

U.O. Professors Travel to Seattle For Confab

The University of Oregon will be represented by several language professors at the first Pacific Northwest Conference of Foreign Language Teachers, which will be held Wednesday to Friday at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Meetings of the regional chapter of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese and the American Association of Teachers of French will take place on Saturday.

British Columbia and Alberta, Canada, will be represented along with the states of Montana, Idaho, Utah, Washington, and Oregon.

Professors who will attend from Oregon are D. M. Dougherty, head of the Foreign Language Department; C. L. Johnson, associate professor of Romance Languages; R. L. Picard, assistant professor of Romance Languages; C. A. Kraft, instructor in Romance Languages; Mrs. Edna Landros, assistant professor of Classic Languages; E. P. Kremer, professor of Germanic Languages; and V. C. Strash, assistant professor of Slavic Language.

The theme of the conference will be "A New Look at the Teaching of Foreign Languages and Cultures."

Some of the related topics to be considered in various lectures are: "The Bearing of Language and Area Study on Foreign Language Teaching," "Writers Have to Know a Foreign Language," "Foreign Languages as Tools and as Humanities," "The Future of Language Teaching," "Futurable Languages," and "Foreign Languages and General Education."

Dougherty, who is chairman of the regional committee sponsoring the conference, will preside at the conference banquet in the Husky Union Building Banquet Room, tonight, and also at the final plenary session, Friday evening.

Johnson will preside Saturday at the Meeting of the Northwest Chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French.

ready." Eklund then cited an example of overcrowding of classrooms saying that educational opportunities are limited by such lack of space.

Q—Under a union of teachers, wouldn't teaching be more of a craft rather than a profession?

A—"Anyone who works under the restrictions of the teachers certainly do not have the characteristics of a profession. The characteristics of a profession are (1) some say as to fee, (2) some selection as to clientele, and (3) The power to select the qualifications necessary to enter the profession. Right now we are subject to the whims of the school administrations."

Q—Should teachers have a 48 hour week?

A—"Forty-eight hours in a working week is far too great. I would say it should be something less than 36 hours."

Q—Isn't it better if all worked on the assumption that the welfare of the child is uppermost?

A—"Anybody can agree to that—it's on our program."

thereby concluded one of the most outstanding prep athletic records this writer is familiar with. He participated in all four of the major sports and was outstanding in every one.

Star Player

In basketball Hank helped send the Huron high team to the State school. He won Honorable mention tournament each year he was in awards for the All-State team during his sophomore and junior seasons, and was placed in the first String Center spot on the All-State team his senior year. During his last hoop campaign, Hank scored a phenomenal 375 points which is a great record in itself!

Hank also starred on the grid-iron, playing tackle and end for three years, although he claims the Huron football teams "weren't outstanding."

Track Man

In the field of track Hank hurled the discus and won the state meet his last year with a toss of 133 feet.

During the summer Hank was a member of the Huron American Legion Junior Baseball team. He boasted a 5 won and 2 lost record as a pitcher and played first base when he was not on the mound.

Hank enjoys Oregon very much, especially the Frosh team. Concerning the squad's chances in future games, Hank comments, "If we play the ball we're capable of we should take everything, but if we stand around like we have done at times we deserve to get beat."

terminated to kill the hopes of the Orange men in their dreams of tying for the Northern Division crown.

Amacher Tops

The basketball statistics show that opponents in the Northern Division have scored .312 as compared to the .285 shooting average from the field, and in the gift shoot department the opposition leads .694 to .621. Lanky Bob Amacher who found himself in the closing series of the Duck schedule leads the best shooting average from the field with .378 and Jack Keller the Duck speedster tops the regulars with .301. Lynn Hamilton a reserve records the average in free throws with 1.000, and Mel Krause, the sparkling guard tops the regulars with a mark of .815.

With these records and the fire an determination the Ducks have shown in the past series, it should be a grand welcoming for the Duck mentor when he returns to the pavilion to lead the Ducks against the opposing Beavers from the valley to the north.
