piper will call the turn," Dr. Wallace Sterling, president of Stanford University, told the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

He said the primary concern is "to keep our education free from the deformities and perversions which result when schools and universities are shackled to an all-powerful state machine."

Dr. Sterling was the principal speaker at the Chamber's 59th annual banquet and installation of officers. A. J. Gock, chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of America, was formally installed as president.

Tracing the development of federally supported education, Dr. Sterling said the question today is not whether the federal government should share in financing education but "whether it should increase its share and, if so, how."

"There is in this country a strong tradition and a rich experience in public support for education," he said. "It has come from both federal, state and local funds."

President Truman Asks Extra $8,000,000 for VA

Washington, (UP)—President Truman Wednesday asked Congress for an extra $800,000,000 to help the Veterans Administration meet the "still rising" costs of training ex-servicemen under the GI Bill of Rights.

No Emeraldette Practice

There will be no Emeraldette practice today, since director Doug Coleman is confined in the infirmary.

Denmark Club to Meet

Friends of Denmark will meet at 8:30 p.m., Feb. 3 at the Lane County Hall.

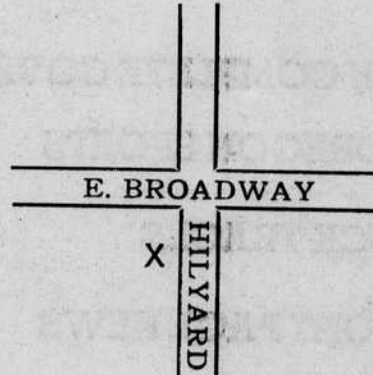

"It is better to remain silent and keep the professor in doubt than to open your mouth and let him be sure."

Joe: "Boy, I don't see where he gets off springing a test like that. It was too long and he didn't even go over the stuff in class."
Betty: "I flunked too."
