

Fireside Speakers Set for Tuesday

Fireside speakers for Religious Evaluation Week discussions in living organizations Tuesday evening were announced Sunday by Co-chairmen Mary Stadelman and Herb Nill.

Speakers will lead discussions in living groups, aided by the results of last week's campus opinion poll, given to determine the topics of highest interest to students.

Religion and marriage and religion and science were the problems most often mentioned by students polled by the informal questionnaire.

The luncheon for orientation of fireside speakers will be held Tuesday noon instead of Wednesday noon as stated in the Religious Evaluation Week programs, distributed to campus living organizations.

Dedication Ceremonies

city's educational program.

Tells of Growth

In the ceremony, broadcast over KOAC, R. E. Kleinsorge, chairman of the building committee of the State Board of Higher Education, told of growth of the U.O. physical plant. In the past nine years the campus area has been increased by 21 per cent. Value has risen from $4,000,000 in 1941 to $14,000,000 today.

"The building program must be continued with all possible speed, for this program has been trying only to catch up with present needs, and not with future population increases," Kleinsorge stated.

Johnson Talks

Lee Jacobs, president of the Oregon State Broadcasters Association, acted as master of ceremonies for the dedication. Art Johnson, ASUO president, gave the student's opinion of the new buildings. The Oregon Band introduced and closed the ceremony.

Following the dedication the buildings were open for public inspection. Conducted tours were sponsored by service honoraries and Carson residents.

Visitors had a chance to see all the conveniences of Carson Hall, including its dining room and kitchen. In Villard Hall, the University Theater and backstage facilities were shown, as were the speech and radio departments. Guests could witness the student broadcast of "Macbeth" from the third floor of Villard at 3 p. m.

Special Program

In the Music School, teaching and practice rooms were open for inspection. From 2 to 3 p. m. a special program by the faculty was presented in the Music School Auditorium.

Beginning at 4 p. m. the home economics department held its anniversary tea in Chapman Hall, celebrating its 10th year in its present quarters. Mabel Wood, department head, was in charge.

in ourselves feelings and impressions of life which we could not otherwise get."

Most Successful

The Saturday afternoon session closed what was, according to Horace W. Robinson, director of the University Theater and founder of the conference, the most successful Northwest Drama Conference since its inception in 1948. Four hundred delegates attended the three day convention.

The conference, a regional meet of the American Educational Theater Association, was attended by several prominent theatrical persons from outside the Northwest. Mr. Clark, presently director of the Dramatists Play Service in New York City, claims with Dr. Warren Lee of the University of South Dakota, the record for coming the longest distance.

Lee Speaks

Dr. Lee, director of the Black Hills Playhouse in South Dakota and a member of the resolutions committee of the conference, spoke at the opening session last Thursday on "The Playhouse Idea."

Several delegates attended from California, including Miss Floyd Crutchfield, representative of Samuel French, Inc. in Hollywood, Jack McKenna of UCLA, and J. Fenton McKenna of San Francisco State College. McKenna was toastmaster of the buffet banquet in the Eugene Hotel Friday night.

Discussions on Theater

Friday and Saturday were taken up with discussions in various phases of the theatrical field. The Saturday discussions were led by Warren Lounsbury, University of Washington, in the technical field; Helen Weed, Tacoma Little Theater, in business and promotion; Norman Philbrick, Stanford, in play-writing, and William Miller, University of Nevada, in direction.

A special presentation of Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset," first University Theater production this year, was viewed by delegates Saturday night.

place them in sealed envelopes for filing. The reports will not be returned to professors until winter term grades are in the registrar's office.

No Names

Names are not placed on the opinion sheets. However, information such as year in school and grade point average is requested.

Results of the rating will be known only to the individual professor, for use in improving his presentation of course material.

Letters are going out to faculty members today asking them whether they care to participate in the program.

Commendation Received

The ASUO Executive Council and the rating committee hope that all members of the faculty will participate, Johnson said.

A brief commendation from the National Association, many compliments from other schools, and requests for information on last year's Oregon rating program have been received by the ASUO.

Tonal Thoughts

Interesting tonal thoughts were expressed in Johnny Richard's "Soliloquy," Pete Rugulo's "Mirage," and Bob Graettinger's "Incident in Jazz." The sheer beauty of rhythm was found in Laurindo Almeida's "Amazonia," Shorty Rogers' "Rogers Expression," and Chico O'Farrel's "Cuban Episode."

And for plain pretty music, much satisfaction is garnered from Bill Russo's "Solitaire," Maynard Ferguson's tremendous trumpet reweaving of "All the Things You Are," Milt Bernhardt's beautiful trombone with "Love for Sale," and June Christy's fine singing.

Good String Section

Other incidents that lend to making this the finest modern music concert to be seen are the facility of the string section, the "Tone Poem—for Voice and Orchestra," the bongo drumming of Carlos Vidal, the interesting combinations of instruments and sounds, and the enthusiasm the musicians show in what they are doing.

Many of the compositions performed at the Portland Auditorium were, as yet, unnamed so it is difficult to refer to them. But, the overall impression received is a very positive one.

You might get a little clearer picture of where music is headed—and why. You might form a few new opinions of music. But, one thing I know for very sure, you'll be sorry when Kenton stops tonight.

Mistake Rectified

As a result of an oversight on the part of the business side of the Emerald, Willamette Park suffered an injustice from their ad Friday. The ad side takes this space to apologize to the management for this oversight.

Religious Events

Today's schedule of Religious Evaluation Week events:

7:30 a. m.—Morning Worship, Alumni Hall, Gerlinger.

12 Noon—Luncheon for Dr. Gilkey, Faculty Club.

4 p. m.—Major address, "The Impotence of Second-Hand Religion," by Dr. Gilkey, University Theater.

7 p. m.—"Question Box," informal discussion with Dr. Gilkey, Westminster House.
