

Beaux Art Ball Theme Due Today

Today is the last day for submitting ideas in the Beaux Arts Ball theme contest.

The dance theme must be broad enough to work into adequate decoration and suitable costumes. Only students in the School of Architecture and Allied Arts may enter the competition.

A prize for the winning suggestion will be awarded Monday, Mar. 6. Entries may be dropped in one of the three boxes placed in the school.

Jack Broome is in charge of the contest and the annual costume ball, which will be given Apr. 8 in Gerlinger Annex. He announced that attending faculty members will be asked to wear costumes this year.

Statisticians Write Book

W. J. Dixon and F. J. Massey, professors of mathematics, are the authors of a mathematics text, already published in experimental form and scheduled for printing in regular stiff-back form next January by McGraw-Hill publishers.

The text in paper bound form is now in use in numerous Pacific coast colleges. It is intended for basic statistics courses.

PE Profs to Survey Hood River Schools

Two members of the University School of Health and Physical Education will make a three-day survey of all secondary schools in Hood River County this month, at the request of the school superintendent, Ralph E. Jones.

Vernon S. Sprague and Myrtle S. Spade, professors of physical education, will spend Mar. 13, 14, and 15 studying and evaluating the health and physical education programs. Upon completion of the tour they will make recommendations to Supt. Jones for improvement of instruction programs in that area.

Sub-Chairmen Petitions Due for 'Duck Preview'

Petitions for sub-chairmen of "Duck Preview" Weekend are due Friday. They may be submitted to Donna Buse at Delta Zeta or Dick McLaughlin at Chi Psi.

Chairmen are needed for entertainment, clean-up, decoration, and food committees.

Campbell to Speak

Laurence R. Campbell, professor of journalism, will speak on "Exploring Journalism" at the Pacific Slope School Press clinic at the University of Washington Mar. 3 and 4.

Women's Honorary To Pledge Six

Phi Beta, women's music and speech honorary, will hold formal pledging for spring term at 6:30 tonight at the Chi Omega house.

Spring term pledges are Sharon Anderson, Sue Dimm, Kathleen Harris, Donna Knoll, Sue Lichty, and Julie Beth Perkins.

Members are asked to wear white blouses, dark skirts, and heels.

Oregana pictures will be taken during the meeting.

The Red Cross last year was served by an estimated 1,450,000 volunteers.

CLASSIFIED

COLUMNS

The
PEOPLE'S MARKET PLACE