Browsing Room Hour Canceled

The Ethel R. Sawyer browsing room hour will not be held next week due to the Religious Evaluation Week activities.

The Metropolitan Opera broadcast of "The Marriage of Figaro," will be heard as usual in the browsing room at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Also scheduled for the browsing room this week is Wednesday night's Lecture-Forum Series. Dr. R. R. Huestis, professor of zoology, will discuss Kurt Stern's Human Genetics. Dr. C. W. Clancy, professor of biology, will lead the discussion.

A display of books from the Ethel R. Sawyer collection and pictures of the late Miss Sawyer in plays in which she appeared are on display in wall cases in the lobby of the library this week.

Roeker to Present Paper at Meeting

William A. Roeker, professor of Germanic languages, will present a paper, "The Weak Present and the Imperative Future," at the regional meeting of the American Association of Teachers of German to be held at Reed College in Portland Saturday.

D. M. Dougherty, head of the Foreign Language Department, and several members of the German Department, including Roeker and Rudolph Ottenbacher, instructor in Germanic Languages, will attend the meeting.

Berg to Preview Women's Styles

Oregon women will have a chance to preview coming spring and summer fashions at a style show to be presented on the campus by Charles F. Berg of Portland, Feb. 22.

The show, sponsored by the YWCA, Associated Women Students and Womens' Athletic Association, will be held in Alumni Lounge, Gerlinger Hall, at 3:45 p.m.

Especially featured will be sportswear in denims and cottons. A tea will be given following the show. Janice Hughes is chairman of the affair.

Election of officers for the three groups is scheduled for the same day, with voting from 12 to 6 p.m. in Gerlinger lobby. Candidates will be introduced at a noon assembly in Gerlinger.

Matson of Washington State College as chairman.

Miss Floyd Crutchfield, Educational Adviser of Samuel French, Inc., western representative of the eastern firm which supplies plays to organizations, will be one of the discussion leaders.

The Civic and Community Groups will meet in 102 and 104 Villard with James Cameron from the Portland Civic Theater. One of the features of this group meeting will be the presentation of Tennessee Williams' one-act play, "The Portrait of a Madonna."

YES, MY DARLING DAUGHTER

The Very Little Theater of Eugene will present a regular performance of "Yes, My Darling Daughter" in the Laboratory Theater at 2:30 p.m. The Portland Civic Theater will do the same production arena style in 104 Villard.

Delegates will meet tonight in the Eugene Hotel for a buffet banquet.

Feature of Saturday's session will be the address by Barrett W. Clark, executive director of the Dramatists Play Service of New York. Clark will address the three-day assembly of the three-day conference on "Our National Theater."

The majority of the morning talks will be devoted to subjects on production, direction, techniques and playwriting.

"WINTERSSET" SATURDAY

The Portland Civic Theater will give a second performance of "Yes, My Darling Daughter" at 8 p.m. today, while the University Theater's "Thunder Rock" will close its five-day run. "Winterset" will be presented Saturday night.

In the opening session Thursday, "The Playhouse Idea," was discussed by Dr. Warren Lee, University of South Dakota. Ideas on "A National Theater Through the National Assembly" were given by Jack Morrison, University of California.

President Harry K. Newburn welcomed the delegates to Oregon and invited them to inspect the facilities and additions of the campus.

GREETINGS EXTENDED

Greetings were brought from the American Educational Theater Association and the American National Theater and Academy.

Serving as chairman of the session was Fred Cuthbert, school of Architecture and Allied Arts, and president of the Eugene Very Little Theater.

Delegates inspected and toured the theater and remodeled Villard before the first general session.

A complete program of today's and Saturday's events is given on page three.

31st Press Conference To Attract About 175 To Campus Next Week

Approximately one-hundred and seventy-five Oregon publishers, editors, and newspapermen, as well as members of the University School of Journalism, are expected to attend the 31st annual Oregon Press Conference on Feb. 17 and 18 in Eugene.

A program emphasizing news and editorial problems has been arranged to appeal to all newspapermen. Sessions will be held in the new University Theater.

Washington author-reporter-columnist Marquis W. Childs, featured speaker, will address the conference the afternoon of Feb. 17. Childs is the fourth annual Eric W. Allen Memorial Fund lecturer. He will discuss news coverage at the nation's capital.

Friday morning "Editorial Problems of Special Editions," a panel discussion, will be led by Al Currey of the Eugene Register-Guard. Bill Jenkins of the Klamath Falls Herald and J. Don Lynch of the Ontario Argus-Observer will also participate.

Speaker for a joint luncheon of press conference delegates and University faculty members at John Straub Hall Friday noon will be Chancellor Paul C. Packer of the Oregon State System of Higher Education.

On Friday afternoon another panel discussion will be held on the subject "Attempts to Restrict the Press." Warren C. Price of the School of Journalism will lead the panel.
