

The Theatrical and Cinemas

As the Partisan Review magazine so aptly remarked—maybe Hollywood thinks the only liberal Southerners speak with a Northern accent.

The story is that of a negro accused of murdering a white man and the attempts of three persons who believe in his innocence and his right to justice to stop the Southern crowd from lynching him.

The story is a marked revolt from the traditional type of Hollywood plot (the traditional type that is slowly becoming not so traditional), and was a risk on the part of the studio—MGM, which was taking a chance on losing at the box-office. And that is a chance MGM seldom takes.

However they apparently knew what they were doing, because the film has met with audience approval whenever it has been shown.

There's fodder for Jimmy Fidler and his "good pictures make good money" argument which he uses every other day or so.

Campus Forum Holds Panel On Cheating

"This was the first time I ever cheated. Honest!" This typical statement made by students caught cheating was the main point of a panel discussion held Friday night by the Campus Forum.

H. R. Taylor, head of the psychology department, brought forth the faculty point of view while Joan Mimnaugh, Anne Case, and Jim Sanders discussed student opinions.

Faculty members think that to cut down on cheating, objective tests are the most effective, Taylor said. The student debaters felt that difficult essay tests would be the only solution.

Of the honor system the students had but one comment, "I'm on my honor to get the best grades I can."

The discussion brought out that cheating exists on this campus. Although it doesn't compare to organized cheating elsewhere, it should be made as difficult as possible, forum members felt.

Mental Hygiene Topic at Meeting

A forum, "How Can Eugene Best Meet Its Mental Health Needs?" will be discussed at the Eugene YMCA's next Little Town Hall at 8 p. m. Feb. 23 in the Congregational Church.

Speakers will be Paul E. Eiserer, assistant professor of psychology and education; John Haskins, Roseburg doctor and manager of the Veterans Administration Hospital; John E. Tysell, M. D.; and the Rev. Wesley G. Nicholson of the First Congregational Church. Forum moderator is Robert D. Clark of the University.

The various topics, "Development of Mental Health Movement," "How Mental Hygiene Clinics Serve the Community," "A Doctor Looks at Mental Hygiene," and "A Minister Looks at Mental Hygiene," will be followed by a discussion, question-answer period and refreshments and a social period.

Students Invited To Talent Show, Fun Fest Event

University students are invited to the International Fun Fest coffee hour and talent show Saturday, co-chairman Dolores Jeppesen announced Sunday.

Both events are part of the all-day program given by University foreign students honoring the OSC Cosmopolitan Club. The coffee hour will last from 2 to 3 p. m. and the talent show from 3 to 4:30 in Alumni Hall, Gerlinger.

Talent Show Planned

Oregon and Oregon State foreign students themselves will put on the talent show, which will feature musical numbers, dances, and a skit.

One of the featured performers will be Oregon's Austrian foreign student Ernie Lutz, organist and pianist, who will accompany several of the numbers.

The Fun Fest's program will begin with registration at 2 p. m., followed by the coffee hour and talent show. A dinner at 5:30 on Gerlinger's sun porch and a dance from 7 to 10 p. m. on the third floor will complete the schedule.

Guests for Dance

Foreign students will be guests of the Junior Panhellenic and Junior InterFraternity Council at the Lemon-Orange Squeeze Saturday night.

The Fun Fest, an innovation this year, will replace the International Festival given in previous years. Co-sponsor with the foreign students is the YWCA International Affairs committee.

Chemistry Professor To Attend Meeting

Pierre Van Rysselberghe, professor of chemistry, will attend a meeting of the Puget Sound Section of the American Chemical Society in Seattle Tuesday and Wednesday.

Van Rysselberghe will also speak at a chemistry seminar at the University of Washington. The subject of his speech will be electrochemistry of corrosion and the application of the polarographic method to corrosion methods.

The janitor who leaves the heat off this winter will cause a lot of his tenants to burn up.

DuShane Named As Area Officer

Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs, was named vice-president of the Northwest Council of Guidance and Personnel Associations for the Oregon area at a conference last weekend in Tacoma, Wash.

DuShane succeeds Clifford L. Constance, registrar, who formerly held the office.

Scenes from a modern French play, "Topaze," will be presented by first and second-year French students, at the next meeting of "Les Thelemites," French club, at 8:15 p. m., Tuesday in Wesley House.

Students who will take part in the scenes are from the classes of Miss Raymonde Richard, instructor in Romance Languages.

"Topaze," by the contemporary French playwright Marcel Pagnol, is a comedy of the late 1920's.

French songs and records will follow the program. Refreshments will be served.

Alumni Group To Meet Feb. 25 At University

The second-annual meeting of the Oregon Alumni Association will be held on the campus Saturday, Feb. 25. Robert S. Miller, Portland, will preside at the meeting.

Visiting alumni will have a full schedule, including a luncheon at the Faculty Club, tour of new buildings, and a business session and dinner at the Eugene Hotel.

A meeting with faculty and administrative members of the University is also planned. Football Coach Jim Aiken will speak at the dinner meeting. Activities close with the Oregon-Oregon State basketball Saturday night at McArthur Court.

Victor P. Morris Addresses Meet

Dean Victor P. Morris of the School of Business Administration addressed the National Conference of Christians and Jews in Coos Bay Sunday. The meeting was sponsored as a part of world brotherhood month, to promote better world relationship and international understanding.

Dean Morris plans another trip the next week, when he will speak before the Northwest Association of Jewelers in Portland Feb. 28. He will speak on current economic problems.

Federal Career Talks Thursday Open to University Students

Students may attend a comprehensive survey of careers with the federal service this Thursday in 3 Fenton at 2 p. m.

Designed to inform students on career opportunities with the government, the session is being arranged by the Federal Personnel Council of Portland and the University's Graduate Placement Service.

Representatives of several federal agencies will speak on opportunities in specific fields.

Discussion Slated

Arnold Standing, president of the Federal Personnel Council, will talk on the importance of federal careers in the general session. Other phases of civil service, including methods for entering government work, will be discussed. A discussion period will end this meeting.

At 3 p. m. section meetings will be held at various buildings on the campus. These groups will deal with occupations and requirements in particular fields. A federal personnel man will be on hand to discuss appointment with interested students. Following these meetings students may interview agency representatives.

Schedule Listed

Following is a schedule of section meetings and specific fields to be dealt with:

- Accounting and Auditing (206 Commerce).
- Law (307 Fenton).
- Planning and Architecture (107 Arch).
- Public Relations (2 Commerce).
- Science (107 Commerce).
- Secretarial Office Management (106 Commerce).
- Social Science and General Business (105 Commerce).

History Professor Travels to France On Research Trip

Dr. Gordon Wright, professor of history, will attend a special seminar class at Princeton University and then travel to France for research work, during his sabbatical leave for the 1950-51 school year.

Wright will enroll in the Princeton Institute for Advanced Study next fall, to take a special class on France.

In December he will go to France to study peasant politics. Wright has been awarded a fellowship by the Social Science Council for his study in France. He will concentrate on French provinces, and will also visit Paris for information on central agricultural agencies.

Wright will concentrate on developments in France since 1918. This will be his third long research trip to France.

Turnbull Co-authors Magazine Article

"Women Have Secured a Place in Big-Time City Rooms" is the title of an article written by George S. Turnbull, former dean of the University school of journalism, now on the journalism staff of the University of Nebraska, and Freda Goodrich Mowrey, women's club editor of the Portland Oregonian, in the Feb. 11 issue of Editor and Publisher.

The article concerns the number and merit of women employed by the nation's newspapers, and points out that women are in journalism to stay.

An introduction in the fight ring is one thing—a knockdown quite another.

OREGON'S WILD about Vaughn's "Bamboo"

The whole town's humming the drum-beat rhythm of Vaughn Monroe's BAMBOO . . . his latest big RCA VICTOR hit! It's the record everyone wants—make sure you get yours! Looks like sales will top a million!

English Registration Deadline Feb. 22

English composition and literature students must register before Wednesday if they wish to remain in their present classes.

Composition students may register in 107-A Friendly. Literature registration will be held in 2 Friendly.

Students unable to see advisers during the pre-registration period should fill out a reservation card to assure themselves of a place in the section they desire.

Anyone wishing to change sections must wait until Feb. 23 to register, at which time they may sign up for unfilled classes.
