

DUCK TRACKS

By SAM FIDMAN
Emerald Sports Editor

Some good ideas have taken root, and they have lost ground due to one reason or another. One that seemed pretty fair at its birth was the Frosh versus the intramural all-stars basketball game which proved to be a real dilly two years ago. The reason for the sudden death of the project does not seem too apparent—but in their one meeting at McArthur Court, the intramural crew ran the yearlings into the ground.

One Carl Heldt, now locally defunct, had charge of the "Webfootsies" and after the tussle, had more ill-will to spread about the IM stars than one Carter has pills.

Quite a few of the boys who "showed up" the Frosh are still around IM basket, and are certainly right up there when it comes to a display of hoop know-how and ability.

Don Kirsch's Frosh are one of the best groups of one-year men in many a four-year span. They have rolled up a record of 16 wins against only one defeat, and their last game is set for this evening at the Oregon State Rook stronghold in Corvallis.

DON KIRSCH

In Case of Objection

Coach Kirsch, according to reliable reports, would not be adverse to lining up another game or two for his outfit—and the IM boys are easily more than willing to appear on the old Igloo playing floor.

An opportune time to stage the clash might be before the OSC-Oregon affair Saturday—but in case there would be too much objection that the IM stars have not had enough time to workout together, etc., etc., the date could well be set for the following Friday.

In case the latter idea holds a fuller percentage of H₂O, the powers that be might unite their Weyerhauser-ridden clavicals and think up a coinciding affair for Friday night; or maybe the University of Oregon campus is too socially elite for an informal juke box drag—.

Don Kirsch, who has really been earning his pay during the last few weeks, has sent out the big call. All prospective frosh and varsity baseball candidates have been asked to turn out today for an important confab at 6:30, in 101 P.E.

Kirsch asked that those who hope to don the Oregon diamond grab arrange their spring schedules so that they will be free after three o'clock every afternoon.

Down the Fairways

As an added feature, movies of the 1949 World Series will be shown at this afternoon's meeting. Kirsch also announced that pitchers will start working the kinks and rusty particles out of their arms this weekend.

Of course, where there is a pitcher there has to be—you've guessed it—a catcher. So, the give and take of baseball will start the grind early, with infielders and outfielders coming in for their licks starting March 6.

On the fairways, we understand that varsity mentor Sid Miligan has arranged for a freshman golf squad, to begin this spring.

A schedule is being kerked out so that all interested may be able to register under varsity golf, so as to receive credit. Play will be at Laurelwood, with qualifying rounds slated for the first two weeks of spring term. There will be a meeting next Monday, at 4:30, in the office of the director of athletics, of all persons interested in Frosh or Varsity golf.

Kirsch Calls Baseball Meeting; Freshmen Golfers to Organize o'clock in the afternoon. The World Series of 1949 will be shown at the meeting.

Kirsch also announced that pitchers and catchers will start working out this weekend, and the infielders and outfielders will begin working March 6.

Interpretive Reporter Answer, Not Blame for Distrust of Press

The answer, not the blame, for the increasing lack of faith in the press lies in the interpretive reporter who interprets the news, according to Marquis Childs who spoke to the Oregon Press Conference, last Friday. Childs' statement was incorrectly reported in a recent Emerald.

Childs spoke at "The Role of the Interpretive Reporter" at the conference Friday.

He also commented on President Truman's recent "negative" attitude toward the working press, and compared Truman's attitude to that of Franklin Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover, during the last years of their office.

"The same attitude prevails in the State Department," said Childs. "They said it is impossible to conduct a cold war with a press like the American press."

In further discussing the role of the interpretive reporter, Childs said that the reporter "must have a mature understanding of his responsibilities and functions and that editors must trust and rely on such reporters."

He also expressed the view that the interpretive reporter is obligated to present the points of view that might otherwise be excluded.

Chapman Movie Satire on War

"Generals Without Buttons," a satire on the causes of war, will be shown in 207 Champman tonight at 7 and 9 p. m. as one in the series of Wednesday night movies.

The film is about two French villages who have feuded for several generations, until the children of the village finally take over the fighting. When the children realize the silly prejudice and the futility of the affair, they call off the war, only to find that their parents renew the struggle.

The theme is brought out at the end of the story by one of the children remarking, "I suppose when we grow up we'll be as stupid as they are."

"Directors Jacques Daroy and Eugene Deslaw have used a cast of eager, fresh child actors," to portray the young warriors in the French film," Time magazine states.

Students must show their student body cards for admission to the showings, open to students and faculty members only.

'La Traviata' Film Tonight, Tomorrow

"La Traviata," the fifth foreign movie, will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at the Mayflower Theater.

Marie Cebotari, Lucia Englisch, and Claudio Gora star in the production based around a great singer who wished to star in Verdi's opera, "La Traviata." The story takes place in 1868.

Giovanni Malipiero sings Alfredo in the scenes presented from the opera.

The singing stars and the orchestra, chorus and ballet are from the Teatro Reale dell'Opera in Rome.

Committeemen Needed

Committees open are decorations, food, program, and clean-up.

Maguire Speaks At Law Initiation

Robert F. Maguire, prominent Portland attorney, was a guest speaker at an initiation held Feb. 18, by Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity.

Mr. Maguire recently returned from Germany. He served as a judge during the war crimes Trials.

He indicated in his talk that the German people were so impressed with the legal procedures carried on by the U. S. that a movement is under way among many German Law Lawyers to adopt the same system.

The use of cross-examination and the judges stating their views for publication impressed the German people immensely.

After the talk by Mr. Maguire the following men were initiated: Quintin Estell, Robert E. Jones, Don H. Sanders, Chris R. Marthaler, and Kenneth A. Poole.

Architecture School Sets Art Exhibition

The School of Architecture and Allied Arts will present a museum of modern art exhibition of photographic panels on the work of the German architect, Mies Van der Rohe, from Feb. 23 through Mar. 9.

Co-op Booth Planned

There will be a booth in the Co-op Thursday through Tuesday for contributions to the Red Cross fund-raising drive.

Delegates Attend Peace Confab

Delegates of the campus YWCA and the YMCA attended a Northwest Student Peace Conference at Oregon State College, Feb. 17, 18, and 19.

YWCA delegates from Oregon were: Billjean Riethmiller, vice-president; Velma Snellstrom, first vice-president; Pat Williams Brooks, Dolores Jeppeson, and Lillian Schott, committee chairmen; YWCA representative, David Swanson, president, and Bob Biggs, vice-president, also attended. Delegates representing almost every college and university in the northwest attended the conference.

The Oregon State Round Table sponsored the meet and contributions of religion, science, education, and technologies to the cause of peace were discussed in panels, forums, and seminars. Both Swanson and Biggs served as student forum leaders.

"The Farmer's Duty to World Peace," and "What Must Religion do to Make a World of Peace," were forum topics.

Two things every college man should know!

1. This is a Father. The kin you love to touch. Crusty old character. Wants you to be college-bred, but knows it's a four-year loaf with his dough. Spends time wondering how you'll turn out and when you'll turn in.

2. This is the "Manhattan" Burt. A doll-up, button-down with the soft roll that's the college man's staple diet. White and solid colors—all Size-Fixt (average fabric residual shrinkage 1% or less).
