Speech Contest Offers Prizes

An all-University extemporaneous speaking contest will be held sometime during the first part of February, Dr. E. R. Nichols, professor of speech, announced recently.

Prizes will be offered to contestants in amount of $50 for first, $30 for second, and $20 for third from the Jewett fund.

The general subject chosen for students to use as a basis for preparation is the United States Foreign Policy. After preparation on this subject, students will participate in a preliminary round of speaking. Those selected from this round will compete in the final contest.

Dates for both the preliminary and final rounds will be announced.

Subjects for speaking at both contests will be sub-topics of the general question, for example: What is the present United States foreign policy toward the Far East?

Records Incomplete

Sophomores who have made a 3.5 cumulative grade point during their freshman year here are asked to submit their names to the Office of Student Affairs in order to complete their records.

The office has no records of grade point averages and they are not available at the Registrar's Office.

Pi Delts Set Luncheon

Luncheon meetings each Thursday at the Anchorage have been scheduled by Pi Delta Phi, French honor society. The first of the meetings, which will be both social and business, with French conversation, was held this Thursday.

Social Science Associate Meets Today With University Officials

Elbridge Sibley, of the Social Science Research Council in Washington, D.C., is on the campus today meeting with University officials. Executive associate in charge of administration of fellowships and grants-in-aid for the council, Sibley will hold conferences throughout the day.

He is visiting 18 universities to discover persons who might potentially be Fellows of the Social Science Research Council—either predoctoral or postdoctoral. The council awards grants for research work to certain university professors.

At noon he will be honored at a luncheon at the Anchorage Cafe, where President Harry K. Newburn will preside. Others at the luncheon will be R. D. Clark, assistant to the dean of the College of Liberal Arts; heads of the social science departments, and staff members.

Formerly professor of sociology and social statistics at Bowdoin College, Sibley is the author of various articles and the book "Recruitment, Selection, and Training of Social Scientists."

He will leave Oregon Saturday morning for the University of California.
