

Weather . . .

Partly cloudy today with light showers in the afternoon. A high temperature of 54 was predicted for today by the Weather Bureau Sunday night. High for Sunday was 53, and the low last night was 34.

Oregon Daily EMERALD

Red Cross . . .

Representatives from each living organization are asked to attend a meeting which will explain the system of collection for the campus Red Cross drive, at 4 o'clock Tuesday in room 3 Commerce.

VOLUME LI

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1950

NUMBER 84

Conference Starts Today With Speech by Rogers On Chinese Art, Society

"Cultural Contributions of the Orient" will be considered at a two-day conference which opens here today.

The conference, sponsored by the University's Far Eastern Studies Committee, will present Millard B. Rogers, professor of art and curator of Oriental art at Stanford, and Wolfram Eberhard, professor of sociology at the University of California.

WAA Carnival Collects $670

More than 1300 students and townspeople took a campus holiday at "Coney Island," scene of the WAA carnival Friday night in the unfinished gym, Elizabeth Erlandson, co-chairman, announced Sunday.

Gross proceeds from the carnival reached $670. Ticket receipts for the carnival were about $200, Miss Erlandson said.

Paced by the "Gay Nineties Vaudeville" of Chi Omega and Phi Gamma Delta, biggest money-maker, carnival booths earned $360. Ten percent of booth proceeds will go to WAA.

"Dunk-a-Theta," sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Hall, and Kappa Alpha Theta, was judged the outstanding booth by a committee of four officials. A $10 record requisition was awarded the organizations.

Living groups may obtain proceeds from the carnival from Ann Darby, finance chairman, after Feb. 21. All funds must be collected by houses before March 7.

Women's Elections Slated Wednesday

Wednesday have been slated for women this week, with a fashion show and annual elections planned by the Associated Women Students, YWCA, and Women's Athletic Association.

Charles F. Berg of Portland will show coming fashions for spring and summer at the style show in Alumni Lounge, Gerlinger Hall, beginning at 3:45. Clothes for all occasions will be featured by Berg's own models.

Following the show a tea will be held. Campus clothes will be in order for both events.

Election of officers of the three sponsoring organizations will be held from 1 to 6 p. m. in Gerlinger lobby. Candidates will be introduced during a noon assembly at 12:30. Nominations can be made from the floor at that time.

All women may vote for AWS officers, with student body cards required. Only members may vote in the YWCA and WAA elections.

Ticket Sale Today

Five-hundred tickets to the Oregon-OSC basketball game to be held at Corvallis Friday night go on sale today at the McArthur Court ticket office. These student tickets will sell for $1.50 each.

The two teams play again Saturday night at McArthur Court, in Oregon's last game of the season.

Four Piano Concert Tonight; Unique Selections Planned

The Four Piano Ensemble

'Arena' Production Slated at Mac Court

The fourth concert in the Eugene and University Civic Music Association series comes to McArthur Court this evening at 8:15 p. m., when the Four Piano Ensemble presents its unusual program.

The ensemble will play special arrangements by Stephen Kovacs, who organized the group. Kovacs' arrangements make it possible for the pianists to play one selection on four pianos at the same time.

Arena presentation of a musical attraction will be tried for the first time before a local audience. Four Steinway grands will be placed in the center of the court, to be equally visible to the whole audience.

System Liked

The system has been used throughout the East, and has met with audience approval. It allows, in concerts of this type, for the audience to get maximum view and hearing of the performers.

About 500 seats will be available on the main floor. Bleachers and balcony seats will also be open.

Nine numbers are programmed for tonight's concert, including selections from Wagner, Mozart, and Rimsky-Korsakoff. Use of four pianos enables audiences to enjoy a wide diversity of works not ordinarily found on keyboard programs.

Musical Success

Each of the pianists have had distinguished musical success previous to joining Kovacs in his Ensemble. Audrey Kooper has performed for Arthur Fielder with the Boston "Pops."

Sylvia Dickler has given many concerts since her first appearance with the National Orchestral Association in Carnegie Hall. Hans Heidemann made his debut at New York Hall, after recitals in Rochester and performances with the Boston Symphony.

Selections

Their selections tonight will include Concerto Grosso No. 12 by Handel; Wagner's Overture to "Tannhauser"; "Invitation to the Waltz" by von Weber; and "Flight of the Bumble Bee" by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Each member of the quartet is said to be an artist in his own right, and each has begun a successful career. Much of the Ensemble's success is attributed to Kovacs' brilliant arrangements.

Admission tonight will be by Music Association membership card or student body card. Doors open at 7:30 p. m.

Squeeze Tickets on Sale

Ticket sales for the Lemon-Orange Squeeze will begin today in the living organizations on campus.

The tickets are 25 cents per person, and will be sold by a freshman representative from each house.

Ticket sales in the Co-op will begin Thursday. The Lemon-Orange Squeeze will be held Saturday night after the game in McArthur Court.

Topping today's schedule will be Rogers' talk at 8 p. m. in 207 Chapman on "Art and Society in China," open to the public.

A gallery tea will run from 3 to 5 p. m. in the Museum of Art and a "tour" of the Oriental art collection will be conducted from 4 to 4:30 in the form of a dialogue by Rogers and Wallace Baldinger, professor of art.

Tuesday at 2 p. m. in 206 Oregon, Eberhard will lead a panel discussion on "The Nature of Chinese Civilization." A gallery tour of the Murray Warner Collection in the Museum of Art will begin at 4:15, led by Baldinger.

A public lecture on "Science and Society in China," by Eberhard at 8 p. m. Tuesday in 207 Chapman will be the concluding event.

The entire conference is open to students, faculty members, and the public.

Childs Speaker At Press Confab

Blame for increasing lack of faith in the press can be placed on the interpretive reporter who interprets the news, according to Washington Columnist Marquis Childs, who addressed the 31st annual Oregon Press Conference Friday.

Childs spoke as the Eric W. Allen Memorial lecturer, sponsored annually in honor of the late dean of the School of Journalism. He spoke to more than 200 Oregon journalists and University faculty and journalism students on "The Role of the Interpretive Reporter."

Childs also discussed the "growing gulf between government and the press" during the administrations of the last three presidents. He said that by President Truman's efforts to stop news "leaks," the public isn't receiving news it is entitled to know.

Voorhies Awards

The conference also heard Marshall Dana, of the Oregon Journal, who addressed a banquet on "Oregon's Newspaper Stalwarts." Dana also presented eleven Voorhies awards to Oregon's outstanding newsmen. The honors were awarded the following:

C. S. Jackson, founder of the Oregon Journal; Harvey W. Scott, (Please turn to page seven)

Panhellenic, Dorm Group to Discuss Rushing

Panhellenic and dormitory representatives will discuss rushing as affected by the new freshman living-in rule Tuesday night.

The Greek group voted as preference for holding rush week during freshman orientation week beginning next year, Fran Robson, president, stated.

Oregon to Host Students For Relations Meeting

High school students throughout Oregon will be on the campus Feb. 24 and 25 for the third annual International Relations League Conference.

General theme is "Will Present United States Foreign Policy Promote Peace and Prosperity?" Many individual topics on international affairs will be covered.

Sigma Delta Chi Initiates Thirteen

Five undergraduates and eight professional members were initiated into the Oregon chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism honorary, here recently.

Undergraduates initiated Feb. 17 were Bob Dorang, Eugene Rose, James Knight, Dick Jacques, and John Barton. Professional members initiated were Lee Jacobs, station manager of KBKR, Baker; Lionel Trommlitz, station manager of KERG, Eugene; and H. Quentin Cox, station manager of KGW, Portland.

H. P. Hornish, managing editor of the Coos Bay Times; Ralph Stuller, editor and publisher of the Coquille Valley Sentinel; Don Lynch, publisher of the Ontario Argus-Observer; Eric Allen Jr., city editor of the Medford Mail-Tribune; and R. G. Hubbard, northwest editor of the Portland Oregon Journal.

Main speakers, who will discuss various aspects of the international situation, are John Gange, director of the Woodrow Wilson School of Foreign Affairs at the University of Virginia, and Mrs. Grace Bok Holmes, liaison officer for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Students will participate in sessions in the form of "model" U. S. Senate meetings, as well as roundtable committees, each discussing a different phase of foreign policies or problems.

Sponsoring organizations of the conference are the Oregon Education Association, in cooperation with the University of Oregon and the General Extension Division of the Oregon State System of Higher Education.

University students helping with the event are Clair Cordier, Marilyn Dawley, Antoinette Kuzmanich, Glenn Morgan, Nancy O'Connor, Elvin Oesterich, Morris Sahr, Grace Sargent, and Sally Waller. They are members of the International Relations Club.

Advance Sign-up Continues Today

Advance registration processes for Spring term continue today, with all steps open to non-veteran students. Registration material is available at the registrar's office in Emerald Hall.

Registration will end Mar. 4. Feb. 24 is the deadline for completing the first three steps, which include obtaining material, building study program with advisers, and enrolling in courses with departments.

A $5 late fee will be assessed students here winter term who don't complete the first five steps in the advance registration period. Fees may be paid through Mar. 4.