Sophomore Wisdom

Our other communication, via one of the Robins-That-Herald-In-The-Spring-Tra-La, was from Corvallis High School. We have readers in Corvallis; perhaps this is because we went to high school ourselves, and never quite recovered.

These people in Corvallis could be putting their time to much better use by reading things about John Warren, TNE, and other things which are far more representative of University of Oregon Culture.

But we are happy to have them, just the same. Along with Mr. Noe.

Our life has been vaguely unhappy lately. Our mortal enemies, the freshman pledges, snuck (a part of the verb to sneak) lately, taking with them part of the Canasta deck, some plumbing, and other necessities. And, whilst we slept, they printed some uncomplimentary remark in lipstick on our brow.

It had smeared by the time we woke up, and we thought for a moment that we were bleeding to death. The letters were blurred beyond all recognition—which is just as well for our peace of mind and ego.

Who's in Charge Here?

last week; stepped on too many toes and caused too many raised eyebrows. I guess I passed up those three well known monkeys who seem to reflect the policy of some columnists. This week, however, I am stepping on only a few toes. Nobody important gets chopped; just "boppers." Next week, who knows? I may start a campaign advocating planned parenthood for fruit flies. They may not like the idea but their protest will be such a small buzz that nobody important will hear it, no toes will be stepped on, and everybody will be happy.

'Mlle' Fiction Contest Open

Mademoiselle magazine has opened its annual College Fiction Contest for women undergraduates in accredited colleges throughout the country. The two winning stories will be published in the August 1950 issue of Mademoiselle, and the winners will each receive $500 for all rights.

Stories submitted in the 1950 contest may be 3,000 to 5,000 words in length. They should be typewritten on one side of paper only, and accompanied by contestant's clearly marked name, home address, college address, and college year. Stories which have previously appeared in undergraduate publications are acceptable if they have not been published elsewhere.

Mademoiselle's editors will judge all stories. Their decision will be final.

Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 15, 1950, and addressed to the College Fiction Contest, Mademoiselle, 122 East 42 Street, New York 17, New York.

U. O. Foreign Students Argue Marshall Plan

The International Relations Club will present a foreign student panel discussion on "What We Really Think of the Marshall Plan" at 7:30 p. m. Thursday night in the Men's Lounge, Gerlinger. The meeting will be public.

Square Dancers Meet Tonight

Members of the University square dancing group will meet tonight in the east gymnasium of the Men's PE Building, with beginners at 7:30 and regular dancers at 8 p.m.

Dancers are requested to bring soft-soled shoes that have not been worn on the street by Mrs. Margaret M. Logan, instructor in physical education. She also asks that women wear full cotton skirts.

Signs will be placed at the front door of the PE Building to direct dancers to the gym. The Heel-toe polka will be practiced in the beginners' session.

Miss Louise Henderson, graduate assistant in physical education, will direct tonight's group.

Education Topic For Foreign Meets

A special series of discussions on American education are now being presented at foreign student orientation meetings, held each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4 to 5 p.m. in the men's lounge of Gerlinger Hall.

Paul E. Eiserer, professor of education and psychology, is in charge of the series of lectures and discussions on phases of education of interest to foreign students. Several staff members are assisting him in the project.

Business Seniors Win Store Service Awards

Store service graduate awards have been granted to five seniors of the School of Business Administration.

The students will attend the University of Pittsburg and work for their master's degrees in retailing. They will receive a stipend of $500 and work part-time for credit in leading Pittsburg retail stores.

The seniors receiving the awards are Alvin W. Brown, Jr., Loma C. Heagle, Donald W. Lindstedt, George Van Leeuwen, and Calvin R. Smith.

Students' Names Asked

Students now holding University fee scholarships who are not planning to return spring term are asked by Mrs. Nancy Harris, scholarships and financial aid secretary, to contact her in 216 Emerald Hall immediately.
