

Oregon Grad to File For Lane-Linn Seat

Elmer Sahlstrom, Eugene attorney, announced Thursday he would file as a Democratic candidate for the joint Lane-Linn County seat in the State Senate. The seat has been occupied since 1943 by Angus Gibson of Junction City.

Sahlstrom, who has practiced law in Eugene since his graduation from the University of Oregon law school three years ago, has been active in Democratic party work. At the University he was president of the Young Democrats, and since that time has served on several committees for the Lane County Democratic organization. He is legal advisor to the state Young Democrats.

He is 32 years old, married and the father of one child. In addition to his law practice, he is a certified public accountant, and has had experience as a partner in a lumber firm. He has served three years on the Lane County Red Cross drive, and for two years on the Lane County Chest.

Sahlstrom is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Elks, Toastmasters, County, State and National Bar Associations, the Oregon Club, professional, legal and accounting societies, and the Lutheran Church.

Sahlstrom pointed out that no Democrat had represented Lane County in the State legislature since 1937, that no Lane County Democrat had sat in the Senate since Edward F. Bailey's term expired in 1931, and that no Democrat had held the joint Lane-Linn seat since Fred Fisk, who held it from 1923 to 1927.

Work of van der Rohe, Modern Architect, Shown at Art School

The work of Mies van der Rohe, pioneer in the field of modern architecture, is now on display in the Gallery of the University School of Architecture and Allied Arts.

Van der Rohe is Director of the School of Architecture at the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago.

The exhibit, which will continue until Mar. 9, contains a collection of photographic enlargements, renderings, a model and plans. It traces van der Rohe's work and furniture design from its early European beginnings three decades ago to his most recent project for the development of a new campus for the Illinois Institute.

One of Largest Displays

The latter is already in progress, and is viewed as one of the largest modern architectural undertakings in the United States.

Nearly 25 years ago, van der Rohe conceived the idea of prefabrication in buildings, which is just now coming into general use.

Penn. State Man Visits Campus

A Thursday and Friday visitor to several departments on the campus was Dr. Ray Carpenter, professor of psychology at Pennsylvania State College.

Carpenter, on a grant from the Carnegie Corporation, is making a nation-wide tour to survey the organization and administration of graduate study and research programs in American universities. As a sideline, he is also studying the effects of mass media on college instruction.

While at Oregon, Carpenter met with the top administrative and visited several departments.

His chief interests were in the psychology, audio-visual, and speech department which, he said, "has the best radio facilities in speech that I've yet seen on my tour."

After several years in faculty positions at Columbia, Yale, and Harvard, Carpenter moved to Penn State where he was named professor of psychology in 1946. Since that time he has added several more titles. Aside from his instructive duties he edits two technical journals, The Psychological Cinema Register and Behavior.

Dr. Carpenter spent Friday afternoon at Oregon State. He returned to speak at a psychology seminar on the Social Behavior of Primates. He gained his knowledge on this topic while serving as research coordinator of the New York Zoological Society and as a member of the Asiatic Primate Expedition to Siam and Sumatra.

Carpenter's original plans included a four day stay at Oregon, but he was delayed and was forced to cut short his visit.

ATO Conclave Held

Alpha Tau Omega fraternity members held their annual province conclave Saturday and Sunday at the local chapter house.

Delegates from the University of British Columbia, University of Washington, Oregon State College, and the University participated. Most of the visitors were chapter officers.

A Founder's Day banquet Saturday night ended the weekend program.

High School Pupils Will Hear Fogdall

Vergil S. Fogdall, director of men's affairs, left Eugene Sunday to speak on the University before high school seniors in several Oregon towns.

Representatives from Oregon State College, the Colleges of Education, and the State System of Higher Education will also make the tour. The group will visit Redmond, Bend, Prineville, Madras, and The Dalles.

Fogdall will return to Eugene Wednesday night.

Census to Include University Students

To Eugene's population, "practically as a gift," will be added the nearly 6,000 students in the University of Oregon and Northwest Christian College for 1950 census purposes.

In line with a recent decision of the U. S. Bureau of the Census, all students in institutions of higher learning will be counted in the population of the city in which the school is located.

So the population of Eugene—and of Corvallis—will be larger by the number of college students enrolled at census time.

Insurance Film Set for Tonight

"Your Tomorrow," a 40-minute film concerning the business operations of an insurance company, will be shown at 7:30 tonight in 207 Chapman Hall.

The film was produced by the North American Companies, an insurance group with central offices in Philadelphia, Penn.

Franklin H. Beardsley, supervisor of college recruitment for the company, will show the film and interview students interested in insurance work. Interview appointments may be made with Beardsley only at the film showing.

The firm is interested in employing 1950 graduates for administrative work in insurance.

Two recent graduates are working with the company now. Warren Rickey '49 is in Philadelphia working under their training program and Oscar Holm '47 is a special agent in Seattle.
