The band was originated in Portland in 1940 by the band's singer-banjo strummer, Monte Ballou, who has gathered together men who could improvise and who knew what Dixieland jazz was.

By day, the Castle troupe is a conventional group of Portland businessmen. Ballou is an accomplished calypso singer as well as being one of the nation's top jazz record collectors.

Drummer Homer Welch is radio station KGW's program director. Clarinetist, Bob Short works for an electrical appliance firm, and George Phillips, trombonist, is a working musician who last year played with the Portland symphony orchestra.

The group was invited to play at Hollywood's annual Jazz Jamboree in October, where such jazz artists as Muggsy Spanier and Freeman were featured.

Rebec House Gets Participation Cup

Rebec house Thursday night won the Participation cup awarded annually by the Women's Athletic Association. Delta Delta Delta came in second and University house third for the award.

The cup was awarded on a point basis, points being given on the basis of new members taken in, checks earned by old members, number of tournaments entered, number of semi-finals entered, and tournaments won. Point results of all houses are posted on the Gerlinger bulletin board.
