Ducks Welcome BMOC For 'Special' Weekend

"Hello, Dad!" That old, traditional greeting of sons and daughters all over the nation has been ringing over the campus in gay chorus as University of Oregon students welcome their own private BMOC's to the Dad's Day celebration.

The familiar phrase starts off a day that is exclusively Dad's, which seems quite just, when one considers all the days that Dad has devoted exclusively to us.

Clothes, food, shelter—all are

Phi Delta Kappa To Initiate Sunday

Phi Delta Kappa, men's education honorary, will initiate new members at 4:30 Sunday.

Initiation ceremonies will be followed by a joint dinner with Pi Lambda Theta at the Osburn Hotel.

Dean P. B. Jacobson will speak to old and new members at the dinner.

All present members should sign notice at the School of Education if they plan to attend. Wives are welcome.

primary needs, of children as well as of adults. The difference lies in the inability of children to fulfill their own needs. The burden falls on Dad; Dad, with Mom always by his side helping, clothes his daughter from diapers to formals, and his son from the same modest beginnings to a tux.

Dad buys food ranging from strained carrots to juicy, red beefsteak. Dad rents, builds, or buys a house, apartment, or room in which to keep his family warm and dry.

Chances are your Dad has done much for you, his son or daughter, which he would not have done without you. He has forgone fishing trips so Sis could buy that "darling dress in the Fashionable window." He has gone without a new overcoat so Junior could buy a bicycle "that I've just got to have, Pop!"

Dad's done a lot—and he will do a lot more. But today is Dad's day. "Hello, Dad!"

Football forecasters appear to be infringing on the weather man's right at wrong guessing.

It gets dark early these days. The Hole-in-One Club should grow

Father Dear May Like to Wonder But Things Haven't Changed a Bit

By BARBARA JEREMIAH

Ever stop to wonder why dear old Dad leaves job, home, and family to trudge through hail, snow, rain, Albany and higher water to make his annual visit to the campus?

If you've done a better public relations job than a monthly telegram beginning "Please send me . . ." maybe his curiosity has been aroused.

Maybe he wants to find out if Taylor's really serves such wonderful coffee.

Maybe he wonders if board bills really are $98.50 a month.

Maybe he wants to meet the econ professor who breathes fire and can't get a decent haircut because of the horns on his head.

Maybe he doubts that 8 a.m. in Eugene is earlier than 8 a.m. anywhere else in the world.

Maybe he'd like to see the view from Hendricks Park or Skinners Butte.

Maybe he wants to investigate why there aren't any laundry facilities in Eugene.

Maybe he's aroused because lectures are written for an audience of Einsteins or because assignments are given for a week with nine days in it.

Maybe he's indignant because the taxpayers' money is being spent on an addition to an apparently non-existent library.

Maybe he wonders if it really is impossible to have a date for less than his yearly dues to the Multnomah Athletic Club.

Maybe he wants to decide if the family should vacation at the Playground instead of Yellowstone Park next summer.

Maybe he's worried about your foot that the housemother slammed the door on last Saturday.

Maybe he's afraid you really are part of the great unwashed because you're forced to wear last year's fur or drive last year's car.

Maybe he's heard about the Oriental Art Museum.

Maybe he wonders if things really have changed.

Bradbury to Talk At Baptist Church

Dr. John Bradbury of New York City will be guest speaker at both morning and evening services Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

"Baptists of the World—Their Martyrdom and Witness" will be the topic of his 11 a.m. sermon. During the 7:30 p.m. service he will relate his recent experiences with a fact finding commission in Palestine.

In observance of National Youth Week the church youth council will contribute songs by a youth choir and mixed quartet to the evening service. John Chatt will be in charge.

All young people are invited by the church to a 5:30 p.m. buffet dinner in the lower dining room. Dr. Bradbury will talk on his world travels during the dinner.

Philadelphia House To Greet Visitors

Philadelphia House, new men's co-op, will hold open house Sunday from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

The new house, at 968 Alder Street, was started by 30 persons on the campus who recognized a need for an inter-demonimational co-op house.

After first starting as a club fall term, the group moved into the new house winter term.

Dr. Wright Goes To Princeton Meet

Dr. Gordon Wright, professor in History, leaves today for Princeton University where he will attend a conference of the Institute for Advance Study of France.

Dr. Wright will be among the twenty-five presenting papers at the conference. His paper is entitled "Communist Party and the Peasantry of France." These papers will later be compiled into a book to be published this summer.

Luncheon Tickets Available Today

A few Dads' Day luncheon tickets will be available this morning because of cancellations, Mrs. Nancy Harris, graduate placement office secretary, announced Friday.

The price of returned tickets will be refunded as long as there is a demand for resale, Mrs. Harris said. Tickets should be returned by at least 10:30 this morning, she stated.
