Duck Aqua-Men Suffer; Sickness

With several key men suffering from colds and injuries and another declared ineligible, the Oregon varsity swimming team has suddenly lost its role as heavy favorite to win the intra-squad meet which will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Anybody's Meet

"It's anybody's meet," stated Coach John Borchardt, who nevertheless is hoping that his varsity swimmers can outscore their opponents, the Freshmen and those swimmers who have been declared ineligible for competition in the Northern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference.

The varsity team recently suffered a damaging blow when Pete Van Dijk, one of the fastest swimmers that the University has ever had, was declared ineligible for Northern Division meets. He will swim for the Frosh tomorrow.

Nishimoto Out

Another varsity star, Joe Nishimoto, will not be able to take part in the intra-squad battle because he is ill in bed, suffering from an attack of influenza. Several of his teammates have been temporarily disabled by colds or injuries and will not swim tomorrow.

With the loss of Don McKillap, who recently injured his hand, the Frosh will not be able to face the varsity in the diving events, but Harry Ladas and Jim Stanley of TOKYO—(UP)—Shingoro Takaiishi, a member of the Japan Olympic Committee, has received a letter of invitation from the chairman of the International Olympic Committee to attend the International Olympic Committee meeting to be held at Copenhagen in May of this year.

Takaishi will attend if feasible arrangements can be made.

Takaishi was former chairman of the Board of Mainichi Newspapers.

the varsity will stage a diving exhibition.

Yearlings Strong

The Yearlings will be powerful in the 220 and 440-yard freestyle races, with Van Dijk and Gordon Edwards holding the major roles. It is possible that some local records, if not Northern Division records, will be broken when these two men battle against each other.

The meet will be held in the Mens' Pool at 2:30 in the afternoon. There will be no admission charge.

Frosh Ready; Reds Next

Oregon's power-packed Frosh Basketball team will be out to improve its win-and-loss record this weekend when Coach Don Kirsch sends his charges against Redmond High school Friday night and Vanport Junior College on Saturday. Both contests will be preliminaries to the Oregon-Washington varsity games, and will start at 6:15.

Vanport Again

Saturday night's encounter will be the second time the Ducklings have played Vanport this season, the first resulting in a thrilling 50-44 win for the Junior Greenmen. Since that time hoopmen who were then wearing Oregon colors, namely Lloyd Bergman, Keith Farnum, and Don Hoy, have transferred to the Junior College and will undoubtedly be put into action against their old teammates. These three, plus guard LeRoy Coleman, center Don Schuberg, and forward Art Shepherd are counted on heavily by Coach Arba Ager to provide the Vanport scoring punch.

At the starting posts for the Frosh will probably be the squad that has seen most of the action in the several scrimmages with the varsity this past week. The five consists of Curt Barclay and Chet Noe at the forwards, Hank Bonnenman at center, and Bud Covey and Nick Schmer holding down the guard positions.

Ducats on Sale

Tickets for the world championship match, to be held here Feb. 8, will go on sale Feb. 1.

These tickets, at 50 cents, will be sold at the ticket office in McArthur Court.

Huskies Fear Tough Battle

SEATTLE, Wash.—The University of Washington, Cinderella basketball team of the Northern Division, is still wearing its golden slipper.

With six conference games now in the record books the Huskies who were picked in pre-season selections to finish no better than fourth in a five team league, are leading the parade two full games ahead of second place Washington State. They risk their hard-earned laurels this week-end in a pair of return engagements with the Oregon Ducks.

Tough Game

Although the Huskies measured the Webfoots by 69-49 and 66-51 scores last week-end in Seattle, Coach Art McLarney predicts tougher games at McArthur Court. Likely he is remembering Washington's 1949 experience when the Huskies invaded Eugene with a pair of Seattle victories over the Ducks, only to have Coach John Warren's cagers reverse the procedure and take both games on their own floor. Judged strictly on form shown thus far in the season, the Huskies should manage a split series with the Webfoots. However, the Oregons, when hot, are the most dangerous shooting team in the league and could conceivably sink Washington twice.

Off his performance in the second Oregon game in Seattle, Russ Parthemer may get the starting call over Hal Arnason at forward. With the Huskies trailing by seven points midway through the first half, Parthemer moved into the line-up and tossed in three field goals and a free throw to tie the score.

Guisness Leads

Flyin' Frankie Guisness catapulted to the top of the Husky conference scorers as a result of his shooting proclivities against Oregon Friday and Saturday, passing his partner Lou Soriano who still leads in overall season scoring. The sophomore guard from Vancouver unloaded a 41-point barrage against the Webfoots in the two-game set to boost his conference mark to 80 points in six contests. Soriano is close behind with 75 counters and a season's total of 191—tops for the club.

Dead Eye

Captain LaDon Henson's deadly shooting against the visiting Oregonians gave him the lead in shooting percentages among the regulars with a .362 mark. In the foul shooting department, Guisness has hit 30 out of 37, Soriano 17 out of 20, and Hal Arnason 8 out of 10. Duane Enochs tops the club in personal fouls with 25.

The Team Conference Statistics including Oregon series Jan. 20-21:

Name	FGA	FG	TP
Guisness	72	25	80
Soriano	81	29	75
Henson	69	25	55

Duck Sparkplug

WILL URBAN, the sparkplug of the Duck team will see action against the Washington Huskies tonight and tomorrow night. Will who has been out of action during a part of the season, has returned and proved his worthiness in both scoring punch and handling the ball. Urban will be the man to watch during the two game series at Mac Court.

Warren Prepares Ducks for Huskies

Coach John Warren and the Oregon Ducks have been busy all this week preparing what they hope will be a surprise to the powerful Washington Huskies this Friday and Saturday nights at McArthur Court.

Ducks Ready

The Ducks dropped a pair of Northern Division games to the Huskies in Seattle last weekend and now the two teams meet in the final half of the 1950 series. Last year the same situation existed. The Washington club won both games in Seattle and then came to Eugene to run into an improved Oregon team and lose the final two contests.

For Dads

Coach Warren and his Ducks would like to duplicate the 1949 results and even the series again in the final two games. In addition, this weekend will be dedicated to the Oregon Dads on the campus and the Saturday basketball game will be the climax of the annual affair. Last year the Oregon Dads were on the campus for the Washington series and watched the Ducks win the pair from the Huskies.

As a result of the act on in Seattle it appears that the spectacular junior guard from Portland, Jack Keller, has earned a guard spot in the starting lineup. Keller, who formerly teamed with Bob Lavey in the second backcourt unit, replaces Ken Hunt in the opening lineup.
